Ground AirWest Until Probe: Mayors

Acting Victoria Mayor Bill Tindall today joined Vancouver Mayor Jack Volrich in calling for the suspension of AirWest Airlines flights until completion of an investigation into Saturday's air disaster.

Tindall said he fully supports Volrich who Monday urged a shutdown of the airlines because of the Twin Otter crash in Vancouver that took 11 lives.

The airline is continuing normal operations despite earlier warnings that pilots and flight crews might stay off the job following Saturday's crash.

An Air West spokesman said five flights to Victoria, Nanaimo and Seattle left on schedule and flights were normal today.

The crash claimed the lives of nine Japanese tourists, pilot Mark Goostry, 28, and flight attendant Douglas Johnson, 23, both of Vancouver.

The tourists were part of a group of 23 Japanese on a one-week tour of B.C. Most were employees of Japan Air Lines.

Witnesses said the plane's engine spluttered immediatly before the crash.

The witnesses credited the pilot, who was killed on impact, with making a last-second manoeuvre to avoid crashing into the yacht club floats where people were standing.

Authorities identified the Japanese victims as Mrs. Fumiko Kinoshita, 61, Nagoya; Mrs. Yukio Fukuta, 58, Nagoya; Masayuki Kato, 25, and Mrs. Yoko Kato, 26, Nara; Takuo Oogusu, 33, Tokyo; Katsumi Shiine, 27, and Mrs. Michiko Shiine, 24, Faitaima; Renzo Sasaki, 56, and Mrs. Kikuii Sasaki, 57, Fukui.

Surviving the disaster were Yukio Ishii, 30, North Vancouver, and Masakatsu Fukuda, 32, Mutsuura, Chio, Japan. Both are listed in fair and stable condition in hospital.

The two men were pulled from the sinking plane by witnesses.

"It's not an unusual procedure to ground a certain type of aircraft when there's been a crash about which very little is known," said Tindall.

"AirWest has had an unfortunate series of accidents that have done nothing to enhance their image in the public eye.

Tindall said a suspension of services would be highly damaging to the company and would mean the loss of a

BUS FARE HIKES GO SMOOTHLY

There was no hassle in Victoria today as fares on B.C. Hydro buses went from 35 cents to 50 cents.

In contrast to Vancouver where a downtown organization is distributing promissory notes, asking members to pay the 35 cents and put promissory notes for the remainder in the box, there was no organized protest here.

"We've much nicer people," said Mike Flemming, president of the Victoria local of the Amalgamated Transit Union.

Flemming said he and his fellow bus drivers have a responsibility to people using the buses and should one individual refuse to pay the entire amount, drivers will not hold up a bus in order to get a supervisor or the police.

A spokesman for the government-owned Pacific Stage Lines also said increased fares have not caused any problem.

Fares for adults travelling between Victoria and Vancouver went from $5.75 to $6.60, children's fares went from $2.90 to $3.30 and senior citizens' fares remained at $2.75.

Fares for adults travelling between Vancouver and Swartz Bay or Victoria to Tsawwassen rose from $4.70 to $5.40 while children's fares went from $2.35 to $2.70. Senior citizens will still continue to pay $1.70.

"The seniors are happy," the spokesman said.

SCHOOL DAYS are happy days judging by big beams from hand-holding buddies Sadie Rhodes and Serena Laws as they answered call to class at Macaulay elementary in Esquimalt. Thousands of youngsters put aside play time to get back to normal school routine today and police warned motorists to take extra care, especially with small fry out on their own for the first time. $33,000 In Bogus Seized

Three men have been charged after the seizure here of $33,000 worth of counterfeit U.S. $20 bills.

The money was seized Saturday after an investigation involving RCMP, Victoria city police, Saanich police and the U.S. Secret Service, the agency that deals with counterfeiting in the United States.

Charged with conspiracy to possess counterfeit money are Georges Gerard Normand, 52, his son, Real Joseph Normand, 28, and David Vallee, 26.

Police said the elder Normand is also charged with possession of counterfeit money.

The arrests and seizure of the money was made Saturday, police said.

The cash seized is described as having a musty odor and a generally poor quality.

Police in the Greater Victoria area have been warning merchants for the past six months to beware of phoney U.S. $20 bills.

Some area stores have signs posted telling customers they will not accept any U.S. bill larger than $10.

TOXIC PESTICIDE DUMPED IN LAKE

SECHELT (CP) — RCMP are investigating the dumping of 90.7 kilograms of highly toxic pesticide into Cloholm Lake Saturday near this community 60 kilometres northwest of Vancouver.

Arthur McPhee, provincial emergency program officer, said Monday that four 22.7 kilogram drums of the pelletized defoliant Tordon 10K were taken from a British Columbia Hydro storage shed and tipped off the shore into the lake.

"These drums are heavy and it was the work of a few people to carry them from the cottage and tip them into the lake," McPhee said.

B.C. Hydro, owner of the drums, was given permission last spring by the Pesticide Control Appeal Board to apply Tordon 10K to road rights-of-way, but the applications were stalled by environmentalists' objections.

A federal environment protection service consultant said the pesticide is highly toxic to fish, but dissolves quickly in water and cannot be contained or recovered.

WAS PLANE SHOT DOWN?

Rhodesia Hunts Butchers of 10

Times News Services

Rhodesian troops searched rugged bushland today for guerrillas who massacred 10 survivors from a plane which the insurgents claim to have shot down.

Air Marshal Mick McLaren, deputy commander of combined operations, said that a manhunt was underway for the guerrillas.

"We have every intention of eliminating this gang of bloodthirsty butchers," McLaren said.

Thirty-eight of the 56 persons on the flight from Kariba to Salisbury were killed in the crash.

The survivors, who hid in the bush all night, said those massacred included two girls, 4 and 11, and seven women, one of whom was shot and bayoneted.

Joshua Nkomo, co-leader of the Patriotic Front guerrilla alliance, said in Lusaka that men from his Zimbabwe People's Revolutionary Army were responsible for shooting down the Air Rhodesia plane Sunday.

But Air Rhodesia Manager Pat Travers rejected Nkomo's claim that the plane had been shot down.

"There is at present no evidence to suggest that the aircraft was brought down by hostile action," Travers said. He said the last message from the crew explicitly stated that the plane's two starboard engines were out of action.

"In our opinion, had the aircraft been hit by a missile or any other weapon, the crew's first reaction would have been to say so," he said.

Travers dismissed as a "downright, deliberate lie" a claim by Nkomo that shooting down its planes was justified because they were used to haul troops and war materiel.

Nkomo while claiming to have shot the plane down, today denied that his men later massacred the 10 survivors.

He declined to say how the aircraft had been brought down.

One survivor, Anthony Hill, 39, described the incident this way: "There was a tremendous explosion, then flames started shooting past the window on the starboard wing.

"The captain told everyone to keep calm . . . to brace for the impact. The plane came down at a hell of a speed, then it crashed."

Hans Hansen, 35, said that about an hour after the crash nine guerrillas emerged from the bush.

"When they first approached us," Hansen said, "they said they were going to give us water and help. Then when they gathered us together, they said, 'You have taken our land! We are going to kill you!' and they started shooting."

He said the guerrillas killed seven women, two children and a man and stabbed one of the women with a bayonet after they shot her.

The bullets missed Hansen, his 31-year-old wife, Diana, and Hill. They escaped into the undergrowth and hid through the night. Rescue teams found them and the five who had gone for aid.

The government said the guerrillas looted the wreckage and the bodies.

Children Have Smashing Time

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Four children, ages 7 to 13, played their own version of demolition derby Monday, racking up at least $100,000 of damage to 30 brand new imported cars, police said.

They said the boys, ages 7, 8 and 13, and a girl, age 12, managed to drive 30 new cars into one another at the Allens Avenue Shipyard before a security guard caught them.

Peterborough Red Oaks tried a little harder Monday night and charged from behind to edge Victoria Shamrocks 12-11 at Peterborough, Ont., in the opening game of the best-of-seven, national senior lacrosse final for the Mann Cup. Page 14.

Calgary Stampeders did the unexpected Monday. They tied the front-running Edmonton Eskimos 28-28 to create a three-way tie for second place in the Western Football Conference with B.C. Lions and Winnipeg Blue Bombers, 31-29 winners over the hapless Saskatchewan Roughriders. Page 15.

It wasn't surprising that last year's champion, Guillermo Vilas, played some of Monday's most spectacular shots at the U.S. open tennis championships. What wasn't expected was that Vilas became the victim of the tournament's most stunning upset, losing a marathon struggle to unseeded Butch Walts. Page 14.

Gov't Spends To Save $

Times News Services

OTTAWA — The government continued its intervention in foreign exchange markets during August, spending more than $700 million of international reserves to support the dollar.

Figures released today by the finance department show the central Bank of Canada, at the government's direction, borrowed another $300 million from U.S. banks under a stand-by credit arrangement. In addition, it spent $407.3 million of existing U.S. dollar reserves to buy unwanted Canadian dollars to slow the dollar's decline on international markets.

The Canadian dollar closed Friday at 86.99 cents U.S. in New York and today it was at 86.82. Currency markets were closed Monday because of the Labor Day holiday.

With last month's borrowing on the line of credit from U.S. banks, the government now owes $1 billion under this arrangement. The arrangement, completed June 23, permits total borrowing of up to $3 billion.

Another $500 million is owed to Canadian chartered banks under a borrowing arrangement set up with them last fall.

Official international reserves now are at their lowest level since the end of March. Including U.S. dollars — the main form of reserves — as well as other foreign currencies, gold and Canada's position in the International Monetary Fund, total reserves at Aug. 31 were $4.19 billion.

Gold opened unchanged at $211.375 in Zurich and gained 87.5 cents in London to $212.25.

SADAT ARRIVES FIRST

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — President Carter prepared a quiet welcome today for his partners in a Mideast summit conference, pressing for compromise but admitting the dangers in disagreement and making no predictions.

President Anwar Sadat of Egypt was arriving first, being formally greeted at an air base near Washington by Vice-President Walter Mondale and State Secretary Cyrus Vance before proceeding by helicopter to this presidential reteat.

Blasts Mark Summit

JERUSALEM (AP) — Two bombs exploded today in Jerusalem, injuring two persons as Israeli security forces were on top alert against terrorist acts timed to coincide with the opening of the Mid-East summit in Camp David, Md.

The first blast critically wounded a police expert who was inspecting a package at a gasoline station. An attendant at the station also was hurt.

A police spokesman said the second blast damaged an empty tourist bus parked near Jaffa Gate, a main entrance to Jerusalem's old walled city.

The meeting at President Carter's Maryland retreat prompted Israeli police and security forces to call a special alert against terrorist bombings to disrupt it.

Israeli embassies and companies and Jewish organizations abroad also are on the alert.

The gasoline station bomb went off when the expert approached the package.

Radio Israel reporter David Eppel, who was buying gas at the time, said he saw two injured men lying by a wire fence.

Air Canada Back to Normal

MONTREAL (CP) — Air Canada services across the country were "virtually back to normal" today.

A tentative agreement between Air Canada and the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers was reached Sunday after 14 hours of negotiations under the mediation of federal Labor Minister John Munro.

Airline president Claude Taylor said the 10-day shutdown, coming at a peak tourist period, cost Air Canada between $20 million and $30 million. Taylor said he thought most employees were happy to return to work.

The airline is not free from labor problems, however. Negotiations between Air Canada and the Canadian Air Line Flight Attendants Association broke off during the weekend, and that union announced it is in the process of taking a strike vote.

Results will not be known until later in the week, and the flight attendants will not be in a legal position to strike until seven days after presentation of a report to Munro by a federal mediator.

One union official said if the attendants do receive a mandate to strike, they will wait until the ground-service workers' dispute is concluded.

The attendants are seeking a 10-per-cent wage hike and cost-of-living bonus in a one-year contract retroactive to the expiry of their latest agreement, June 30.

An airline spokesman said today all operations are normal except for minor delays in some departure times. The airline had restored most of its scheduled flights Monday afternoon when employees began returning to work.

The agreement is subject to a ratification vote scheduled for later this week by the 7,500 ground service workers who rejected two tentative agreements earlier in the summer. But prospects for a solution this time appeared to have improved.

Pr. George Pupils Stay Out

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — More than 20,000 students in Prince George will get an extended summer holiday today as schools remain closed due to a lockout of 380 non-teaching employees.

The custodians, clerks and cafeteria personnel were locked out Aug. 2 in a contract dispute with the school district.

Union representatives met with school district officials for two hours Saturday, but failed to reach agreement.

Both sides were to meet again today, however, district officials said schools would remain closed until the dispute is settled.

Meanwhile, teachers voted overwhelmingly Monday night to start work today, but refrain from performing any jobs normally carried out by the non-teaching employees.

Floods Menace New Delhi

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Flooding thoughout India worsened today and authorities began evacuating residents from the outskirts of New Delhi before the approach of the swollen Jamuna River.

In West Bengal, the coastal district of Midnapore along the Bay of Bengal, more than 200,000 people were reported marooned by floodwaters of four rivers.

Late monsoon floods in northern and eastern India have killed hundreds of people and damaged crops worth millions of dollars, authorities said.

The worst-hit areas are the eastern states of West Bengal and Orissa, and the northern states of Haryana, Himachal Pradesh and the Federal Territory of New Delhi.

In New Delhi, the gushing Jamuna River broke through a water barrage, and rushed through rural and urban areas.

Whole families perched on rooftops. Cars, scooters and other vehicles were completely submerged.

The massive road bridge over the Jamuna river, separting the older part New Delhi from the newer section, was closed.

West Bengal state officials said the death toll in the Mindapore district was heavy but denied that thousands of people died, as reported Monday by the Statesman newspaper.

"The loss of life is considerable. But the report that 15,000 people have been swept away in the floods in Midnapore is incorrect," an official said.

B.C. After Job Money

VANCOUVER (CP) — Federal government cutbacks in unemployment insurance are not acceptable to British Columbia, Labor Minister Allan Williams said Monday.

Speaking at the annual Labor Day dinner at the Pacific National Exhibition, Williams said any meaningful savings in federal spendings should be directed into job opportunities.

"We are ready to meet with Ottawa for the fullest implementation of funds for permanent jobs rather than short-term work," he said.

Williams said there are still 90,000 people unemployed in B.C., and the province must maintain a level of productivity to be in a position to enter foreign markets.

George Johnston, president of the B.C. Federation of Labor, said however, that the Social Credit government in B.C. is deliberately avoiding its responsibility to enact serious legislation to create more jobs.

"Premier Bennett knows that to create jobs will require redirection of the economy," Johnston said. "This can only be accomplished by government planning.

"But government intervention means less room for corporations to manoeuvre and less opportunities to exploit and profit."

Map valid until noon Wednesday

Variable conditions prevail over much of B.C. except over the southern interior and near the lower mainland where some precipitation is reported from a number of localities. This rain is the result of a frontal system which is edging eastward across southern B.C. This precipitation will become showery by evening over these regions with showers gradually tapering off late Wednesday as this system passes to Alberta. Elsewhere, skies will become sunny with some cloudy periods Wednesday.

IN CARS, AS IN MILK, THE CREAM RISES TO THE TOP.

In a few short years Honda Civic has risen, like the cream of the crop, to become the No.1 small car in Canada.*

It is a fact of life that there can only be one number one. There can only be one president of a country or company. There can only be one winner in a race. There can only be one first man on the moon.

In the area of small economy cars the one that has risen, like cream, to the top is Honda Civic. In the past 21 months more Canadians have discovered and praised the virtues of Honda Civic than any other small car.

The reason that Honda Civic is the cream of the crop is because it utilizes the cream of automotive design and engineering.

The cream of small car drive trains has become front wheel drive. A Honda Civic not only has front wheel drive, but it also has a transversely mounted engine to free up more interior space. Front wheel drive improves traction, uses the engine's power more efficiently and delivers an uncanny sense of control and enjoyment to the driver. The cream of car suspensions is independent McPherson struts on all four wheels. Because it is the cream it is relatively expensive and rare. You'll find it on the Honda Civic.

The cream of small car design is the trapezoid shape. It is aerodynamically sound. It is stable. And most of all, it maximizes interior space while minimizing exterior space. This trapezoidal shape was first successfully introduced to Canada by Honda. Since then several of the other car manufacturers have also adopted the concept.

More cream: self adjusting, power assisted front disc brakes. Rack and pinion steering. 4-speed transmission. Carpeting. Rear window defroster. Tinted glass. Fully reclining bucket seats. All standard equipment. And all available in a car that is one of the most moderately priced in Canada – Honda Civic.

Surely if you're in the process of choosing a new car you owe it to yourself to closely inspect a Honda Civic.

Look at it this way; if you're not getting the cream of the crop, then what are you getting?

Freedom, Peace Papal Plea

Times News Services

VATICAN CITY — Pope John Paul I, addressing the foreign dignitaries who came to the Vatican for his inauguration, appealed Monday for greater religious freedom worldwide and promised to pray for the success of the Middle East peace talks in the United States this week.

Some representatives at the papal audience were from countries that have placed restraints on religious activity, including several delegates from the Communist world.

"Allow us to count on your willing collaboration," the leader of the 700 million-member Roman Catholic Church said.

The Pontiff told the dignitaries, including Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and other members of the Canadian delegation to Sunday's papal inauguration, that the church has no "miracle solutions" to world problems but stands ready to help in any way to serve the international well-being.

Canadian sources said the Pope, greeting Trudeau, told him he has heard a lot about him and was happy to meet the prime minister. The exchange of words was not in a private audience, but right after the Pope's address to dignitaries.

The pontiff said he has not had an opportunity to visit Canada, but that Canada is dear to him.

Italian authorities, meanwhile, stepped up security precautions at the Vatican and at scores of embassies and diplomatic residences, where many of the foreign guests are staying.

The heightened precautions followed a bomb blast in Rome late Sunday night that shattered the gate and broke windows at the Lateran Palace, the residence of the Pope's vicar to Rome. There were no injuries. The Pope was in his own apartments in the Vatican five kilometres away at the time.

Police said they believed the attack on the Lateran Palace was the work of extremists who demonstrated in Rome and in St. Peter's Square on Sunday against the presence at the papal inaugural of Argentine President Jorge Rafael Videla.

Pericle Cardinal Felici places simple wool stole around neck of new pope

Investigating officers said passersby saw a young man in a white jacket running away and a French-made car speeding off shortly before the blast.

Police said 282 persons, including 30 Argentine exiles opposed to Videla's right-wing military government, were taken into custody after the demonstrations Sunday. All were released later.

The demonstrators scuffled with police and waved banners in St. Peter's Square, but did not disrupt the ceremony on the steps of St. Peter's Basilica. The police acted so quickly that most in the crowd of 250,000 did not realize the demonstration was going on.

Leftists threw firebombs at an Italian cardinal's car near the Vatican after the ceremony and set several cars afire in and around the Piazza Navona, on the other side of the Tiber from the Vatican. No serious injuries were reported.

Like his predecessor, Pope Paul VI, Pope John Paul chose to have his installation on the steps of St. Peter's instead of inside the basilica. But in keeping with the simplicity that has marked his first week as pontiff, he refused to be carried to the ceremony on a portable throne, and the traditional beehive-shaped tiara was replaced by the white wool stole or pallium embroidered with seven crosses that symbolizes the pope's role as patriarch of the church.

Pope John Paul radiated warmth, good humor and friendliness as the members of the College of Cardinals approached the papal throne one by one to kneel and kiss his ring in homage. He leaned forward and embraced each one, smiling, gesturing and talking animatedly. The cardinals then joined him in celebrating the inaugural Mass.

In a homily delivered in Latin, Italian and French during the Mass, the new Pope said he was thinking not only of Catholics, "but also of all those who endeavor to be disciples of Jesus Christ, to honor that and to work for the good of humanity."

"In this way we greet affectionately and with gratitude the delegations from other churches and ecclesiastical communities present here," he said.

It also was the largest turnout of Protestant and Eastern Orthodox leaders for a papal ceremony. More than 30 leaders of other Christian churches sat through the 2½-hour ceremony.

Parents Win Bus

DUNCAN — Parents in the Cobble Hill area have won a battle for a bus to transport their six and seven year children to school.

School District 65 chairman Alan Hussey said following a meeting with Darryl Muralt, administrative officer, ministry of education, approval had been given for acquisition of an additional school bus.

However, he said, the school board was disappointed that the ministry did not indicate a change of positions relative to the provincial walks limits.

DUEL IN LEBANON

BEIRUT (UPI) — Heavy weapons duels erupted today between Syrian peacekeeping troops and Christian rightist militiamen in suburban Beirut, shattering a 40-hour lull.

The rocket and shell exchanges broke out as President Elias Sarkis returned from the papal inauguration in Rome. The flare-up, within sight of Sarkis' hilltop presidential palace, killed a young boy and injured three other civilians and two policemen, right-wing Phalangist party radio said.

Government sources said Sarkis promptly began efforts to contain the violence, which came amid rising tension between Syria and Israel over the Lebanese crisis.

The rocket and shell duels followed similar fighting late Sunday, which had ended a month-long truce sealed in behind-the-scenes talks between Sarkis and the warring parties.

Phalangist radio said the renewed fighting, around the Christian southeast hill suburbs of Hadath and Baabda.

Cosmetic Measures

The moves by Employment Minister Bud Cullen last week to tighten up on unemployment insurance regulations will undoubtedly be among the most popular steps the Trudeau government will take in its current economic program.

A huge segment of the electorate is convinced that millions, if not billions, of their tax dollars are going to support lazy, youthful layabouts who work only as long as it takes them to qualify for some more free government handouts through the unemployment insurance plan. It is, after all, much more pleasant to believe that than to accept the reality that there are in Canada tens of thousands of people, young and old, who are desperate to find work but for whom work does not exist.

It is undoubtedly true that there has been some abuse of the unemployment program in recent years. Everyone knows of a young person or two who has developed the pattern of working for 12 weeks every year and collecting UIC for the other 40. To the extent that Cullen's changes will curb this misuse of the system, the minister is to be commended.

But the problem with the changes is that the sins of those few abusers are going to be visited on the many. Cullen admitted when announcing the new regulations that young people in particular would be hurt by them. He is quite right.

And most of the young who will be hurt will not be abusers who don't want to work. Most of them will be the young people, just finished school or college, who want desperately to find jobs, to become productive members of adult society, but for whom jobs are not available. The UIC cutbacks will not, in themselves, magically produce jobs for those young people.

Cullen hopes to use the money that will be saved in unemployment insurance for a job-creation program, but the lack of balance between the two programs is clearly shown by the statistics. The minister expects the job-creation programs to produce 113,000 man-years of work — in a year when it is not unreasonable to expect there will be more than 1 million man-years of official unemployment.

The cutbacks will do nothing to help the other 90 per cent of unemployed. It may force some of them to switch from UIC to welfare — from one form of government handout to a more demeaning, more unpleasant form. (Incidentally, the additions to the welfare rolls will probably also mean that the overall saving to taxpayers will not be as great as Cullen predicts; rather, at least some of the money saved from the UIC program will be spent by the federal-provincial welfare programs.)

What Cullen is basically doing is attacking the symptom of a disease — the high payouts under unemployment insurance. He may be able to show a slight lessening of the symptom but the debilitating disease will still be there — the disease of lack of jobs for hundreds of thousands of Canadians desperate for work.

Until that disease is brought under control, changes to the unemployment insurance plan are really nothing more than cosmetic measures.

Fairy Tale Coming True

Almost from the day it opened in 1971, Victoria's Crystal Pool on Quadra was damned with a variety of epithets, two of the most common being "white elephant" and "ugly duckling." Although the pool itself has always been magnificent, the building around it was cold and institutional, built in the modern architecture of the day — wall-to-wall grey concrete.

The problems of the facility became ever more apparent as other municipalities, particularly Oak Bay, built bright, cheery multi-purpose facilities that steadily drew more and more customers away from the Crystal. A vicious circle developed in which programs were closed down because too few people were coming, so even fewer people came because there were no programs at the times they needed them.

Matters finally came to a head early this year, and city council, led by a new recreation chairman, Ald. Robin Blencoe, agreed to spend more than $230,000 on an upgrading program. The pool was closed for four months while construction took place and re-opened only this past weekend.

The transformation has been little short of amazing. Although not all the planned work has yet been completed, the institutional atmosphere is quite gone. Much of the grey concrete has been painted in bright colors, the turnstile has been removed from the front door, and new facilities such as saunas and a whirlpool have been added.

At the same time a new program schedule has been developed which will offer the public many more hours of opportunity each week to enjoy the facility. A variety of programs are being planned, including ones especially for women, for senior citizens, and for teenagers.

Congratulations are surely in order both for the recreation department staff who have engineered the changes and the politicians who have backed them up. It is obvious the city's "ugly duckling" is well on its way to becoming a beautiful recreation swan of which Victorians can be justly proud.

The Chicken Factor in Texas

DALLAS — Democrats in this big, prosperous but politically contentious state are gleefully trying to tag Republican gubernatorial candidate William Clements with the disdainful nickname of "Chicken" Clements. This has nothing to do with Clements's courage but much to do with President Carter's prospects here.

It seems that at a recent chamber of commerce luncheon in Amarillo, Clements and his Democratic opponent, state Attorney-General John Hill, made what were supposed to be "non-political" appearances. Hill, leading off, stuck to the script with a few non-controversial remarks. Then Clements, a millionaire oilman, deputy secretary of defence in the Ford administration, and first-time political candidate, launched into what in Texas is commonly reported to have been a "tirade" against Jimmy Carter.

Chicken Converts

The president, Clements declaimed, "is a dead chicken around John Hill's neck . . . and I intend to hang him with it." Whereupon, with a flourish, he produced a rubber chicken from a brown paper bag and flung it in the general direction of Hill. The chicken landed, however, in the plate of Mrs. Jerry Hodge, wife of the mayor of Amarillo.

Up to that moment, Mayor Hodge had beeen a staunch Clements backer. The "dead chicken incident," according to all reports here, instantly converted the mayor and his wife to the support of John Hill, who scarcely needed them.

In a statewide poll of 600 respondents taken recently by Pat Caddell, the Democratic nominee leads Clements by a staggering 65.9 to 20.3 (counting leaners). The question nevertheless remains: Is Jimmy Carter a "dead chicken" in the fourth largest state of the union?

It would not be hard to conclude that he is, although no knowledgeable political source here predicts that the president's unpopularity is great enough to elect Bill Clements, who spent about $1.5 million, mostly on television, to win the Republican primary, yet remains unheard of by 29.5 per cent of the respondents in the Caddell poll and not favorably known to 45.6 percent of the others.

But in the same poll Carter himself was rated as doing an "excellent" or a "good" job as president by only 42.3 per cent of those queried; 55.4 per cent rated his presidency "only fair" or "poor." In foreign policy matters, Carter's only fair-to-poor rating rose to the ominous level of 65.4 per cent. This low score no doubt reflected the opposition of 59.2 per cent of the respondents to the Panama Canal treaties pushed through earlier this year by the Carter administration.

Carter probably suffers also from the general cynicism of Texas voters about politics — 62.7 per cent of the poll respondents agred that "most politicians don't really care about people like me" and 46.6 per cent denied that "this country is run for the good of the average person." That kind of alienation is bound to rub off on anyone in office — and the higher the office, the more the public distrust.

Aside from poll results, the signs of Carter's political difficulties here are everywhere. The belief is widespread that he could not have carried the state and its 26 electoral votes — crucial to his election — in 1976 against Ronald Reagan, and that he could not cary it against Reagan in 1980.

Ron Calhoun, the Dallas Morning News political writer, wrote recently that on one occasion or another, "virtually every Democratic candidate in Texas" has dissociated himself from the president, but that their Republican opponents were having a "field day" attacking him. Calhoun quoted Bill Fisher, the Republican candidate for congress in the 17th district (in central west Texas) as saying: "It's kind of hard to find many people in the district who said they voted for Carter, although he carried the district with 53 per cent."

Fisher still is considered the underdog in the race for the seat of Rep. Omar Burleson, who is retiring. But the "chink in the armor" of the conservative Democratic favorite, Charles Stenholm, is reported to be that he was Jimmy Carter's district campaign manager in 1976.

Turned Off

A knowledgeable aide to Rep. Bob Krueger, who is running a hard race against Republican Sen. John Tower (the Caddell poll was taken for Krueger), passionately declares his conviction that Sen. Edward Kennedy will be the preference of Texas over Carter in 1980. An influential labor leader says the issues of "Carter and inflation" will defeat Krueger this year and make Jimmy Carter a one-term president; he'll work against Carter's renomination in 1980, he says, because it would mean the certain election of Ronald Reagan.

A poll taken for a Democratic congressional candidate in a suburban district, where Carter got 55 per cent of the vote in 1976, found its largely Democratic voters — 26 per cent of whom are blacks — giving Carter only 31 per cent job approval this year. And a Republican congressional candidate in a Dallas county district said he would profit from Democrats who voted for Carter in 1976 (he carried the district 53 per cent to 47 over Gerald Ford) but who are too "turned off" even to go to the polls next November.

JOHN BEST

Slashing the Defence Budget

OTTAWA — Everything from base closings to grounding of aircraft squadrons is under consideration in the defence department as officials seek ways to cut $150 million from expenditures this year and next.

In the prevailing atmosphere, about the only thing that looks at all safe is the re-equipment program dear to the heart of Defence Minister Barney Danson and those under him. But even that may not escape entirely unscathed.

Department spokesmen say "every effort" is being made to maintain the program, to which defence spending resources have been committed to around the mid-1980s. The major components still to come are a new fighter plane, slated to cost up to $2.34 billion, and a new fleet of patrol frigates expected to cost $1.5 billion.

Frigates on Block?

The Navy League of Canada, a national organization which champions the cause of the sea-going service, is worried, despite all the reassurances, that the shipbuilding program may be in danger. Recently, a letter went out from the league's national office here directing divisions and branches across Canada to alert local MPs to the situation.

"Concern is being expressed in many quarters that the patrol frigate program will now be stalled to accommodate government spending cutbacks," the letter said. There was "little sense of urgency on the part of the government to press on with the project."

League officials, probably reflecting the feelings of some naval officers, have frequently criticized the priority given the new fighter program over the naval reconstruction program. The fighter contract competition will soon be entering its final stages although the contract award, originally scheduled for this fall, could be delayed until well into the next year.

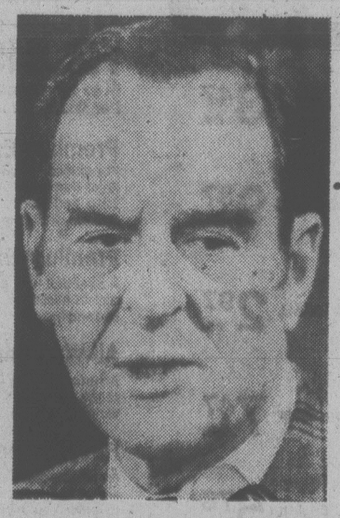

The first frigate contracts though will not be let until some time after that. By the time the ships are in the water around 1986, the destroyers they replace will be something like 30 years old.

Defence spokesmen say the $150 million in savings which the government has told the defence department to come up with will comprise "a little bit from a lot of programs."

Among the possibilities being looked at are closing bases considered of marginal military usefulness, such as those at Summerside, P.E.I., and Chatham, N.B.

Officials emphasized however that base-closing is not necessarily in the cards. The department has made plans more than once to close Summerside, not to mention some other military posts, but has had to shelve them because the government wouldn't tolerate the adverse economic impact on the local community.

Another possibility being examined is the grounding of one or more of

. . . relatively good position?

Canada's two squadrons of CF-5 fighter planes — due to be converted to a trainer role in a few years anyway. However, the fact that both formations are assigned to duty on NATO's northern flank in Norway in an east-west emergency, beyond having a day-to-day role in the air defence of Canada, could create complications.

Other cost-saving measures could include mothballing one or more of Canada's 20 destroyers, closing radar bases, holding back base development and improvement and even reductions of bomb and ammunition purchases.

An alternative that has figured prominently in speculation is reducing the number of routine operations and exercises that the Forces take part in. It is not impossible a moratorium on Arctic surveillance flights by long-range patrol aircraft, imposed when a sudden financial squeeze hit the defence department four years ago, will be re-instituted. An accelerated program of fuel conservation, including mandatory speed reductions by ships and planes, is also a definite possibility.

Such reductions offer the prospect of extremely worthwhile savings, considering the cost of oil and gas. But officers generally have little use for them, because they quickly become translated into declines in operational efficiency and preparedness.

Even while defence planners zero in on prime areas for cost-slashing, it remains unclear just how much actual slashing will have to be carried out. The department could save several million simply by foregoing a planned increase of 800 in Armed Forces strength, this year and next, already approved by the treasury board. It might also apply some $80 million in capital funds which the financially-strapped government has withheld from the department this year and last, on the promise that it would eventually be made up.

Danson's Position

The department will need this money at some stage in its re-equipment program, but could perhaps do without it until after the current cost-cutting spree is over.

Also applicable against the $150 million might be at least part of the $63 million in startup funds on the naval reconstruction project, which the department was promised more than a year ago but which has not yet shown up in government spending estimates.

It's been reported that Treasury Board President Robert Andras has now agreed to soften the strict guidelines originally laid down for the program of expenditure cuts, and to allow individual ministers more responsibility. If this means greater scope for shuffling accounts and re-ordering priorities, Danson should be in a relatively good position, even though nearly half his $4.1 billion budget this fiscal year is inextricably earmarked for the payment of personnel.

Church and State

May I comment on the articles appearing in many of our newspapers on the hiring of only Catholic teachers by several Catholic school boards throughout B.C.

While there are many complex aspects to the whole of the church-state involvement, there are two sides to this particular church-state coin. On one side is the essential element of religious liberty. All private and parochial schools have the right to hire their own teachers. Parochial schools have as their primary purpose the furtherance of their religion. They do this by encouraging in their students and supporters individual commitment to their teachings. It follows that they need teachers, coaches and administrators who are examples of their teachings, — those who love their religion and live it full-time. This right is part of the religious freedom identified in our bill of rights.

The other side of the coin, however, is that if our private and parochial schools accept public funds, they give up their liberty in this area, or at the least have it eroded. If the public pays anything for these schools (and in B.C. the Social Credit government has allocated $9 million of our tax money for these schools), the public has a right to influence what goes on in these schools — including the hiring of teachers, election or appointment of trustees, what is taught, who is admitted, and so on.

No private or parochial school, if it truly cherishes its uniqueness, can afford to sell its liberty for this high price. To do its job properly it must maintain its private or parochial identity. This is one major reason why none of them should be accepting state funds.

Another reason state funds should not be used to support private and parochial schools is that by doing so the state infringes on the religious freedom of others. It is the right of every citizen to support only the religion of his or her choice. Under the legislation passed by the Social Credit government many now are paying for religions they do not want to support.

Eventually all provinces will have to get out of church-state involvement. We all need to pay for our public schools, regardless of how imperfect we perceive them to be. Those persuaded they want a private or parochial school education for their children will have to pay for that as well. We have an obligation to help our neighbor's children become educated in the public schools just as well as ensuring that ours are educated in the private or parochial schools.

In B.C. the Independent Schools Support Act will have to be repealed so that religious liberty and the separation of church and state are both upheld. — Ian Bruce Kelsey, President, Canadians United for Separation of Church and State, 4070 West 37th Avenue, Vancouver.

2,4-D Non-Issue

Your correspondent Ms. Roelofsen requests facts regarding 2,4-D (letter, Not Even Sarcasm, Times, Aug. 26). Thought no one would ever ask. Many people prefer to sit back silently absorbing pros and-cons (mostly cons, it appears) and make no effort to obtain facts. They prefer to accept strident statements, half-truths, violent generalizations and darkly inferred innuendoes. For anyone that cares to read, here are a few facts:

(1) 2,4-D was introduced to public use in 1944; it was developed as a plant hormone to promote root growth in plant cuttings. As a herbicide it stimulates excessively rapid growth. It is used on a world-wide basis to a greater extent than any other organic herbicide.

(2) It does not accumulate in living organisms. It is biodegradable; bacteria rapidly break it down in, typically, six to eight weeks.

(3) It does not contain dioxin (TCDD).

(4) It is as toxic as salt, less toxic than aspirin or caffeine.

(5) There is no evidence that 2,4-D is carcinogenic or mutagenic (refer to Royal Commission Inquiry into Pesticides and Herbicides — Queen's Printer — $15.00).

(6) 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T have been used for many years on millions of acres of prairie wheat with no harmful effect on humans.

That's enough to start with. Facts, however, are not acceptable to some people. The prefer to ignore facts (their minds are made up), and shout louder; or they distort facts and shout louder; or make sweeping statements containing fearsome predictions and shout louder. It is a variation of the big lie technique — tell a lie often enough and shout it loud enough and eventually some people will begin to believe it. Under such attacks, science and reason retreat and we revert to the dark ages where fear and supersition, witchcraft and alchemy hold sway.

The environmental concern of many people is understandable and laudable. However, the 2,4-D debate is a non-issue except to those who, for various reasons, must shout louder to keep it alive. — Edward W. Newbury, P.O. Box 500, Victoria.

Quebec Women Mad at Levesque

By ROBERT McKENZIE

QUEBEC — Militant women's groups in Quebec, including women in the Parti Quebecois, are telling Premier Rene Levesque in no uncertain terms that he can forget about their support in the independence referendum battle if he doesn't start delivering the goods on women's rights — and fast.

One of the major commitments the Parti Quebecois made to the Quebec electorate before it took power in 1976 was to work towards "complete equality for men and women in every walk of life."

That promise is returning to haunt Levesque's government as it gears up for the crucial referendum in which it will ask Quebecers to endorse a bid to make Quebec a politically sovereign nation retaining only limited economic ties with Canada.

Levesque's problems are coming from within the ranks of his own party — close to 55 per cent of the PQ's more than 150,000 members are women — and from militant women's groups whose dynamism and organizational acumen could be a key factor in the referendum battle.

"This government isn't any less misogynous than its predecessor," says Claire Bonenfant, a pioneering member of the Quebec independence movement in the early 1960s, now active in the Reseau d'action et d'information pour les femmes (RAIF), the militant 'women's-action and information network.'

Ms. Bonenfant, a publishing executive, continues to work within a PQ party group, the 'national committee on the feminine condition,' but makes no bones about the government's dismal track record on women's issues and the effect it could have on the referendum campaign.

"This government was brought to power by women — not the vote of women but by the manner in which they mobilized the party organization," she said in an interview in her book-lined office in the heart of Old Quebec.

"No one was too surprised that Robert Bourassa's (Liberal) government dragged its heels on women's questions — it was a small-c conservative administration. But with the PQ, it's un espoir decu, a promise unfulfilled."

Ms. Bonenfant doesn't go as far as saying women within the PQ will boycott the party's referendum effort. But she says women in the party are spending almost all their time working on women's issues, rather than on selling the PQ's independence platform.

Although she didn't mention it in the interview, this is what happened at the PQ's now-famous "abortion convention" in May, 1977. While women delegates polarized the biennial convention around their successful battle to liberalize the party's abortion policy, key resolutions toning down the PQ's independence stand slipped through almost unnoticed.

At that convention, Levesque scandalized women (and many other) delegates by stating flatly in his closing speech he in no way felt bound by the party's new abortion policy.

Ms Bonenfant gives Levesque credit for revising his attitude on abortion to some extent in his recent exchange of correspondence with Maurice Cardinal Roy, Archbishop of Quebec.

Levesque told Roy the PQ government won't back down on its determination to set up family planning clinics throughout the province — including abortion services or women whose health is in danger as spelled out in the 1968 federal legislation on the subject.

"For once, Mr. Levesque took a stand," said Ms Bonenfant.

But she ticks off areas where women's groups throughout Quebec are unanimous in rating the Levesque government sadly deficient.

Falling down On Promises Of Rights, They Claim

On the question of day-care centres, where the PQ has promised a government-financed province-wide network of services, she describes the situation as "catastrophic — it's below zero, they're closing all over the place."

As for the government's recently-announced policy on maternity leave for working women — 18 weeks to be chosen by the mother but with no mention of remuneration apart from unemployment insurance — Ms Bonenfant calls it a mere "embryo" of a program.

She cites other areas where women's groups feel any well-intentioned government could act at little cost. These include indexation of alimony payments, putting the mother's name on social assistance cheques alongside the father's, and recognizing a women's right to name her children after her. (A divorced woman in Quebec, for example, cannot rename her child without a private bill being passed by the Quebec national Assembly.)

A barely more positive view of the PQ government's performance on women's matters is taken by Laurette Champigny Robillard, who has been president of the Quebec Council on the Status of Women since it was founded by the Bourassa government in 1973.

Ms Robillard, who has decided not to seek renewal of her five-year mandate once it is completed next month, agrees the scoreboard of the PQ government and its predecessor on women's affairs has been "pretty thin" in terms of things actually accomplished.

On the plus side, Ms Robillard mentions the maternity leave plan, a recently-undertaken revision of school textbooks to eliminate sexism, the tabling of a proposed overhaul of the Quebec Civil Code with numerous changes affecting the status of women and the recent appointment of a co-ordinator to oversee the application of an equal opportunities program within the Quebec public service.

"One of the problems women have is that they're not a menace to public peace and the social order," the soft-spoken former business executive said.

"But I think they're capable in future of negotiating their support for the referendum or at election time. The present government must be very conscious where the uncommitted vote lies."

A recent scientific poll commissioned by the French network of the CBC showed 82 per cent of Quebec women hostile to the idea of Quebec independence compared to 69 per cent of the men interviewed.

The poll also indicated 43 per cent of the male population of Quebec would vote PQ in an election while only 25 per cent of the women would back Levesque's party.

Despite these figures, Ms Robillard agrees the PQ has been more sensitive to pressure from such groups as the unions, the handicapped — and even former priests seeking pensions for their past contribution to education — than to women.

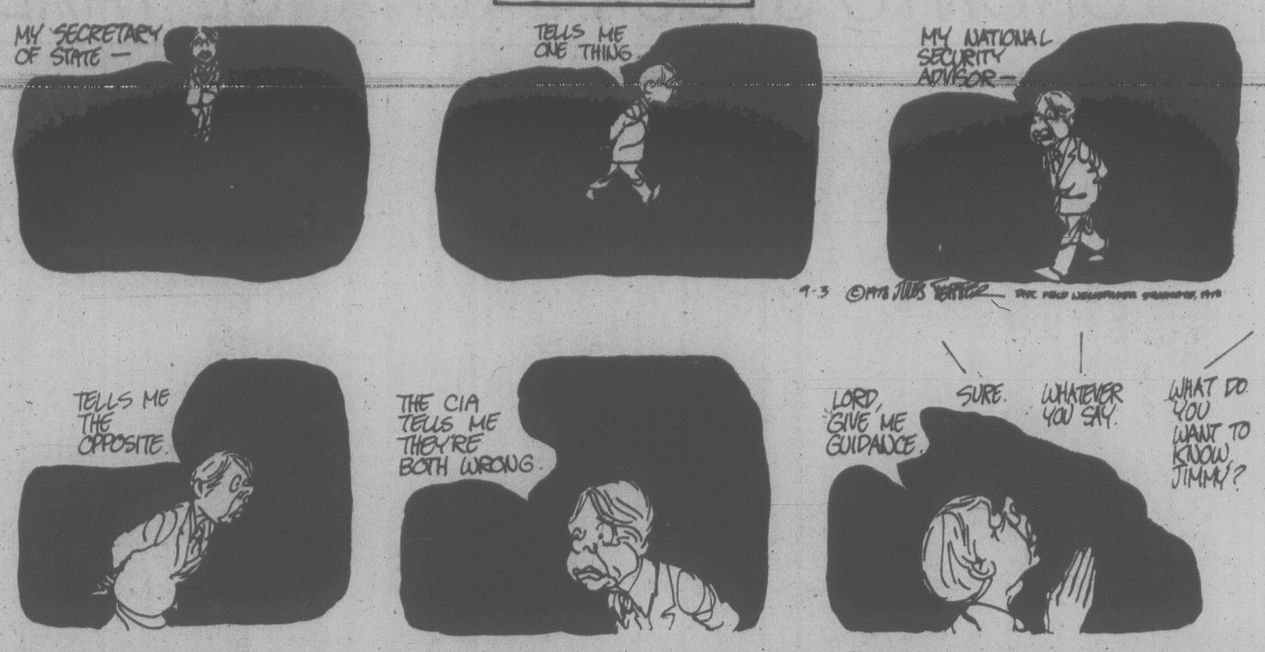

"Of course, it's much more virile and glorious to pass an anti-scab law than an act concerning women," she smiled.

Ms Robillard raps the PQ government for its 18-month delay in tabling a report recommending means of eliminating sex and other types of discrimination in employee benefits.

She points out the Levesque government has an even worse record than Bourassa when it comes to the appointment of women to top government jobs — only one woman in the 193 executive jobs in the education department is one example.

Take Holiday, Japan Workers Urged

By MARK MURRAY
London Observer

TOKYO—In a publicity leaflet packed with cartoons, catch-phrases and other modern media techniques, Japan's Labor Ministry is urging the country's work force to take a holiday. While unions in most other countries are agitating for a 35-hour week, Japanese workers still have not got used to the five-day week.

Amid the whirlwind rise of the yen, criticism is mounting that it is the good old Japanese version of the Protestant work ethic which is the prime culprit. Hence — and perhaps it could only happen in Japan — the government has been forced to step in to try and force a reduction of working hours.

According to a survey conducted by the Labor Ministry the average Japanese worker's real working hours (excluding meal and tea breaks) are 40.2 a week. By comparison, West Germans work 36.3 hours and Americans 37.3. The same survey showed that only one out of four Japanese workers has changed to a five-day working week. And at least four out of 10 workers take less than 30 per cent of their holidays entitlement.

Japanese wage levels now are close to European levels, but there is no organized system of over-time. A man puts in extra hours merely out of loyalty to the company and because in the "group" philosophy fostered in Japan his clock-watching departure from the office before anyone else would be frowned upon as "letting the team down."

The reward for this loyalty comes in summer and Christmas bonuses equal to several months' pay.

However, reviewing its survey of working hours, a top Labor Ministry source admitted that "Japan could be blamed by its main trading partners for earning huge surpluses at the expense of its workers. Now, he said, was a good chance to increase the number of days off as a bonus to the workers for the yen's rise.

The Labor Ministry recently ordered its local labor standards bureaus to crack down on over-time, encourage use of paid holidays and encourage more companies to switch to a five-day week, but business circles, especially the employers' association, Nikkeiren, is not happy with this. They say it will add a further burden on industries already crippled by a prolonged recession. Even within the government there is strong opposition, typified by one senior official who proudly declared: "Diligence is a Japanese virtue."

The prime minister, Takeo Fukuda, has always been obsessed with frugality and hard work. When he was finance minister a few years ago, he abruptly rejected a five-day working week for banks because he would "never take a course that would make people lazy."

FUKUDA
. . . frugality

What the Labor Ministry is really trying to do, however, is force workers to take holidays. Its leaflet is designed to show the enjoyable benefits of taking a few days off; how this can improve the health; and how it can, in fact, lead to greater productivity; and how it can introduce children to a perfect stranger: their father.

The Japanese for decades have had to work so hard, now that they have reached a position of relative national affluence they have no other pleasure but work. Commentators have lamented that what is needed is a new system that actually shows the people how to enjoy their leisure time.

According to the Labor Ministry, workers take an average of only 3.9 days off for summer holidays. Most families go to the seaside or mountains without their father. If he can overcome the guilt feeling, he might dash down to join them for a couple of days. But with chronic over-manning in this country, most workers are scared their companies might discover just how small a contribution they are making (especially with 1.2 million unemployed looking for work). Many conscientious workers regard days taken off for illness as their vacation.

The Labor Ministry now recommends that Japanese workers be forced to take 10 days paid vacation, and some companies this year have begun to implement this practice merely by shutting down their plants. The ministry's leaflet also encourages companies to become involved in their employees' vacations. One way, it is suggested, is to make the worker submit his vacation plans a year in advance — just to prove he actually is going to take some legitimate leisure time.

To workers elsewhere the whole bizarre system must be totally incomprehensible.

Joys of Bachelorhood

russell baker

I was thrilled. At last I was a summer bachelor.

Tales of those lucky devils and their licentious sportings while the wife was away were part of American lore. Ah, to be affluent! Then the family can be dispatched to the waters for a hot sunburn, while, back in town, the decks are clear for . . . action!

Action indeed. Yes, there is action.

There is the bed to be made. At the start, you think the big problem will be making the bed. Making the bed has always seemed peculiarly odious labor, perhaps because of its military resonances. It was a labor enforced by uncouth sergeants before dawn. Afterward, a lieutenant with two years of college would bring his intellect to bear upon your bedmaking and, if his silver quarter did not bounce respectfully from the sheets, would deprive you of Saturday night's beer.

The thought of having to make the bed took the pleasure out of bachelorhood before the family had disappeared over the horizon. Then, an inspiration! This, after all, was not the army. The bed could be left unmade.

What's more, this being a double bed, it wouldn't have to be made for . . . for who knew how long? You could sleep on one side until the sheets began to feel disagreeable and then move over and sleep on the other side for the rest of the summer.

The bedmaking problem solved, the cooking problem remained. What fun! One spent an hour at the grocery, then spent an hour in the kitchen and — presto! — one had a splendid meal, which took four minutes to eat. Then came another hour of clearing the table, washing the dishes, scraping pans and blotting grease from stove and kitchen floor.

After the first three evenings of this, the fun rapidly oozed away. By that time, I had performed nine hours of culinary toil in exchange for 12 minutes of eating. And after the three hours of nightly labor, one's energy was too drained to support an evening of adventure on the town.

The alternatives, such as eating beans out of a can with a spoon, cut the labor satisfactorily but did nothing to create the high spirits necessary to pursue bachelor pleasures. After a dinner of beans spooned out of a can, I noted, my spirit was up to nothing more than a listless five-hour sprawl in front of the television set.

Restaurants. There was the alternative. The restaurants, however, did not like being an alternative. "Just one?" headwaiters would ask, in voices suggesting I had just announced myself a typhoid carrier when all I had said was: "A table for one, please." Some were willing to seat me in remote isolation, where I could be despised by waiters sentenced to a one-plate tip at a two-plate table.

The other diners, among them beautiful women of the sort with whom I had fancied myself at summer play, looked at me back near the kitchen door as a curiosity, possibly dangerous, almost certainly eccentric.

I took to spending evenings at home eating prodigious quantities of fruit, which never seemed to be ripe enough. In college, nobody teaches you how to recognize a ripe peach. For a while, I fried eggs in the middle of the night, dreading the inevitable heart attack.

The worst part, however, was the absence of talk. It is amazing how much of marriage is devoted to conversation. And now there was nobody to talk to. Nobody in the kitchen, nobody in the parlor, nobody in the bedroom. Nobody to say, "What a day!" to. Or, "Let's watch television." Or, "Do you think it's going to rain?" Or, "My God! I can't believe these bills."

At first, I would say things like, "Let's watch television" to myself and myself said, "I don't feel like it." I almost retorted: "Well, you can sit there and read Cosmopolitan if you want, to, but I'm going to watch television," but I didn't. I got a grip on myself instead.

Just in time for Labor Day.

LORD'S PRAYER in its entirety was carved in sand of Willows Beach Sunday by team of volunteers from Emmanuel Baptist Church. Massive task was started early Sunday and a service was conducted about halfway through the project. Wayne Wickett, 28, who led team that carried out the task, described exercise as a sort of Christian outreach to bring good news to the world. Huge letters stand out clearly on aerial shot by Times photographer John McKay.

Meet ICBC's Top Salesman

VANCOUVER (CP) — Alex McKenna, salvage operations manager of the Insurance Corp. of British Columbia, prides himself on being able to sell just about anything.

"Nothing is a total loss," McKenna said in an interview. "Everything has a price."

McKenna auctions damaged or recovered stolen goods regularly when they pile up at the Marine Drive claim centre.

Last year, ICBC recovered $5.5 million by selling wrecked cars and $82,000 from general salvage items.

McKenna even managed to sell a used toupee and a sausage-making machine.

He said getting a buyer for the toupee was tough, but a man finally offered 10 cents for it as a shoeshine cloth.

The toupee's former owner suffered head injuries in a car accident and an adjuster bought him a toupee.

"But when his hair grew in she made him give it back," McKenna said. "He should have been allowed to keep it but she was new and I guess she didn't know any better."

The sausage-making machine was no longer capable of making sausages.

ICBC spokesman Bob Egby said it was obtained when a car plowed through the wall of a sausage company and into the works of the sausage machine.

However, McKenna tapped the market and sold it to another sausage company for $75, which used it for parts.

McKenna said that on special interest items such as that, he sends out bid sheets to possible buyers.

"If we have lots of TVs, we flip through our files of TV repairmen and send them bid sheets," he said. "If we have boats, we go through a list of marine buyers."

Anyone can put in a bid for salvage items, except for ICBC employees or their families, he said.

The Marine Drive centre has an auction about every month in the summer and every two months in the winter.

"You can't really plan these things, though," McKenna said. "There could be a fire in a place insured by us and we'll have all the stuff in here that night."

In cases like that, the centre will have a sale within a few days, he said.

The only restricted-bid items are damaged cars. ICBC will sell vehicles only to licenced auto wreckers and bonded automobile dealerships.

McKenna said "total burnouts" are crushed and shredded and sold for $15 a ton to smelters.

More than 16,000 cars were sold by ICBC last year, he said.

Canada Energy Policy Meets Favor In U.S.

WASHINGTON (CP) — The head of Northwest Energy Co., owners of the U.S. sections of the proposed Alaska Highway gas pipeline, has said that U.S. energy policy contrasts unfavorably with Canada's.

Northwest board chairman John McMillian, writing in a monthly publication put out by congressional Democrats, termed U.S. efforts on energy policy "an international embarrassment."

Unlike Canada and other countries, he said, the United States forgot about the effects of the 1973 oil embargo as soon as the embargo ended.

While the United States returned to its nonchalant attitudes, "Canada formulated and started implementing a national energy policy as early as 1974 and its program has been successful."

"Higher prices paid to oil and gas producers provided the incentives needed to increase exploration and development of new reserves. Through intelligent planning Canada has been able to alleviate many of its energy problems and it now has an immense surplus of natural gas."

After spending 18 months haggling over details of President Carter's proposed energy legislation, McMillian said, Congress can no longer avoid responsibility for delaying U.S. energy policy and for the effects of such delay.

"The U.S. can no longer function effectively without an energy policy and continued inaction by the Congress can only lead to national disgrace, economic chaos and international tragedy."

Clark Gains U.S. Approval

WASHINGTON (CP) — The Canadian Progressive Conservative party under Joe Clark has "shed the anti-U.S. bias of former Prime Minister John Diefenbaker" and may move toward the idea of U.S.-Canadian free trade, says Business Week magazine,

In a report on Clark's political outlook and general economic policies, the prominent U.S. magazine says in its current issue the Conservative leader still suffers from an image problem and has kept his economic plans vague.

CONFERENCE AT BASTION

Bastion Theatre will host the national conference of the Professional Association of Canadian Theatres in Victoria Sept. 7-9.

The prime topic will be the cutting of Canada Council grants and grants from other levels of government.

Discussions will be held on how to raise alternative funding through aggressive fundraising drives, sponsorships and donations.

Wreath to Honor Captain Freeman

The Thermopylae Club will sponsor a wreath-laying ceremony at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at the grave of Capt. Joshua Freeman in Ross Bay cemetery.

Freeman was master of the clipper-type ship Glory of the Seas from 1884 to 1904 when she sailed between Vancouver Island and California with cargoes of coal.

The ceremony — part of this year's celebration of the Captain Cook bicentennial and the year of the Tall Ships — is open to the public.

The grave is near the cemetary's western entrance on Memorial Avenue, opposite the end of May Street.

Sunday is also the date for the annual sailing race for the Thermopylae Trophy which will be sailed over a course between the Beacon Hill waterfront and Albert Head. The race was first held in 1968.

If winds are favorable the winning boats should finish between 3 and 4 p.m.

CHESS GAME POSTPONED

BAGUIO CITY, Philippines (AP) — Defending champion Anatoly Karpov postponed his 19th game against Soviet defector Viktor Korchnoi in the world chess championship match today. The game was rescheduled for Thursday.

No reason was given for the postponement. Each player is allowed three during the first 24 games, and this was the 27-year-old Soviet champion's second. Korchnoi, 45, has had his three.

Karpov has won four games to the challenger's one and needs only two more wins to retain the title awarded him in 1975 after Bobby Fischer of the United States refused to defend the championship.

U.S. Soothes Bonn Uproar

BONN (AP) — Washington told Bonn on Sunday it has no information about a plan, reported drafted by a top figure in Chancellor Helmut Schmidt's party, to pull West Germany out of NATO in exchange for a non-aggression pledge from Moscow.

The U.S. statement, made public by the Bonn government, appeared for the moment to take the steam out of a spy scandal that has rattled West Germany's governing party.

The controversy erupted last week when newspapers that oppose Schmidt's Social Democratic party reported that a top-ranking Romanian defector, Lt.-Gen. Ion Pacepa, had given the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) names of suspected Communist spies in the party.

Pacepa defected in July while on a trade mission in Cologne.

The newspaper reports said Pacepa also told the Americans that Egon Bahr, executive secretary of the SPD, had drawn up a plan for West Germany's withdrawal from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization as a first step toward German reunification.

Armin Gruenewald, a Bonn government spokesman, quoted the U.S. embassy as saying: "The United States of America has neither documentary nor any other evidentiary material which says that Egon Bahr has made proposals for the withdrawal of the Federal Republic of Germany from NATO in return for the reunification of Germany and a Soviet non-aggression guarantee."

The U.S. statement made no mention of other information U.S. authorities may have obtained from Pacepa, a commander of Romania's security services who had close ties to President Nicolae Ceausescu.

Authorities say at least one member of Schmidt's party, 34-year-old parliamentarian Uwe Holtz, is under investigation in connection with the affair.

Holtz, chairman of the parliamentary committee on economic co-operation and development, was involved in financing an aircraft deal that Pacepa was negotiating on behalf of the Romanian government when he defected.

Western diplomats in the Romanian capital of Bucharest report a dozen Romanian generals and senior security officers have been arrested or demoted in the wake of Pacepa's defection.

But the allegations against Bahr, the architect of West Germany's detente policy, appeared to be the most significant disclosure of the affair.

If West Germany withdrew from the Western alliance, it could pave the way for Bonn to begin negotiations with East Germany for reunification, press reports said.

The reunification of the two Germanys has long been a dream of conservative West Germans who opposed Brandt's policy of detente because it meant negotiating with the Eastern officials, in effect recognizing their authority.

Radicals Bomb Police

TOKYO (Reuter) — Two police buildings and two vehicles were destroyed on the weekend in bomb attacks by radicals protesting Tokyo's new Narita international airport.

Police said a fire caused by a time-bomb razed a two-storey pre-fabricated building at a weapons training range in Tokyo and destroyed two vehicles.

In the other explosion at Chiba, near the airport, a one-storey building was destroyed. The building, also at a weapons training range, housed a gun repair room and a command post.

No injuries were reported in the attacks, which police said were the work of left-wing radicals opposed to the $2.6-billion airport, about 60 kilometres northeast of Tokyo.

Meanwhile, police said anti-airport extremists were responsible for four bomb attacks overnight Saturday in the cities of Kobe, Osaka and Okayma. Property damage but no casualties were reported in those attacks.

Crawford Pleads Innocent

MOSCOW (AP) — American businessman Francis Crawford pleaded not guilty today to Soviet charges that he was part of a large-scale business and profiteering scheme in which three Russians illegally sold contraband goods and currency to foreigners at huge profits.

Sources close to the case said the Soviet government was anxious to finish the trial quickly and trade Crawford for two Soviet UN employees accused of spying in the United States.

"Do you plead guilty?" City Judge Lev Mironov asked the 37-year-old Moscow representative of International Harvester, a Chicago-based firm.

"I do not plead guilty," Crawford whispered to his translator, who relayed it to the court.

The three Russians—Vladimir Kiselev, his seamstress wife, Ludmila, and a cashier in a souvenir store for foreigners, Alla Solovyova, all pleaded guilty to the charges against them.

Kiselev, the first witness called, testified that he met Crawford through a mutual friend in early 1977 and from then traded currency with him in violation of government regulations.

"I wanted to buy U.S. dollars. Crawford wanted to buy rubles. On both sides there was mutual benefit and interest," said Kisilev, a $177-a-month factory worker.

Crawford was arrested June 12, apparently in retaliation for the arrest of the two alleged Soviet spies. Denying that he had broken any Soviet laws, he said he was a "pawn in a political chess game."

The two Russians are scheduled to go on trial in Newark, N.J., on Sept. 12.

In contrast to the trials of Soviet dissidents, four Western reporters were admitted to the courtroom today along with Crawford's American fiancee, Virginia Olbrish of the U.S. embassy staff; his American legal adviser, Peter Maggs; U.S. consular official Robert Pringle and U.S. commercial attache Stephen Sind.

Miss Olbrish, a secretary in the embassy commercial office, said Crawford is worn out by weeks of frequent interrogation that preceded the trial.

He is charged with buying 20,000 rubles on the black market for $8,500, or about a fourth of the legal rate.

Crawford also is accused of illegally purchasing six samovars.

Although Crawford is liable to a maximum sentence of eight years if convicted, Kiselev could get the death penalty.

Crawford has said he knew the Kiselevs only slightly after meeting them through a summer worker in his office.

He said he gave Mrs. Kiselev some small sewing jobs to do and paid her with inexpensive Western goods.

At least four businessmen and seven other foreigners linked to the Kiselevs were quietly expelled or told to leave the country recently, informed sources say.

Soviets Snap Demo

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet police broke up a disarmament demonstration by seven U.S. tourists in Red Square on Monday and briefly detained 13 Westerners, including four of the protesters, two U.S. correspondents and a cameraman covering the story.

Members of the same disarmanent group, the War Resisters' League, staged an almost simultaneous demonstration on the White House lawn in Washington. Eleven persons were arrested there.

Jerry Coffin, an organizer of the Moscow demonstration, said: "It was probably the fastest bust I've ever been in." Coffin, 33, an executive with an independent New York City broadcast firm, was questioned for an hour by Soviet officials and then released.

Redeeming Canada Savings Bonds?

Act Now And Save On Your Taxes

If you hold Canada Savings Bonds maturing this Fall, Wood Gundy's experts can help you redeem wisely.

Did you know that you are entitled to cash bonus payments in addition to interest when you redeem the Special Replacement Series or Series 24 bonds? Do you realize that you have a choice as to how you can treat these bonus payments for tax purposes? Have you considered the tax impact of redeeming your bonds if you have left your coupons to compound and have not been declaring the interest earned on the bonds each year?
By acting now there may be measures you can take to reduce the amount of tax you will pay.
The Series SR Canada Savings Bonds, issued in May 1968, mature October 1st this year; Series 24 Bonds, issued in September 1969, mature on November 1st. Both issues are unusual in several respects and the way in which you handle their redemption may affect the amount of tax you will pay.

Acting on behalf of The Bank of Canada, Wood Gundy Limited has established a C.S.B. Redemption Department at each of its offices across Canada. Staffed by qualified people who are experienced with Canada Savings Bonds and all aspects of these issues, the Wood Gundy C.S.B. Redemption Department will provide you with the information you need, and will be pleased to arrange for the redemption of your bonds at no cost to you.
We have also prepared a special booklet which explains many of the complicated aspects of these issues and discusses various approaches you may wish to adopt in redeeming your bonds and declaring their proceeds.

Harold Black is a surgeon. His annual income puts him in a 56% marginal tax bracket. In 1968 he bought $10,000 of the Series SR Canada Savings Bonds and in 1969 he bought $10,000 of the Series 24 Bonds. He has left the coupons to compound. This Fall, when he redeems his bonds, his taxable income will increase by $21,463. This may put him in a higher tax bracket and he may have a tax liability of some $12,000. By planning, there are some things he can do to reduce the tax he must pay, but he should understand the unusual features of these bonds.

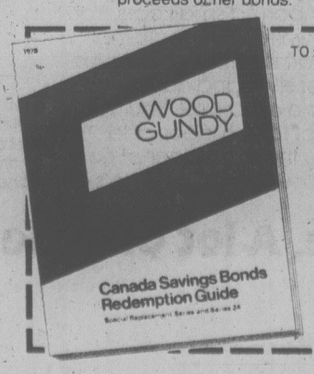

Jan Kearns has taught high school for 12 years. She holds $2,000 of the Special Replacement Series, and when she redeems her bonds, her taxable income in 1978 will increase by $2,177.50. However, she has decided not to teach for a few years to spend more time with her two children, so will earn no salary next year. If she takes the right action this Fall, she could end up paying no tax at all on the proceeds of her bonds.

Stan Watson has been buying C.S.B.'s for years. He recognizes that they're secure and he likes the interest rate they pay. He also knows he can cash them in at any time. Stan has cashed some of his coupons, but the remaining coupons and the bonus payments he'll receive this Fall could put him in a higher tax bracket. How he treats the proceeds could affect the amount of tax he'll pay.

To receive a copy of this helpful booklet or to obtain information or advice on the redemption of your savings bonds, simply call the C.S.B. Redemption Department at the Wood Gundy office nearest you or clip and mail this coupon.

Greek Bishop Cited In Sex Scandal

ATHENS (AP) — A sex scandal involving color photographs showing a 66-year-old Greek Orthodox bishop with an unidentified woman has shaken the church here. The bishop claims the pictures are forgeries but a government investigation says otherwise.

Ioannis Varvitsiotis, the education and religion minister, turned the pictures over to church officials and told the news media about them, saying: "I consider it my duty to protect the standing of the church."

The case has aroused the bishop's parish in a drive to oust him, and caused turmoil within the church hierarchy.

At the root of the scandal are color photographs purportedly showing black-bearded Bishop Stylianos of Preveza, in western Greece, having sex with an unidentified woman.

Church officials said the woman in the pictures appears to be a priest's wife or the wife of a Preveza notable whose identity is being protected.

The bishop claims the pictures are a "forgery, blackmail, a communist plot to undermine my position." He said they were forged by his former chauffeur, also a priest, demanding the equivalent of $6,000 in blackmail.

A church spokesman said an investigation by the State Criminal Research Department "proved beyond doubt that the pictures are genuine."

The spokesman said Varvitsiotis turned the pictures over to Archbishop Seraphelm after they were certified as genuine.

Varvitsiotis did not say how he obtained the pictures.

The archbishop showed the pictures to the Holy Synod, the 12-member governing body of which Bishop Stylianos was then a member.

"There were cries of horror from the bishops," the spokesman said.

Greek bishops are forbidden to marry and are vowed to eternal celibacy. Junior priests may marry and have children, but if they do, they cannot rise in rank.

Church officials said the bishop will go before a church tribunal and be defrocked if found guilty. The religious charge against him is "scandalizing the conscience of the Christian faithful."

The bishop gives a political explanation to the scandal. He suggests he is resented because he reached his position during the 1967-74 period of military dictatorship in Greece by allegedly supporting the dictators.

A new organization in his parish—the Preveza Christian Fighters—circulated leaflets calling for his ouster, calling him a porn-monger.

The scandal is the latest of a recent series which have shaken the institutions of Greece's official state religion. These have mainly been sexual offences but also include alleged embezzlement of the vast fortune the church handles.

British Tories In Lead

LONDON (Reuter) — Britain's opposition Conservative party hold a two-per-cent lead over the governing Labor party, an opinion poll in The Daily Express shows.

Electors were asked how they would vote if there were a general election now. Forty-seven per cent said Conservative and 45 per cent chose Labor. The minority Liberals scored five per cent.

The poll, taken monthly for the, right-wing newspaper, shows the Conservatives' lead narrowing to today's figure from six per cent in July and three in August.

The survey was published today, when prime Minister James callaghan is to the annual Trades Union Congress. The prime minister is expected to launch the campaign for a general election which he is reported to be planning for Oct. 5.

Powers Meet On Namibia

UNITED NATIONS (Reuter) — The five Western members of the United Nations Security Council held talks Monday with Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim on his proposals for a major UN military and civilian force in Namibia during the territory's transition to independence.

Officials said the meeting lasted about 90 minutes.

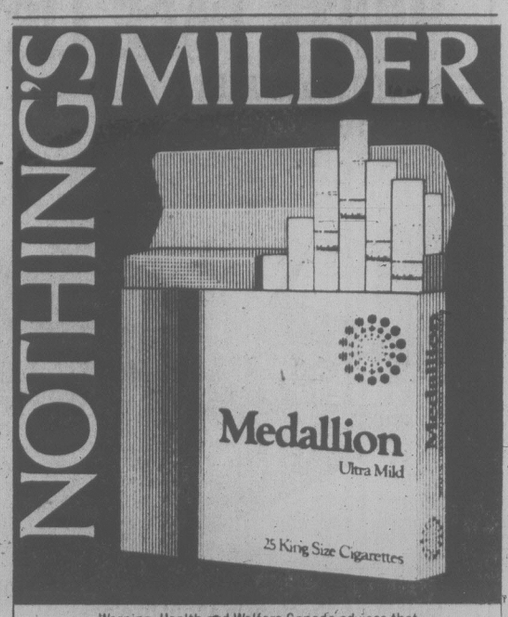

On Friday, Waldheim conferred with Foreign Minister Roelof Botha of South Africa, the country which governs the territory under a League of Nations mandate since repudiated by the UN.

The secretary-general was also expected to meet sometime today with Sam Nujoma, president of the South-West Africa People's Organization (SWAPO), the territory's main independence movement. Nujoma now is in New York.

The consultations are in preparation for a Security Council debate, likely to begin later this week, on Waldheim's proposals.

The proposals, based on a plan advanced by the five Western powers, call for the UN to provide 7,500 troops, 360 civilian police and about 1,200 civilian officials to help keep the peace and oversee elections in Namibia.

AUSSIES OFFER NIXON TOURIST VISA

SYDNEY (AP) — Australia will grant former U.S. president Richard Nixon a tourist visa if he comes on "a genuinely private visit," a senior government source said today in Canberra amid more press debate on the controversial trip.

The government turned down Nixon's request to make an official visit and meet with Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser, but Nixon's chief aide said the former president still planned to come on a private visit. Police are reported worrying about protecting Nixon, even on a private visit.

In an editorial entitled Stay Home Yank, the Sydney Sunday Telegraph said of Nixon's reported decision to come despite the government rebuff: "Is there no end to the arrogance of Richard Milhous Nixon? Is this wretched, strutting creature totally deluded?

"The federal government must tell this self-confessed cheat now that he is not wanted here. In any capacity. And if the message contains some of the expletives deleted from the taped tissue of lies which destroyed his presidency, it will serve him right."

Mayor Irvin Rockman of Melbourne said he would be interested in meeting Nixon unofficially. "He'd be very interesting, fascinating. After all, he has been a major figure in the world whatever happened," he said.

Space Duo Return

MOSCOW (Reuter) — East German cosmonaut Sigmund Jaehn and his Soviet mission commander, Valery Bykovsky landed safely in Soviet Central Asiaon on the weekend after a week aboard the Soviet Salyut-6 research station in earth orbit.

The descent capsule of their Soyuz-29 spacecraft parachuted down as planned 140 kilometres southeast of the town of Dzhezkazgan, in the republic of Kazakhstan.

Bykovsky and Jaehn, the first East German in space, were said to have successfully completed their program of medical and scientific experiments on board the Salyut. Both were reported feeling well after the touch down.

Ancient Capital Located?

LONDON (Reuter) — The lost capital of the ancient kingdom of Macedonia, which built up a vast empire in three continents 23 centuries ago, may have been discovered at Veraga in northern Greece, an eminent Greek archeologist said today.

Twice as popular

So far in 1978, 12,674 little Chevy Chevettes have been sold compared to 4,225 sold in the same period of time last year.* A 200% increase. Maybe it's because we added so many more new standard features. Or maybe it's because it has so much built-in value. Apparently a lot of people this year have chosen Chevette over other competitive cars in its class.

Now Chevette (except Scooter) gives you a fully equipped car at a lower price than most imported small cars. You get an AM radio, whitewalls, reclining seats, console, sport steering wheel plus over a dozen other style and convenience features at no extra cost. You can buy a 3-door or opt for a 5-door, and either way you get the extra door at no extra charge, 'cause every Chevette's a hatchback. And with Chevette's 1.6 litre engine and 4-speed manual transmission, it delivers a dollar-saving 67 km/gal. combined city and highway driving. Finally, something no import can offer you: General Motors Dealer Network. Over 1,000 dealers stretching coast to coast to provide you with parts availability and quality service.

Buying or leasing? See your Chevrolet dealer today and drive a best seller.

Man Admits to 17 Killings

NASHVILLE (AP) — A man stopped by traffic patrolmen for a broken car tail light Monday told police he had killed 17 people in the last two years — most recently the owner of the car he was driving, authorities reported.

Police said they verified the man's account of the most recent slaying and are checking with Ohio and Pennsylvannia authorities on the others.

"He said he had enough ammo to kill several more people in the Nashville area and he was then going to kill himself," Detective Bill Robeck said.

Asked whether he believes the statements, Robeck said: "I don't know. I believe him on one. How much is fact and how much is fiction, I can't say."

Charged with murder, armed robbery and auto theft is Kenneth Taylor, 37, an unemployed Lima, Ohio, man who said he was hitch-hiking to the West. He had been driving the car of a man who picked him up on the city's inter-state highway system, police said.

Detective Sgt. Henry Rodgers said two patrolmen halted Taylor's car "because it was driving around with no tail light. As they approached him, he said, 'I'm glad you stopped me. I just committed a murder.' He gave them a weapon and told them where they could find the body."

Following directions to a downtown alley, officers found the body of David Willie, 36, also unemployed. The car Taylor drove is registered to Willie.

Professor's Throat Slashed

BIRMINGHAM, England (Reuter) — The professor in charge of the laboratory linked with an outbreak of smallpox has been found with his throat cut, a hospital spokesman said.

Prof. Henry Bedson was taken to hospital suffering from a severe throat wound, the spokesman said, but gave no details of how it was caused.

"We are still fighting to save his life," he added.

Bedson, 49, is head of the department of medical microbiology at the University of Birmingham.

Janet Parker, a 40-year-old medical photographer, contracted the disease while working at the university's medical school, one of three places in Britain where the smallpox virus is kept for research.

She is still in hospital but is said by health authorities to be recovering.

More than 200 people, all primary contacts of Mrs. Parker, have been quarantined for the next eight days.

Business Leaders Held In Managua

MANAGUA (Reuter) — The Nicaraguan government has arrested about 60 prominent businessmen and politicians in an attempt to crush a growing national strike aimed at ousting President Anastasio Somoza, strike organizers said.

A spokesman for the Conservative Party, a member of the broad-based opposition coalition organizing the strike, said they were among an estimated 600 people arrested in this troubled Central American country during the last two weeks.

Fifteen of the strike leaders were detained Monday by the national guard, Nicaragua's only security force. Many others had been arrested during the weekend.

But the Nicaraguan Development Institute (INDE) representing most of Nicaragua's private companies, said it remained firmly behind the strike to end 45 years of "extreme right-wing dictatorship by the Somoza family."

The 11-day-old strike has been accompanied by street battles in many towns between the national guard and teen-age rebels. In the northern town of Matagalpa alone, estimates of the death toll ranged up to 50.

Details of charges against those arrested were available.

Among those Monday was the vice-president of INDE, Jose Francisco Teran. He was on his way to a news conference when he was stopped by the national guard.

Nicaragua's Human Rights Commission, which has been strongly critical of the government, said four of its leading members had been arrested in the towns of Massaya and Matagalpa.

The commission said it had assembled evidence concerning about 200 people whom it maintained had died at the hands of the national guard this year.

Some had been killed after being arrested, it said, while others had been shot in their homes by guard patrols.

President Somoza has refused to accept a report from the commission, said its chief, Jose Esteban Gonzlaez.

20 Perished On Float

SINGAPORE (Reuter) — A group of 54 emaciated Vietnamese refugees arrived in Singapore today aboard a ship that plucked them from their drifting boat on which 20 others died of starvation and disease.

A U.S. embassy spokesman said the United States would accept all of the refugees on humanitarian grounds if the United Nations is unable to resettle them in other countries within 90 days.

It was on this condition that they were being allowed to come ashore in Singapore from the ore and oil carrier World Kingdom.

FAT LIB TURNING MILITANT

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — The Fat Liberation Front has arrived and is out to prove that "a fat person is not just a slim person who's gone bad," says founder Vivian Meyer.

The FLF will use politics practised by feminist groups and civil rights organizations to free fat people from oppression and discrimination, according to Meyer.

The group is trying to revise the way others view fat persons and how fat persons see themselves, she added.

Ms. Meyer said a basic problem fat people have is that they are stereotyped as gluttons.

Ms. Meyer said the setting of employee weight limits is an example of what fat liberationists consider discrimination.

"Fat people who are very fat know they are going to be turned down (for jobs)," she said. "Sometimes it's not said outright, but sometimes it is."

Laetrile 'May Cause Cancer'

CHICAGO (AP) — The so-called anti-cancer diet promoted by proponents of Laetrile is "as unhealthy for cancer patients . . . as it is possible for the mind of man to conceive," says a New York medical authority.

Dr. Victor Herbert of the Veterans Administration Hospital in the Bronx analysed the diet which is recommended by Laetrile supporters to accompany use of the chemical in the treatment of cancer.

His analysis is published as a letter in the Sept. 8 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Laetrile is a controversial substance which many medical authorities, including the U.S. Food and Drug Administration and the American Cancer Society, say has no benefit in the treatment of cancer. It is derived from fruit pits, usually apricots, which yield cyanide, a poison.

Dr. Herbert cites studies which have found that Laetrile itself may cause cancer.

The diet recommended to accompany its use bans meat, fish or fowl, dairy products and animal protein. It calls for increased consumption of fruits and vegetables, large doses of vitamins C and E and pancreatic enzymes.

Herbert says the high-bulk, low-calorie diet is just the opposite of what the cancer patient needs. He said large doses of the recommended vitamins may themselves be harmful.

Hiding Losses Denied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — General Dynamics Corp., one of two major defence contractors under investigation by the Securities and Exchange Commission, denies it has misled the public about major losses on Navy shipbuilding contracts.

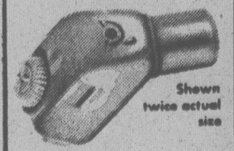

Sen. William Proxmire, Dem-Wis., announced Monday the SEC is investigating allegations that General Dynamics and Litton Industries Inc. tried to hide losses on shipbuilding contracts in their financial statements.

"Litton and General Dynamics have been saying in their financial statements that they would break even on their Navy shipbuilding contracts," Proxmire said. "But under the settlements announced by the Navy, both companies have agreed to accept large losses on the same shipbuilding contracts."

Navy claims examiners have agreed to pay less than one-fourth of the almost $2 billion in shipbuilding claims.

There was no immediate comment from Litton.

AIR CONTROLLERS END SLOWDOWN

PARIS (Reuter) — French air traffic controllers ended a 10-day work-to-rule slowdown today which had caused serious delays in European air traffic. But effects of the slowdown were expected to be felt for another 48 hours.

Officials said the controllers resumed normal working procedures at mid-day today.

The slowdown was the fifth this summer in a campaign by France's controllers to obtain better pay and improved working conditions. It coincided with one of the busiest air travel periods of the year as tens of thousands of people left for or returned from annual summer vacations.

There was no sign that the dispute had been settled and no potential date for resumption of negotiations between controllers and French authorities.

tic provinces, expressed disapproval of the latest agreement Monday.

He added, however, that he doubts a nationwide majority of the members will back his stance.

Wolfgang Kiesling, a member of the Montreal executive, said the financial pinch had sapped members' fighting spirit.

Reports from other locals across Canada were sketchy, but union spokesmen in Ottawa and Winnipeg said they were recommending acceptance by their members.

The proposed 24-month agreement—one month shorter than an earlier proposal — refers the contentious issue of job classification for cargo handlers to a joint union-management committee.

The agreement also doubles the time workers can be suspended without pay for disciplinary reasons, to 20 working days from the present 10. Air Canada wanted the limit increased to 60 days, while the Montreal members wanted it to remain at 10 days.

The two sides have agreed on most other issues, although the union said it would have preferred a one-year contract.

Picnic Ends With 7 Dead

DERRY, Pa. (UPI) — People came "in droves" to St. Joseph Church's Labor Day Festival Monday. It was the final day of the three-day affair and they wanted a chance to catch a pingpong ball dropped from a helicopter.

Those lucky enough to catch one of the hundreds of balls, marked with numbers, took them to the church basement to redeem them for money.

An hour later, the basement became a morgue after the helicoper stalled and it plunged into the crowd, killing seven persons — some reportedly dismembered — and injuring 18 others.

valuable commuter service to Vancouver and Victoria.

"But the overiding factor is that there has been a large loss of life and that should be the prime consideration."

In Vancouver, however, AirWest general manager Dick Laidman said his company has no plans to shut down because of the Saturday crash.

"We see no reason to discontinue service and the operation is back as normal," said Laidman today.

Laidman said nobody knows what went wrong on the flight that crashed into Vancouver's Coal Harbor at 5:45 p.m. after departing Victoria.

He said it is up to the Ministry of Transport (MoT) to determine the cause of the crash and it would be without precedent for the MoT to shut down an airline before completing its investigation.

MoT spokesman Darrel Smith said the Saturday crash is the first incident involving an AirWest aircraft that apparently involves mechanical failure.

He said there is nothing to relate the accident to previous crashes.

On Sept. 22, 1976, an AirWest Twin Otter carrying 16 people crashed near Bella Coola, killing one and injuring four others. On Dec. 16, 1976, another Otter carrying 16 crashed and sank in Juan de Fuca Strait near Victoria without fatalities. On Oct. 31, 1977, a float plane with four aboard flipped and sank at False Bay without fatalities. And on Dec. 1, 1977, a Twin Otter carrying 14 crashed and burned on Saturna Island without serious injuries.

MoT investigators were on the job today interviewing eyewitnesses to the Saturday crash, reviewing control tower tapes and examining the badly damaged aircraft.

A government spokesman said it could take months before the investigation is complete.

In Vancouver, Wes Anderson, spokesman for Teamsters Local 213, representing the airline's employees, said union members are upset with the company's refusal to initiate an independent safety check of its entire fleet of planes.

Spokesmen for the 25 to 30 pilots and flight crew said Monday the issue has not been resolved.

Meanwhile, Ken Steele, business agent for the Teamsters union, said a trust fund is being organized for the families of the two crew members killed.

AirWest pilots earn about $1,500 a month and flight attendants about $600 a month. Steele said a lengthy strike last winter left most pilots and attendants short of funds.

A company spokeman said the airline plans to make a financial contribution to the families of the victims but it's not yet clear if it also applies to families of the nine passengers killed.

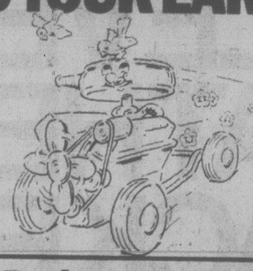

The Airwest spokesman said five persons failed to show up for the flight. One of them, a Surrey man, phoned the airline Monday morning to say he had missed the flight because he was visiting friends, an airline spokesman said.

"He said the drinking (with the friends) came in handy," she said.

A Buddhist memorial service was held Monday for eight of the Japanese victims.

About 100 people, including 18 relatives of the dead who arrived earlier Monday from Japan, attended the brief service.

Fair Entries Shatter Records

By HUMPHRY DAVY
Times Staff

Despite the steady erosion of agricultural lands in Saanich and elsewhere on Vancouver Island, the Saanichton fair over the Labor Day weekend had the largest number of exhibits in its 110-year-old history.

Entries in nearly all sections — livestock, vegetables, flowers — were all up and filled all available space in buildings scattered about the fair grounds.

The steady increase in the number of exhibits, which year after year has shown no signs of levelling off, has Doug Miller, president of the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society, thinking about next year's fair.

"We will have to consider new buildings or renovating and improving existing ones," he said as thousands of visitors poured into the fair grounds.

Conveners of various sections reported the quality of the exhibits was exceptionally good.

Mrs. Sylvia Hutt, in charge of the horticultural exhibits, one of the most popular sections of the fair, said this summer's warm dry spell didn't affect the quality of most vegetables and flowers.

There was plenty of evidence of this, like the 125-pound squash which had visitors gaping, a sunflower 15 inches in diameter and some superb tomatoes.

"The display of vegetables is one of the best in years," said Victor Clive, in charge of the vegetable section.

He was particulary pleased with a unique display of herbs, as well as with the brocoli and cauliflower exhibits.

Some familiar long-time exhibitors competed against each other for cash prizes totalling more than $10,000.

One of these was Fred Handy, 67, who won his first prize in 1924 when he was attending school.

This year he concentrated on flowers and won several firsts in this division.

A unique breed of cattle was shown at the fair for the first time.

Davies said the white Charolais on exhibit was a yearling weighing 1,400 pounds.

"Next year he will be double that weight," she said.

She said the all-white Charolais is gentle, easy to handle and grows no horns.

The main attraction Saturday was the 4-H club competition in the judging classes and educational displays.

Other attractions included highland dancing events and poultry, rabbit and caged bird displays.

Drivers Save Boaters

Two Victoria couples owe their lives to the quick thinking of two provincial ambulance drivers following a boating incident Sunday in Saanich Inlet.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Omond of Marifield Avenue and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pinkston of Michigan Avenue were trolling in Omond's 21-foot cabin cruiser with only the stern canvas removed.

Gradually the fumes from the inboard-outboard motor began building up inside the cabin until finally all but Omond were unconscious.

Omond managed to steer the boat into Hall's Boathouse.

"I got the boat in and then walked my wife around — which was the wrong thing to do — and then I actually passed out," Omond said today.

He doesn't know who called the ambulance but says the two attendants were quick-witted enough to realise the four were overcome by carbon monoxide and took them immediately to the armed forces Fleet diving unit at Colwood where they were placed in the hypobaric chamber.

"They (the attendants) were fantastic. They really knew what they were doing," Omond said.

Dr. David Henderson, submarine diving medical officer who supervised the treatment at Colwood, also lauded the ambulance attendants for administering oxygen on the way to Colwood and the assistance given in the chamber itself.

He said treatment in the chamber had restored the two couples 10 times as fast as treatment could have worked under any other conditions.

Was Inner Tube Dunking Really Just an Accident?

"Did you do that on purpose?" Young sputtered from the water.

"Who me?" replied Couvelier.

And everybody laughed.

It was part of morning hijinx at the Esquimalt Rec Centre as the two mayors met to discuss the annual Great Inner Tube Race, which will be held Sunday.

As the race runs from Craigflower Bridge in Saanich to Gorge Park in Esquimalt, they are co-hosts of the event.

The two mayors decided to try their form on a tube and proved to be a good team.

"This isn't so hard," Couvelier said.

"Yeah, maybe we should go in it," Young said.

However, later he decided to leave it to the younger folks.

"But Esquimalt is going to win the men's doubles," Young said. "I've tossed out a challenge to Saanich and I say an Esquimalt team is going to win."

Young said he always participates in the Great Inner Tube Race in some way.

The only requirement is to fill out an official entry form in advance. Midnight tonight is the last chance to mail in the form to be absolutely sure it will arrive on time. However, Wednesday and Thursday they can be delivered to the Times in person or taken to any sporting goods store listed below. The stores also have official entry forms.

All proceeds go to assist amateur sport in the Greater Victoria area.

"I'm pleased to help with this event," Couvelier said before climbing aboard the inner tube this morning.

"Recreation is very important for our region, especially in Saanich. I don't care how many industrial parks we get in the municipality, we will basically always be a bedroom community. We must concentrate on recreation and other fulfilling activities."

The Great Inner Tube Race weekend gets under way Saturday night with the Tubers Ball at the Victoria Curling Rink at 8 p.m. It is couples only at $5 a couple.

At noon on Sunday a Tuber Parade under the direction of Nanaimo's Mayor Frank Ney will proceed from Gorge Park along Gorge Road to Craigflower Bridge. At 1 p.m. Sunday the first of three inner tube races starts.

First race is women's doubles, followed 15 minutes later by mixed doubles and followed at 1:30 p.m. by men's doubles.

Trophies are awarded in all categories.

Relief on the Way For Court Jam-Up

By DEREK SIDENIUS
Times Staff

Relief is on the way for Victoria's beleaguered court system.

Dennis Sheppard, deputy attorney-general in charge of court administration, said in an interview plans are under way to bring in two more judges, one each for provincial and county court, and to expand the number of courtrooms in the Law Courts building on Burdett.

In addition, he said, consideration is being given to creating a special traffic court run by a justice of the peace or court referee to handle simple traffic matters. Such courts are now in operation in several locations around the province.

The announcements came in the wake of mounting criticism of the state of the courts here.

Last week Judge William Ostler, chief judge of the provincial courts in Victoria, said the courts are in an almost chaotic state.

He said trials are now being booked as far as next February and termed the backlog both severe and unacceptable.

Sheppard described the Victoria courts as "one of our trouble spots" and said cases are being set too far ahead. He said he would like to see cases cleared through the courts within 90 days.

"The system is working to its present capacity. It hasn't reached crisis proportions yet," he said. "But if we don't deal with the problems this fall, it could be a crisis next spring."

Sheppard said the appointment of another full-time provincial court judge should be made within the next six weeks. At present there are four full-time judges and one part-time.

He said the duties of the new judge will depend on how quickly the backlog of cases set for trial can be cleared up. The judge may eventually only sit in the Victoria court a few days a week and be used on other days visiting courts around the province when required.

Sheppard said a study is under way to determine how best to use space in the Law Courts that will become vacant when the offices of the superintendents of brokers and insurance move to Vancouver later this month.

At least one more courtroom may be created.

He said there is a very good possibility a third full-time county court judge will be assigned to the Victoria courts this fall.

"The courts here are becoming a much busier place than they've been in the past," he said.

In a move to relieve provincial court judges of simple traffic matters, the court services are looking for a suitable candidate to run a lay traffic court here similar to those in operation in Vancouver, Burnaby, Courtenay and Kamloops.

The lay courts are held in an informal office setting and presided over by a justice of the peace who hears traffic cases where the penalty on conviction excludes any chance of the defendant going to jail.

Sheppard also said he is hoping to expand the law clerk program next May to include one resident clerk for the county court in Vancouver and another for the county and supreme courts in Victoria.

Few Delays On Ferries

It was smooth sailing during the Labor Day weekend on most B.C. ferries.

The holiday is never much of a problem, according to B.C. Ferry Corporation traffic manager Bill Bouchard.

He said there were only about three one-hour waits on the Departure Bay run yesterday and no delays anywhere else.

A crunch wasn't expected and didn't materialize Monday night because most people headed home earlier in the day, he said.

The Thanksgiving weekend is the next real problem because the ferries will be operating on a reduced sailings schedule.

The fall schedule starts Wednesday, which means a cutback to 16 ferries from the 22 vessels working during the summer.

Off-peak passenger fares of $2 also go into effect tommorrow. Rates for car and driver will remain at $12.

A Lukewarm Welcome to September

SO THE ENDLESS SUMMER has ended after all. Those long, wonderful, sun-charged weeks are over, finished, done with. September is here. Labor Day has come and gone. The kids are back in school, and now is the time for all good men to shrug off their lazy-days torpor.

But before we leave it down the wind, a sigh for the summer that was.

Remember how its days came in, with first light infiltrating the east so early that night was no more than a gesture?

Remember the blue skies, no cloud in them bigger than a man's hand, and those watermelon-tinted sunsets that promised more of the same for each tomorrow?

Remember the good feel of heat on the skin, the casual summer clothes that now in these sterner airs seem ridiculously inadequate?

Good things, but things past. Like it or not — and I do have a sneaking fondness for this month of September — we must accept the fact of fall.

Now that life is real and earnest again, perhaps we should spare a glance at the world around us. Summer or no summer, it has been chugging along on its erratic course, with a strike here and a protest there, and rumors of a federal election.

It's easy to be cynical, especially when one learns that Victoria plans to substitute artificial holly for the genuine thorny article in its outdoor Christmas decorations this year.

But let nothing you dismay, especially since Ottawa has given us the bland assurance that inflation in recent months has eased off a trifle.

This asserted easement is not obvious, and Lord knows the amount of groceries that $20 will buy remains pitifully small. Still, Ottawa's perceptions are tuned to catch the bat-squeak that our blunter ears might miss, and perhaps the claim of reduced inflation is more than mere press-agentry aimed at burnishing the tarnished image of government.

In view of the proposed federal government spending cutbacks, this may take a little doing. I'm all for cutting, but the federal axe does seem to be aimed at the agency which works to provide at last minimum protection against the ferocious brigandry of big business.

This is the Consumers' Association of Canada, which stands to lose its federal grants totalling about $400,000 annually.

To the consumer, which is to say, you and me, this is a move which cannot fail to give prices a most unwelcome boost.

The Consumers' Association since its inception has been our hard-working and vigilant watchdog. In effect, for a saving that's a mere flea-bite when laid aginst next year's projected, and whopping, $50 billion budget, the federal government is condemning us to a hike of many millions in the cost of our necessities.

Why this particular cut? Can it be that the Consumers' Association was doing its dollar-saving job rather too well?

It's hard in the face of government chicanery of this sort to maintain a cheerful mood. But life goes on, and we must even make the best of it.

Nature, at least, is prodigal, and I am looking forward to a seasonal chore that will help stock our supply shelves against the winter.

Oregon grapes don't grow just anywhere. It's necessary to find a high, dry everygreen woodland, not too thickly grown, where the plants with their spiky, bright-green leaves receive sun and shade in judicious measure.

The berries themselves are dusky-blue with a silvery bloom on them.

I doubt that life holds anything much better than a chunk of home-baked bread still hot from the oven, generously layered with Oregon grape jelly. One bite, and the worries of the world go skittering.

Budgets Make It Four Straight Titles

Victoria Club Eyes Pan-Am Championship

SAINT JOHN, N.B. — Victoria once again reigns over Canadian senior men's softball, so what else is in store for the victorious Budgets?

Well, there is "99 per cent certainty" that Budgets, having kept the championship trophy in Victoria for a fourth straight year, will step out as Canada's representatives in the Pan-American championships in San Juan, Puerto Rico, next summer.

And not as big, but not forgotten, is the 1978 championship of the Northwest League. Believe it or not, that's one of the items field manager Harvey Stevenson brought up after he had time to digest and enjoy Sunday's title-cliching 7-0 victory over the Newmarket Rays of Ontario.

The Northwest League's championship playoff between Victoria and Woodinville Lumber of Seattle was left in the air because of British Columbia and the Canadian playoffs. But Harvey wants the best-of-three series, to be played in Victoria, to "go ahead."

There is time, he feels, to prepare for San Juan next year. Canadian Amateur Softball Association officials here have indicated that Budgets definitely will be Canada's representatives.

And they should be.

Budgets clearly were the best team at the 1978 nationals. They went undefeated in all seven games. Victoria's batters pounded out 51 hits and 35 runs while the pitchers held tough opposition to only eight runs and 26 hits.

And the difference, said Stevenson, came about because of Victoria's insistence towards playing top-ranked United States teams. The U.S. champions from Reading, Pa., Santa Rosa, Calif., Springfield, Mo., and Aurora, Ill., were some of the classier teams to play Budgets this year.

"As far as I'm concerned, that was the difference," said Victoria policeman uho directed a championship team in his first year as a manager. "We faced good throwing all year. We knew, when we came here, that we wouldn't see any better pitching.

"Our batters proved it. The runs and the hits came from everyone in the lineup, not just one or two guys.

"We had one or two scares, but there never was a moment when we felt we couldn't win (the Canadian title) again.

"Our pickups (pitcher Clem Perini of Vancouver Thirsks and utility infielder Rudy Teichrob of Abbotsford) proved to be a dividend but we had too much depth and balance. Saskatchewan had good pitching, but no hitting. Ontario had good hitting but lacked pitching support. We had it both ways."

Perini won four games, including the final one, without conceding an earned run and was named the outstanding pitcher of the six-day showdown. And, not too surprisingly, catcher-first baseman Bob Burrows was singled out as the most valuable player. Burrows hit .556 and clouted two home runs and was the most consistent threat in Victoria's attack.

But all-star selectors, relying only on the four games in the round-robin preliminaries, didn't see Victoria as an overwhelming power. Third baseman John Green was the only Budget to earn all-star honors.

That didn't bother Stevenson.

Sonny Philips of Fredericton, top hitter in the preliminary round with an average of .615, was named all-star catcher.

Other all-stars were pitcher Rob Guenther of Saskatoon, first baseman Bob Walton of Newmarket, second baseman Mike Henderson of Nova Scotia, shortstop Mike Connolly of Charlottetown, and outfielders Steve Locke of Nova Scotia, Larry Pavloff of Saskatoon and Chris Abbott of Saint John.

Budgets captured the winners' bracket with a 6-1 victory over Nova Scotia, represented by Brookfield Elks, Saturday night. Andy Konpacki was the winner, spacing four hits.

The deciding winners-losers final Sunday was settled in the first inning when Budgets, parading eight batters to the plate, struck for five runs.

The big blow was Dennis Eckert's three-run homer. Run-scoring singles by Bob Holness and Teichrob accounted for the inning's other runs.

Perini, given the early cushion, was never in trouble as he held Rays to only three hits. Two came in the final inning but the last-gasp threat was erased by a game-ending double play.

Budgets knocked Ontario into the losers' bracket by defeating Newmarket 5-2 earlier Saturday. The Rays earned a second chance, however, by edging Saskatchewan 1-0 in three-hour, 25-minute, 15-inning marathon—the longest game ever played in the national tournament—and then eliminating Nova Scotia 3-0 on Sunday.

FINAL

Ontario	000 000 0 — 0	3	2
Victoria	500 002 x — 7	7	1

Special to The Times

PETERBOROUGH — Peterborough Red Oaks have a one-game lead over Victoria Shamrocks in the Mann Cup Canadian senior lacrosse championship today.

And the simple reason why they have a first-game victory is that they wanted it more than the Rocks. They battled all the way before emerging as deserving winners of a 12-11 decision in the opening game of the best-of-seven final series here Monday night.

The second game will be played tonight.

The Shamrocks, who couldn't hold a 7-3 second-period lead, were surprised by the aggressiveness of the Ontario Lacrosse Association champions.

The Red Oaks were sharper and more persistent in the battles for loose balls and they caused many turnovers by the Rocks with their floor-length checking tactics.

Guiltiest, perhaps, of the Rocks were goalie Larry Smeltzer who, although he played well in goal and had four assists, had three passes intercepted for turnovers; and Ivan Thompson, who had four turnovers.

Coach Nirmal Dillon of the Shamrocks was unhappy with his team's performance and gave credit to Smeltzer for keeping the Rocks in the game to the finish.

"It was one of the worst games we've played," said Dillon. "We didn't have any control and we threw away a lot of balls.

"We were trying to play the fast break, which we don't usually do. I think we were really tired after the long trip. Smeltzer was the only thing that held us in."

Shamrocks led 4-3 after the first period and appeared to be in complete control in the second when they moved into a 7-3 lead. But the Red Oaks, playing before a friendly crowd of 2,338, fired back with four goals in two minutes and 50 seconds to tie the score.

The count was deadlocked at 8-8 after two periods and the Shamrocks twice moved out in front during the third period before the Red Oaks came through for the narrow victory.

Ranjit Dilloń, with his second goal, gave the Rocks a 9-8 lead, but the Red Oaks tied it through Tom Parnell. Then Brian Evans of Nanaimo scored his second goal on a power play to give the Rocks a 10-9 edge. Again the Red Oaks, with Parnell once more doing the honors, knotted the count.

Peterborough took the lead for the first time at 14:16 on a power play. Chris Hall, with his second tally, got the Irish even gain. Then Paul Evans, brother of Nanaimo's Brian, scored the winner at 18:58.

The Victoria power play almost cost Peterborough the game as the Shamrocks scored on two of three advantages in the first period and on all four in the second. Victoria also scored on its lone man advantage effort in the final period.

Peterborough had six power plays, scoring on only one and giving up a short-handed goal. The Red Oaks took a total of 31 penalty minutes, 13 minors and a major.

Victoria was assessed 29 minutes, 12 minors and a major.

Gerry Cadwallader of the Shamrocks had six minors. Hall and Jim Branton of Peterborough each received a major and a double minor for a first-period fight.

"They beat us on the power play," said Peterborough coach Ben Floyd. "But five-on-five, we had them."

The Red Oaks outshot the Shamrocks 53-44 with a 16-12 advantage in shots in the first period, a 19-17 edge in the second, and 18-15 in the third.

Parnell led the Red Oaks with four goals, while Jim Wasson added three; brother Bob Wasson two and Larry Ferguson, Steve Gardner and Evans got one each.

Norm Baker, Ranjit Dillon, Hall and Brian Evans scored two goals each for the Shamrocks, winners of the Western Lacrosse Association title. Dan Green, Gord Lyons and Ron MacNeil added the other goals for the Shamrocks.

Brian Evans had four assists, Green and Thompson two each.

Injured forward Larry Bell was dressed but did not play for the Shamrocks.

It's Time to Believe Denver Is 'For Real'

By The Associated Press

Now, as Denver Broncos were saying before they were so rudely interrupted . . .

The Broncos, beginning the defence of their American Football Conference championship, started where they left off in the West, beating Oakland Raiders, 14-6, in their opening game of the National Football League season Sunday.

"It's about time people started believing Denver is for real," said defensive tackle Lyle Alzado.

"I still don't think people believe us yet," added safety Bill Thompson. "But I don't care."

Clutch interceptions by safeties Thompson and Bernard Jackson keyed Denver's victory over its chief rival in the AFC West. Nine months ago, the Broncos beat the Raiders 20-17 to cop the title in a major upset. But if it was upsets you wanted the NFL was the place to find them Sunday.

Favorites like Miami Dolphins, Cincinnati Bengals, New England Patriots and Minnesota Vikings tumbled like 10-pins on a day for the underdogs. New York Jets stunned Miami 33-20, Kansas City Chiefs edged Cincinnati 24-23, Washington Redskins kayoed New England 16-14 and New Orleans Saints beat Minnesota 31-24.

Elsewhere, Atlanta Falcons knocked off Houston Oilers 20-14, Green Bay Packers surprised Detroit Lions 13-7, Chicago Bears whipped St. Louis Cardinals 17-10, Pittsburgh Steelers rapped Buffalo Bills 28-17, Los Angeles Rams edged Philadelphia Eagles 16-14, Cleveland Browns topped San Francisco '49ers 24-7 and San Diego Chargers slugged Seattle Seahawks 24-20.

The NFL's first regular-season weekend got started Saturday night when New York Giants defeated Tampa Bay 19-13. It concluded Monday when the defending champion Cowboys belted Baltimore Colts 38-0 at Dallas. It was a display that left you believing in the champs.

Denver converted a pair of turnovers into touchdowns and rode a stubborn defence to its victory over Oakland.

It was Oakland's first regular-season loss in Denver since 1962.

Dorsett zigged and zagged 91 yards for a touchdown after a short Staubach pass and Hill set up another touchdown with a 48-yard weaving gallop after taking another Staubach toss.

Staubach completed 16 of 22 passes for 280 yards while Dorsett rushed for 147 yards in 15 carries and snagged three passes for 107 yards.

Don Ewing Broke 'Black Sox' Story

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Donald M. Ewing, 83, the former Associated Press reporter who broke the Chicago Black Sox baseball story and the famous "Say it ain't so, Joe," episode, has died after a brief illness.

Working in Chicago for AP in 1920, he and Charles Dunkling broke the story of Shoeless Joe Jackson and the seven other Chicago White Sox players who threw the 1919 World Series. The team became known as the "Black Sox."

It was Ewing who witnessed the moving scene in front of the Chicago Criminal Courts building when several hundred small boys waited for Jackson to appear.

Ewing left with Jackson and as they made their way through the hushed crowd, one tiny youngster stepped up to the outfielder and tugged at his sleeve," wrote Oliver Gramling in AP, The Story of the News.

"Say it ain't so, Joe" Ewing quoted the child as pleading.

Joe Jackson looked down.

"Yes, kid, I'm afraid it is."

"Well, I'd never thought it," the boy replied tearfully. "I'd never thought it."

BULLET STRIKES WOMAN AT GAME

CHICAGO (AP) — A bullet, apparently fired from a .22-calibre weapon, struck Donna Fantozzi, 39, in an elbow Sunday as she watched with more than 52,000 fans the National Football League opener for Chicago Bears in Soldier Field.

For Vilas, the Bell Tolled at Midnight

NEW YORK (Reuter) — Stunned by the spectacular upset of defending champion Guillermo Vilas, the United States tennis championships entered its eighth day today with top-seeded Bjorn Borg and second-seeded Jimmy Connors both favored in fourth-round matches.

In a spectacular, four hour and 11-minute epic that produced the most dazzling tennis of the tournament, the third-seeded Vilas was upended by unseeded Butch Walts of Atherton, Calif., 6-4, 7-6, 4-6, 6-7, 6-2 in a match that ended shortly before midnight Monday night.

Vilas, who beat Connors in straight sets in last year's final at Forest Hills, N.Y., played brilliantly. But he was outplayed by the unheralded 23-year-old Walts, America's 16th ranked player, who had 11 aces, scored with countless volleys and outduelled the Argentine from the baseline.

Few in the gallery of more than 7,000 felt that Walts, possessor of one of the most powerful serves in tennis, would win the final set after Vilas had recovered to win the third and fourth sets, the fourth after fighting off a match-point in the 12th game.

But the six-foot-five Californian, who has won only one tournament during three years as a professional, proceeded to break Vilas's service in the first, third and fifth games to record the most stunning upset of the tournament.

Besides producing magnificent tennis, the match also put to rest fears that the new rubberized asphalt surface at the U.S. National Tennis Centre would preclude long rallies and a reliance on sound tactical play. Time and again, Walts and Vilas fought duels in which the ball crossed the net 30 times and more before the point was decided.

Today, Borg, seeking the only major title that has eluded him, meets 12th-seeded Harold Solomon of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., while Connors, chasing his third Open crown, takes on unseeded Adriano Panatta of Italy.

SEABOARD STAGES UNBEATEN MARCH ON WAY TO TITLE

SWIFT CURRENT, Sask. — Seaboard Construction of Victoria, backed by impressive pitching and hitting performances, has retained the Western Canada senior "B" men's softball championship for British Columbia.

The Stuffy McGinnis League champions climaxed an eight-game unbeaten march Monday by defeating Winnipeg Kings, the Manitoba representatives, 9-2 in the final of the six-team tournament.

The Victoria team defeated North West Territories 2-1 in the winners' bracket semi-final, then trounced Saskatchewan 12-3 before meeting Manitoba in the deciding game.

Seaboard players swept individual honors. Clive Johnson emerged as the top batter with a hefty .550 average, Randy Jackson was named the top pitcher and second-baseman Scott Sinclair, who sparked the final-game victory with a two-run homer, was named the most-valuable performer.

Seaboard regular pitcher Barry Wilkin became ill on the trip to Swift Current, but Jackson, Ron Fedosenko and Bill Polz were outstanding in handling pitching assignments. Fedosenko, from Sooke Merchants, and Polz, from Alberni Athletics, were Victoria's allowable additions for the Western event.

Sliding Phillies Hoping for the Best

By The Associated Press

Three weeks ago, Philadelphia Phillies were making playoff plans and Pittsburgh Pirates were thinking about October vacations. Three weeks from now, it may be the other way around.

"Our best baseball is yet to come," said Philadelphia's Bake McBride after the Phillies, who've been playing anything but their best lately, split a doubleheader Monday with St. Louis, losing the opener 3-2, then bombing the Cardinals 10-2 in the nightcap.

"This is as good as we can play," said Pirates manager Chuck Tanner after Pittsburgh swept a pair from New York Mets, 7-4 and 7-0, moving within one game of the first-place Phillies in the National League East.

The Pirates have gained 10½ games on their Pennsylvania rivals in three weeks by winning 21 of their last 24 contests.

Elsewhere in the National League, Chicago Cubs dropped 4½ games off the pace in the East by losing 5-3 and 6-5 in 10 innings against Montreal Expos; Los Angeles Dodgers moved two games in front of San Francisco in the torrid West race with a 5-4 victory over the Giants; Cincinnati Reds stopped Houston Astros 6-3 and San Diego Padres beat Atlanta Braves 8-4.

Phillies manager Danny Ozark sounded optimistic as Philadelphia woke up after losing four of its last five.

"The cream will always come to the top," he said, "and I still think we have the best team. We're in a situation where we can't let up at any time."

The Pirates haven't let up at all since Aug. 10, when they began their tear towards the top of the East.

"When we were 11½ back, I don't think there was a guy on this team who didn't think we were out of it," said Ed Ott, who hit a two-run homer in the first game and knocked in three runs in the second victory. "But we all relaxed, started playing really good ball and we've been terrors ever since."

In the American League on Monday, Cleveland topped Toronto 5-4; Minnesota nipped Chicago 2-1; the Orioles beat the Red Sox 5-3; the Yankees beat Detroit 9-1 for Ron Guidry's 20th victory before the Tigers won the nightcap 5-4; Seattle Mariners beat Milwaukee 4-3 before the Brewers won 5-0; California beat Texas Rangers 8-7 and Kansas City bested Oakland A's 5-3.

Upstart Stamps Welcome a Rest

By The Canadian Press

Calgary Stampeders faced perhaps their toughest test of the Canadian Football League season Monday and the result, a 28-28 tie with Edmonton Eskimos, gives them good reason to enjoy their 13-day layoff.

The tie lifted the Stampeders into a three-way, second-place tie with Winnipeg Blue Bombers and British Columbia Lions in the Western Conference, and head coach Jack Gotta says the time off will give his club a chance to recover fully from injuries that have plagued them since the season got under way.

Fullback Willie Burden, who carried eight times for 20 yards after sitting out a week with stretched ligaments in his ankle, and middle linebacker Olie Bakken, who had reinjured his knee, will especially appreciate the vacation before the Stamps return to action Sept. 17 against the Lions at Calgary.

In other Labor Day games, Winnipeg Blue Bombers defeated Saskatchewan Roughriders 31-29 and Hamilton Tiger-Cats beat Toronto Argonauts 19-16.

The surprising Stampeders stormed out in the first quarter, opening up a 17-0 lead on a 17-yard field goal by Cyril McFall, a one-yard plunge by James Sykes, and another seven-yard scamper by the Calgary running back by the time the game was barely nine minutes old.

Dave Cutler got the Eskimos on the board at 13:37 with a 31-yard field goal—one of four—and Pete Lavorato turned a fumble by Calgary quarterback John Hugnagel into a 55-yard Edmonton touchdown on the last play of the quarter.

That turn of events particularly upset Gotta.

"Their first touchdown was somewhat of a gift." But, he added: "Stampeders also had gifts but were unable to capitalize on some of them."

At Regina, a 103-yard touchdown run by Richard Crump, who also scored on a one-yard plunge, late in the game turned out to be the difference as Winnipeg held on for the win.

Crump's long ramble, at 12:23 of the final quarter, gave the Bombers a 31-22 lead but the Riders closed the gap at the 14:00 mark when Bob Bruer hauled in a seven-yard toss from Saskatchewan quarterback Ron Lancaster for the major.

Gord Paterson took a 36-yard TD pass from quarterback Ralph Brock for the other Winnipeg major. Kicker Bernie Ruoff converted all three touchdowns, adding field goals of 43, 19 and 34 yards and a 59-yard single.

Crump finished the game with 119 yards on eight carries.

The Roughriders got field goals of 19, 21 and 17 yards from Bob Macoritti, who also converted two of the Saskatchewan touchdowns. A two-point conversion failed on the other major.

At Hamilton, quarterback Jimmy Jones fought his way into the end zone from four yards out with seven seconds remaining to give the Ticats their victory over Toronto.

The touchdown capped a six-play march that started on the Toronto 43-yard line following a Chuck Ealey fumble that was recovered by ex-Argo Ray Nettles.

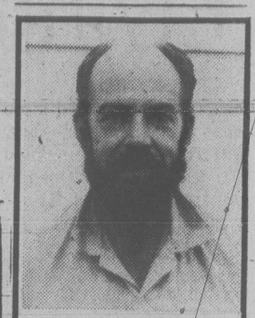

With possession of the ball as time was running out, Jones completed a 17-yard pass to another former Argo, Neil Lumsden, to move the ball the 26. Two plays later, on third and three at the 19, Jones deftly hit tight end Lawrie Skolrood over the middle for an 11-yard gain.

Another Jones-to-Skolrood pass got the Ticats four more yards. With the game all but over, Jones bootlegged to his left and after breaking two tackles, raced into the corner of the end zone.

Cables Drop Cup Opener

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — Whitby Builders, the Ontario champions, edged Burnaby Cablevision 13-11 Monday night in the first game of the Minto Cup Canadian junior lacrosse championship series before almost 1,500 fans.

Second game will be played here Wednesday with game three set for Thursday.

Ken Colley scored four goals to lead the Builders, who held period leads of 5-3 and 11-9.

Ed Derks scored twice for Whitby with singles going to Tim Lintner, Marty Gallas, Kam Devine, Bryce Jordon, Rob Gemmell, Blane Harrison and Rick Nieuwendyk.

It was a wide-open contest with Whitby unloading 65 shots at Burnaby goalie Rod Bannister. Builders' Wayne Colley stopped 44 shots fired at him by the defending champion Burnaby team.

Burnaby coach Dan Mattinson said he was expecting his team to be nervous during the game. "We were only outplayed in the first period when Whitby beat us with fast breaks," said Mattinson. "We have to get more goals from our top players, such as Dan Perrault and Derek Dickson."

The two Burnaby players scored 97 goals between them in 24 regular season gahes, but managed only singles each Monday night.

"Its a good thing Rod Bannister played well in goal because we seemed to panic at times," said Mattinson.

Whitby coach Jim Hinkson said he was happy with the way his team played defensively, but said a two-week layoff caused some problems.

This Kite Flying High

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP) — This time, Tom Kite could have penalized himself one stroke — as he had done a week earlier — and it wouldn't have made any difference. Kite completed a front-running victory in the $225,000 B.C. Open Monday with a five-stroke advantage over runner-up Mark Hayes but last week was a different story.

Kite finished one stroke behind winner Tom Watson in the Hall of Fame tournament at Pinehurst, N.C., where he penalized himself one stroke in the final round for an infraction that no one else witnessed.

He made few costly mistakes in the B.C. Open, however. Kite never trailed in the tourney's four rounds to earn the $45,000 top prize.

After sharing the first-round lead with Tom Purtzer, Kite pulled away from the field and had stretched his lead to five strokes going into the final round over the 6,915-yard, par-71 course.

His biggest challenge came Monday when Hayes eagled the third hole and Kite bogeyed the fourth hole, cutting the deficit to two strokes.

But Kite carded four consecutive birdies and went on to finish the 72-hole tournament with a 17-under-par score of 267, one stroke above the B.C. Open record held by Hubert Green.

Hayes closed with a 68 for 272 and little-known Peter Jacobsen of Portland finished third at 275 after a final-round 69.

Two other Canadians, Jim Nelford of Burnaby and Dave Barr of Kelowna finished further back. Nelford fired a closing 70 for a 283 total an $1,695 while Barr had a 74 for a 286 total and $900.

The victory was Kite's second since joining the pro tour in 1972.

Whittle Tops Graas In Cedar Hill Playoff

Tom Whittle won the big prize but 26-year-old Norm Jarvis muscled in for a share of the spotlight in the CFAX-Metro Toyota Open golf tournament at Cedar Hill on Sunday.

Whittle, a Vancouver professional, defeated Mike Graas, a former Victorian now head pro at Kamloops Golf Club, on the first playoff hole to capture the $800 winner's purse and the championship.

Jarvis, one of seven to share third place, set a course record with a seven-under-par 60 in the final round of the 36-hole tournament. An assistant at Vancouver's Fraserview course, Jarvis scored one eagle, five birdies and 12 pars for his 29-31 — 60.

It was one stroke better than the previous record shared by Cedar Hill's Lyle Crawford and Doug Roxburgh of Vancouver. The 61 also was matched Sunday by Whittle and Graas as they finished with seven-under 127 totals to force the playoff.

Whittle won it all with a par when Graas three-putted the playoff hole.

Cedar Hill captain Bob Coates, a 14 handicapper, scored 72-70 — 142 and a net 114 to win the top handicap prize. Coates finished a whopping six shots ahead of clubmate John Dempsey.

B.C. Unbeaten

MONTREAL (CP) — British Columbia defeated Quebec 6-0 on Monday to win the six-team Canadian men's field hockey championship, which was played at Molson Stadium during the holiday weekend.

B.C. came out of the round-robin affair with an undefeated record and 10 points after five games.

Third Tour Win For Pat Bradley

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (Reuter) — Pat Bradley won her third title on the 1978 women's golf tour Monday with a final-round 70 in the Rail Charity tournament.

The 27-year-old Bradley, from Westford, Mass., was tied for the lead after Sunday's third round with Donna Young and Australian Penny Pulz but pulled away on the front nine in the final round with birdies on the third, fifth and sixth holes.

Veteran Sharon Miller had a 71 to finish second and earn $11,000—her best showing since she won a Ladies Professional Golf Association event in 1974.

Bradley, who won $15,000, had rounds of 67, 66, 73 amd 71 to finish with a 12-under-par 276 total.

The 25-year-old Pulz tied an LPGA record with nine birdies in her course record-tying round of 65 Sunday but shot 75 in the final round to finish in a tie for third with JoAnne Carner and Sandra Palmer.

Dale Shaw of Victoria had a final-round 77 for 298, earning $265. She had earlier scores of 80, 69 and 72. Jocelyn Bourassa of Shawinigan, Que., the only other Canadian, failed to make the 36-hole cut Saturday.

"Why do so many people go south when Gulf can keep them warm all winter for less?"

These Gulf Home Comfort Services let you take your heating for granted all winter long.

Winter is almost here and the last thing you really want to worry about is making arrangements for oil delivery. It's something you just like to take for granted. As a Gulf fuel oil customer you can do just that. Your Gulf deliveryman will see to it that your oil is automatically delivered all winter.

Another comforting thought with Gulf is that you have 24-hour emergency breakdown service for your furnace. One call day or night and we'll be there fast to put your furnace back in working order.

Your best security this winter is the Gulf Furnace Protection Plan. It covers repairs or replacement of most mechanical parts and labour, 24-hour emergency service, 24-point servicing, and is available with optional tuning, which is designed to increase your furnace efficiency.

If you wish you may purchase Gulf's 24-point servicing separately, with or without the optional tuning. It's a sure way to put your furnace in top condition for the cold months ahead.

And, the Gulf Budget Plan allows you to plan ahead by spreading your fuel oil payments over 12 months, at no extra charge. You can also include Furnace Protection Plan payments in the budget plan.

At Gulf Home Comfort, we offer efficient heating you can take for granted all winter long. For more information, just give us a call at the number listed below:

VERNON CLUB TOPS CANADIAN 'B' LACROSSE TOURNEY

VERNON (CP) — Defending champion British Columbia, represented by Vernon, won its third straight Canadian senior B lacrosse championship by pounding Alberta 11-4 in the final game Monday before 3,000 fans.

Rob Graves and Gary Holte scored two goals each to lead the winners while Boyd Hunter notched a pair for Alberta.

In an earlier game Monday, Ontario defeated Quebec 15-9 to wrap up third place. Terry Sanderson and Jim Richardson each scored four goals for Ontario. Mike Benedict, Danny Oakes and Roland Garrow scored two each for Quebec, which placed fourth.

Lomas Trim Dolphins

Vancouver Meralomas maintained their winning ways in the Big Four Junior Football League by defeating Victoria Dolphins 27-0 Monday at Royal Athletic Park.

It was the Lomas' fifth straight victory and the third defeat in four starts for Dolphins.

Vancouver's constant pressure on Dolphin quarterback Bernie Kidd proved to be the big difference. Meraloma quarterbacks Dave Gellard and Kincaid Dunlop combined to complete 15 of 26 passes for 205 yards. Kidd, impressive in earlier games, managed to complete only five of 17 attempts for 36 yards.

Vancouver's defensive line continually harassed Kidd and dropped the quarterback for three losses. Often hurried, Kidd had three passes intercepted by the alert Meraloma secondary.

Victoria out-rushed Vancouver 63 yards to 48 as Meralomas held Kym Clark, one of the Dolphins' top ballcarriers, to a mere 13 yards.

Dave Pacholtto, who caught six passes for a total of 115 yards, scored two touchdowns for Vancouver, including one on a 50-yard punt return. Rob Hansen and Barry Clemiss scored the other Loma touchdowns.

Despite the loss, Victoria's defence performed well. Led by rookie Lyle Hurn and Dale Morgan, Dolphins chalked up seven "sacks" against Meraloma quarterbacks. Hurn and Morgan each earned credit for a pair until both were forced to the sidelines late in the game by knee injuries.

Timbermen Nip Hornets

Saanich Hornets and Cowichan Timbermen appear to be building the big rivalry in the Vancouver Island Juvenile Football League.

The defending champions, Hornets edged Timbermen by two points in a pre-season exhibition at Cowichan. Sunday, in their first league meeting, it was Cowichan's turn.

Cowichan stopped halfback Guy Prevost short of the goal-line as Hornets attempted a two-point conversion with two minutes remaining and the Timbermen walked off with a 21-19 victory at Royal Athletic Park.

Saanich led 6-2 at the half.

Tom Neilson, with two touchdowns, and Wade Miller, with one, sparked an impressive Cowichan ground game. Bruce Watt made good on one conversion attempt and the margin of victory was recorded by the Timbermen defence when it recorded a two-point safety touch.

Kim Munroe, Brett Diana and Tom Graham scored Hornet majors. Munroe, Hornets' leading scorer last year, also booted a conversion.

Bowlers Qualify For World Event

Robinson finished the two-day Canadian championships Sunday with a 4,485-pin total, 29 pins ahead of Bob Moore, also from Toronto.

Robin Edge of Burnaby was third at 4,325.

In the women's division, Reid had a 4,129 total, 13 pins better than Jeanne Marten of Barrie, Ont., and 31 better than third-place-finisher Joyce Campbell of Grimsby, Ont.

COLUMBUS WINS

EDMONTON (CP) — Vancouver Columbus defeated Calgary Springers 3-1 Sunday to win the Western Canadian senior soccer championship.

Vancouver will represent the west in the national amateur soccer championship, to be held in Kitchener, Ont., beginning next Friday.

Canada Takes Seventh Loss

BOLOGNA, Italy (Reuter) — Canada suffered its seventh loss in the world amateur baseball championships here Monday, dropping an 8-0 game to Japan.

The loss left the Canada's with a 1-7 record while Japan is 6-3.

Meanwhile, undefeated Cuba retained the over-all lead in the event with an 11-1 win over Mexico and the U.S. trounced Australia 7-0.

Cosmos Clippped By Madrid Squad

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Ayala and Leivinha scored goals in the first half Monday night, pacing Atletico Madrid to a 3-1 victory over New York Cosmos in an exhibition match before a crowd of 35,140 at Giants Stadium.

New Mutuel Marks Set On Sandown Weekend

By BILL WALKER
Times Staff

There was a record double at the mutuels at Sandown Raceway on the weekend. And there undoubtedly would have been an even greater record on Monday if a government restriction hadn't been in effect.

Harness horse players pumped the most money through the mutuels for both a 10-race race card, Saturday, and an eight-race card, Monday.

Saturday the mutuel handle was $118,935, $1,344 more than the previous high for 10 races, while on Monday, Labor Day, the handle was $100,845 for eight races. And that was a whopping $18,838 more than wagered on Aug. 30, the previous best day for eight races.

Monday's holiday program normally would have consisted of 10 races but Sandown Raceway officials were restricted to a start no earlier than 5 p.m. by cabinet order so as not to conflict with the annual Saanich Fair.

With a 5 p.m. start it was impossible, because of light conditions, to schedule more than eight races.

As it was a new per-race average of $12,606 was established by the crowd of 1,811. The $100,845 total also marked the ninth time the mutuel total had reached the $100,000 figure for the meeting which concludes Saturday.

TWO NEW OILERS

EDMONTON (CP) — Edmonton Oilers have acquired centre Steve Carlson and winger Jim Mayer from World Hockey Association rival New England Whalers.

It was the 18th victory of the year in 51 starts for Hazels Yankee and brought his earnings for the season to $20,705.

Driven by Bob Boyd, Hazels Yankee paid $6.00, $3.00 and $3.20.

Marcel Bouvier was the only driver with two victories. He was in the sulky for Taiga ($9.50) in the third and Flame Comet ($11.00) in the sixth. Taiga and Michael's Derby combined for an exactor of $134.40 on an evening when the favorites otherwise prevailed.

The longest price of the day strangely enough went to one of the more consistent horses on the grounds when Flame Comet got away at 9-2 in the sixth and returned that $11.

On Saturday, there was a dead heat, the fifth of the meeting, in the feature as the camera couldn't separate Combat Lands and Steady Nick.

A newcomer from Calgary, Combat Lands closed with a rush to catch Steady Nick at the wire while only inches behind in third place was Trevor John.

Combat Lands was driven by Grant Hollingsworth and returned $5.90, $7.50 and $2.80, while Steady Nick paid $3.70, $3.10 and $2.40.

Racing resumes Wednesday with a post time of 5 p.m. while on Friday and Saturday, the final two days of the meet, post time will be 1:30 p.m.

SMILEY'S DREAM IN FRONT

VANCOUVER (CP) — Smiley's Dream caught and passed First Purchase just before the wire in the $30,000-added Randall Plate Monday at Exhibition Park to continue his domination of a year-long rivalry between the two Victoria-owned, four-year-old horses.

Although First Purchase, owned by Neil de Macedo, has finished in front of Smiley's Dream in races neither horse has won, it had yet to finish first against Smiley's Dream, owned by the Jawl brothers.

Smiley's Dream ran the muddy 1 1-8 mile race in a slow time of 1:54 3-5 as Pampas Host finished third.

New Junior Champ Missed Team Berth

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — Dan Maue of Kitchener, Ont., not good enough to represent the Ontario team at the Canadian junior golf championship, played well enough to win the individual title by 10 strokes.

Maue failed to qualify earlier this year for the Ontario team, which placed a distant third Thursday in the interprovincial competition.

But, continuing to benefit from putting advice from his father Gus, a golf professional in Kitchener, Maue finished the four-round individual competition with a par 72 Saturday for a total of 285, including a blistering, six-under-par 66 Friday that set a course record by one stroke at the Lingan Country Club.

Maue proved to be the class of the tournament and was the only golfer to finish under par on the rambling 6,600-yard, par-72 Lingan course. He had rounds of 73, 74, 66 and 72.

Stewart Ranft of Port Carling, Ont., finished second at 295, followed by pre-tournament favorites Eric Kaufmanis of Aylmer, Que., and James Duff of Montreal, both at 297.

Matthew Shaw of West Paradise, N.S., who fired an opening-round 69, had trouble putting two good rounds together and finished fourth.

Maue said he played conservatively Saturday and that was all he needed as Kaufmanis, Duff and Shaw blew themselves out of contention.

Rick Sepp of Mount Hope, Ont., had a closing 74 to take the juvenile title with 302.

Rick Gibson of Victoria, finishing with a 78, was second in the juvenile section with 306 and tied for 11th place in the junior event.

WENDY TRIPPED IN FINAL

TORONTO (CP) — Wendy Barlow, the unseeded Victoria player who had fashioned a string of upsets during the tournament, couldn't keep her giant-killing magic working in Saturday's finals of the Canadian junior international tennis tournament, losing 6-2, 6-2 to second-seeded Ava Pfaff of West Germany in the women's singles final.

Top seed Per Hjertquist of Sweden won the men's title by downing unseeded Marco Ostoya of Yugoslavia 6-1, 2-6, 6-3.

In the women's doubles final, Lucia Fernandez and Mary Lou Piatek of the United States defeated fellow Americans Caryn Copeland and Sue Rasmussen 6-3, 6-3.

Michael Fancutt and Bill Gilmore of Australia won the men's doubles, defeating Blaine Willenborg and Scott Davis of the U.S. 6-3, 6-3.

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

There is nothing spectacular, fancy or clever about South's play of a slam contract in today's deal. What is significant is the way in which a good player, having encountered a horrendous division of the adversely held trumps, went about fulfilling his contract. The deal came up in a team-of-four match.

Neither side vulnerable.

Opening lead: Two of ♣.

East put up the club queen on the opening lead and South captured the trick with his ace. He next ruffed a club with dummy's duece of trumps, after which he returned to the South hand via the ace of trumps. On this lead East declarer discarded a club, declarer learning to his sorrow that West had been dealt the five outstanding trumps. Declarer now ruffed another club, leaving dummy with the singleton queen.

Next came a heart lead to South's queen, and this was followed by another heart to the board's ace. On the king of hearts South discarded his losing diamond. Declarer now took a time out to examine the situation at hand.

He came to the winning conclusion that his contract was unmakable unless he could cash both the ace and king of diamonds. That is, if West had been dealt a singleton diamond, South felt that he was predestined to defeat. So, with perhaps some trepidation, dummy's ace and king of diamonds were played next. Declarer breathed a sigh of relief when West followed suit to both diamond leads.

West's hand was now an open book: five spades, three clubs, three hearts and two diamonds. And West's four remaining cards were the J-9-8-7 of trumps.

After cashing the board's queen of trumps, dummy's jack of hearts was played, South discarding his remaining club. West had no choice but to ruff this trick, after which he was compelled to lead away from his remaining J-9 of trumps into South's K-10, giving declarer the last two tricks. And so declarer's only loser was one trump trick.

SOLUTIONS WEDNESDAY

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Astrological Forecast for Wednesday, September 6
By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21 - April 19): Key is to say what you mean, to request what you need. Gemini, Virgo, Sagittarius persons figure prominently. Emphasis on agreement with "special" person. Romance and finance are involved. You discover way to turn apparent loss into a profit.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20): Obtain hint from Aries message. Be diplomatic, make inquiries concerning legal rights, permissions. Partner or mate seeks greater recognition. Gift from you could work wonders. Let others take lead. Listen and observe. Gather material for direct action another time.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20): Efforts bring results if you see places, people as they are, not merely as you wish they could be. Emphasis on work methods, taking care of pets, dependents. Pisces person plays key role. Prize is available, but goes to only one — no division. Plan accordingly.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22): You are released from obligation. You experience greater freedom of thought, action. Young, vivacious person could play paramount role. Relationship intensifies. Nothing is halfway — you can make room for yourself at pinnacle.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22): Conclude transaction, tie loose ends, finish what you start. Deal with Aries, Libra persons. You gain sense of what people want — you're able to improve circulation, display, distribution. You're given honor, special recognition for past activities.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22): Relative presents fresh concept, new idea. Take notes, especially during telephone conversation. Be adaptable without scattering forces. Leo Aquarius figure prominently. Stress courage of convictions, originality, independence. You're due for delightful, morale-raising surprise!

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): Accent on payments, collections, evaluations. Aquarius, Cancer figure prominently. You can overcome obstacles and skip red tape. Know you can — and do it! You could "wake up" with answers; you make the most of assets. Don't sell yourself short. What you own may be worth more than you estimate.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21): Be direct, confident, adaptable; enjoy social event, enlarge horizons. Deal with Gemini, Virgo, Sagittarius persons. Element of luck, timing is with you. Sense of fitness, humor figure prominently. Trust your own judgment. You are capable of making accurate, shrewd analysis.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21): Temporary confinement could be part of cycle. You learn what works, what is theory, what is an escape hatch as contrasted to a trap. Aquarius, Scorpio, Leo persons figure prominently. Being alone now gives you a chance to get second emotional wind.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): What had been suppressed comes out in open. Lunar cycle features friends, hopes, wishes. Number 5 figures prominently. There will be changes, a celebration — Gemini, Libra, Sagittarius individuals are part of scenario.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18): Highlight goals, settlements, communications with professional superiors. You can aim high with good expectations of hitting the mark. Know it and act accordingly. Taurus, Libra, Scorpio persons figure in scenario.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20): Accent on travel, getting behind scenes, going after story that occurs when curtain no longer hides motives. You gain insights into character. You learn who is promoting what — and for what purpose. there is element of disillusionment, but also enlightenment.

IF SEPTEMBER 6 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have sense of drama, an unusual voice; you are attractive, aware of nutritional requirements and must constantly fight temptation to give in to "sweet tooth". Taurus, Libra, Scorpio persons play important roles in your life. Significant changes occur in October — you will be richer, more content, feel more emotionally secure.

World Trotting Mark Set In Hambletonian

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP) — Owner-driver Howard Beissinger is honing already razor-sharp Speedy Somolli to lop seconds off the world record 1:55 the three-year-old colt set in winning the 53rd Hambletonian Stake harness race Saturday.

Using his No. 1 post position to advantage during the first of three heats, Speedy Somolli erased the earlier mark of 1:55 3-5 set here last year when Green Speed won the Hambletonian.

George Sholty piloted Florida Pro to a photo-finish win over Speedy in the second heat, also in record 1:55 time.

"I just got out-trotted that second heat," said Beissinger.

He said he used an open bridle in the first two heats, which allowed Speedy a comparatively wide field of vision.

"I switched to a blind bridle for the third heat," he said.

Speedy, challenged strongly by Brisco Hanover and driver Jim Miller Jr., trotted to the stake victory in the third heat in a time of 1:57.

But for Beissinger, 55, of Pompano Beach, Fla., there remains a cavity in the sport's triple crown.

He and Speedy won the Yonkers Trot at Yonkers Raceway two weeks ago in 1:59 3-5 and now are eyeing the third jewel—the Kentucky Futurity at Lexington on Oct. 6.

RICH ALL-AMERICAN WON BY MOON LARK

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M. (AP) — Moon Lark avenged the only defeat of his racing career Monday when the speedy two-year-old thundered 440 yards in the time of 21.84 seconds at Ruidoso Downs to win the world's richest quarter-horse race.

Moon Lark suffered the only loss in his career when Vespero, the favorite in the 20th running of the All-American Futurity, nipped him at the wire in the Rainbow Futurity here earlier this summer.

Vespero never mounted a serious charge at the first-place prize of $437,500 that is taken from the All-American gross purse of $1.28 million and finished fourth. Osage Juana held off the fast-closing Holme Maid to take second. Holme Maid finished third.

Moon Lark upped his record to 5-1-0 in six starts. The big first-place prize increased his career earnings to $513,168 and put him in seventh place on the all-time list of quarter-horse money winners.

Oak Bay, Castaways Reach Knockout Final

The defending champions are out and it will be Castaways and Oak Bay in the final of the Victoria and District Cricket Association's annual Knockout Cup competition.

Castaways wrecked Albion's hopes of a repeat victory by defeating last year's winners of the 40-overs competition by 41 runs Saturday at Beacon Hill Park. Castaways, batting first, scored 169 runs for five wickets and then stopped Albion at 124 for four.

Oak Bay eliminated Incogs with a four-wicket victory at St. Michael's University School. Fine bowling by brothers Eric and Kortright Richards bounced Incogs all out at 41. Oak Bay replied with 42 for the loss of six wickets.

Kortright took three wickets for 10 runs while Eric claimed three for eight.

In a league match Sunday at Nanaimo, the home club handed Saanich an eight wicket defeat.

After Saanich was all out for 44 runs against the deadly bowling of Tim Loasby and Sam Maitland, Nanaimo ran up 48 for two wickets as Kiran Puri accounted for 30 runs.

Thorburn Wins Snooker Event

TORONTO (CP) — Cliff Thorburn of Toronto defeated England's Tony Meo 17-15 Monday night to win the Canadian National Exhibition international snooker tournament.

Meo held a 10-6 lead at the start of Monday's play but Thorburn battled back to tie 15-15 after 30 games of the 33-game series. The Victoria native then swept the next two games to win the championship and the $6,000 first prize. Meo got $2,000 for finishing second.

Stone Clinches Point Title

Gordie Stone has dropped the crusher on rivals who were hoping to snatch the driving championship in the Island series of stock car races.

Leader on the points list since winning the opening main event of the season, Stone destroyed the barely-flickering hopes of other wheel-jockeys by romping to a victory Saturday in the 35-lap feature event at Western Speedway and clinching the points crown.

Also winner of the trophy dash before about 1,200 spectators, Stone worked his way smoothly through the field in the early stages of the main event before charging into the lead on the 31st lap.

Terry Kershaw, piloting Jesper Lind's 1963 Plymouth, won a special mechanic's race. Rob Scott wheeled Stone's machine to a second-place finish, Bob Exton was third in Alexander's stocker and Rob Carlson ran fourth in Al Miller's car.

In a special presentation ceremony, Miller, who is third in point standings, received the Ted Birtwhistle Memorial Trophy for his sportsmanship and devotion to automobile racing during the season.

Saturday's results:

MAIN EVENT (35 laps) — Gordie Stone; 2. Bill Grant; 3. Wayne Atkinson; 4. Dave Morris; 5. Ken Alexander.
FAST HEAT — 1. Jim Smith; 2. Pat Philips; 3. Jesper Lind; 4. Alexander.
FIRST HEAT — 1. Dave Edstrom; 2. Wayne Johnson; 3. Mike Nyeste; 4. Lynn Reimer.
TROPHY DASH — 1. Stone; 2. Smith; 3. Alexander; 4. Bill Drummond.

CANADIANS TAKE TITLE

COVENTRY, England (Reuter) — Canada won the Commonwealth basketball championship Sunday night with a 107-68 victory over New Zealand in the final.

Forward Leo Rautins, the 18-year-old Toronto high school star, had 18 points before the game was nine minutes old. He saw little action the rest of the way but finished with 31 points.

England, which had lost a 101-63 decision to Canada on Saturday, beat Scotland 97-81 Sunday to earn third place.

Sweep for Unser

ONTARIO, Calif. (AP) — Al Unser scored an historic victory in Sunday's $300,000 California 500, completing an unprecedented sweep of the Triple Crown of Indianapolis car racing.

"Totally unbelievable," Unser said in a hoarse voice from the victory circle. "We had our work cut out today. I was running everything I could run out of it."

Unser, driving the same Lola-Cosworth he rode to victories in the Indianapolis 500 and Pocono 500 earlier this season, finished more than 11 miles ahead of runner-up Pancho Carter in the attrition-plagued race.

The 38-year-old Unser took the lead six laps from the finish when leader Gordon Johncock's car suddenly slowed, then stopped on the Ontario Motor Speedway backstretch.

Johncock wound up fourth, behind rookie Tom Bagley. Lee Kunzman was fifth. Only five cars out of 31 starters were running at the end.

Unser, the defending champion in the race, collected about $75,000 and picked up enough points to pull into the national championship point lead for the season, ahead of Tom Sneva, who went out in a crash early in the race.

With Johncock gone, Unser said he took it easy the last 15 miles.

The start was marred by a three-car tangle involving Salt Walther, Phil Threshie and Bob Harkey. Two of the cars were seriously damaged and Walther and Threshie were treated for minor injuries.

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — George Allard, 48, of Winnipeg, has been appointed executive director of the Canadian Oldtimers' Hockey Association.

Healing Substance: Shrinks Piles

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissue.

Most important of all—results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

All this was accomplished with a healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue.

Now Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H. Ask for it at all drug stores. Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Youth Clinic

Young readers' questions on human relations and sex are answered by a panel of experts: Marion Powell, medical doctor; Graham Cotter, clergyman; and Bruce Vichert, social worker. Send questions to Youth Clinic, The Victoria Times, 2621 Douglas St., Victoria, B.C., V8W 2N4.

Dear Mr. Vichert: I have this terrible problem with my family. A week ago I was shopping with my mother and we had a little argument in the store. She got so mad over something very small, and she kicked me hard. It was really embarrassing and hurt.

That's not the beginning of my problem. My parents have always been violent with me. The next day, after my mom kicked me, I ran away because I couldn't stand it anymore. My parents found out I had run away and grounded me for two weeks. My view of the fight is that I can't stand being kicked around and treated like a dog.

I suggested to my mom once that we have family counselling but she said I didn't know how much I had and other people had it much worse off than me.

I just can't see why they won't let me live my own life. I'm a 15-year-old girl and need help.

ANSWER: I agree with you that your family could use some counselling. When there is so much fighting in a family, some counselling might be helpful, although this does not mean that families are always eager to receive counselling.

However, as you are feeling unhappy about your situation I would suggest you seek some counselling so that you could discuss those things that concern you and with some help perhaps begin to work on finding answers and solutions. Ultimately it may even be possible to involve the rest of your family.

I suggest that you try your local Children's Aid Society, or a youth counselling service in your community.

The trained workers at these services have worked with young people and understand the problems that they face.

Dear Dr. Powell: I am a 12-year-old girl. I really like this guy who is the same age as me. I'm going with him. The problem is he is so "shy". For instance, when we go to a movie he hugs the seat instead of hugging me. When we go shopping together or for a walk or someting, I expect him to put his arm around me or hold my hand. All he does is walk beside me.

I really like him but I don't know if I should break up with him. I can't stand it any more.

ANSWER: I agree that you have a problem but I am not sure you know what it is. Many adults would feel you are still a child and children do not expect to be hugged in the theatre or have their hands held walking down the street. What you call shyness is really normal behavior for a 12-year-old boy. A few years will change his behavior.

My suggestion is to wait for him to grow up and in these years you can do some growing up yourself. Be good friends with him but make other friends, too, and when you go out, go with a group. Remember that being 12 is neither being a child nor an adult and that because you are a girl you have developed more quickly and faster than boys your age.

Dear Dr. Cotter: My girl friend and I are both 18 years old and have been going out for some time. My problem is that whenever we go out to someone's place she finds herself a corner, so to speak, and will sit there until we leave and talk only when someone speaks to her. She's a well-liked girl and very pretty.

My family feels offended by her actions and they feel that she doesn't enjoy their company. I'm stuck in the middle trying to keep both sides happy. I've taked to her about this but she says she's just shy. Her family life is also okay. She does't enjoy sports or social activities.

ANSWER: Maybe she is shy, and maybe she doesn't say anything because the conversation does not mean much to her.

I think you need to examine your own thinking: Aren't dances and parties and going out social activities? It sounds as though she does not enjoy your family's type of conversation and "social" life, what ever that is. If you want to have a continuing relations with her, you had better decide what you like about her and her conversation, and whether you are going to put her or your family first.

Pain in Lower Back Difficult to Diagnose

your health

By L. L. COLEMAN, M.D.

I have always been in good health. I'm 42 and still actively play sports. Last year, I had a sudden pain in my back and since then have gotten no relief from it. I've been to several doctors, had x-rays and so far no one has helped. Where do I go from here? — Mr. E.N.J.

Dear Mr. J.:

The low back pain fraternity has diversified members. Men and women in all occupations and in every geographic area have been unhappily forced into this "club."

There are almost as many reasons for low back pain as there are people who have it. Consequently, finding the exact cause taxes the investigating ingenuity of all doctors involved. Few problems in medicine demand the sustained co-operation between patients and their doctors as does low back pain.

When a patient jumps from doctor to doctor because of rightful impatience and anxiety, he can do himself an injustice.

The pain may be due to arthritis, ruptured discs, sprains of muscles and ligaments, sciatica or congenital defects of the lower spine. These are only a few of the possibilities.

Before any treatment can be instituted, the exact cause must be determined. Positional changes at work, bad posture, beds with lack of support may all be contributory. Marked obesity adds another burden to already weakened spinal vertebrae.

Support with firm belts and tight girdles can be beneficial, in addition to the use of drugs that relieve muscle spasm and control pain.

Stay with your doctor, give yourself and him the advantage of time.

What's the normal pulse rate for an adult? My husband takes his pulse so often that it's become the big joke of the family. — Mrs. R.G.

Dear Mrs. G.:

Taking one's pulse can become compulsive. (Forgive the pun. I couldn't resist it.) It is well-known that when people take their own pulse, anxiety develops and the pulse rate goes up.

The normal rate is identical with that of the regular heart beat. It varies from 65 to 85 beats per minute in a normal healthy man. The rate is slightly higher in women.

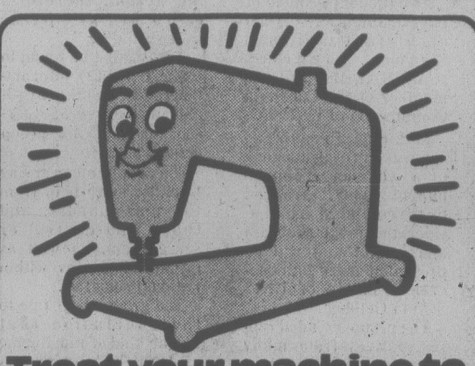

After exercise or while under emotional stress, the pulse rate increases rapidly, then slowly returns to normal. There are great variations in the pulse rate of people, both in health and in illness. Tobacco, coffee, alcohol and drugs can all be responsible for changes in the pulse rate.

Now, what do the numbers mean to your husband, anyway? Tell him to stop this nonsense.

Acadian $4001. Priced the imports lately?

If you have already, you'll know what we're talking about. If you haven't, we'd better prepare you for a shock.
Would you believe over five grand for a VW Rabbit?! And the other popular imported Hatchbacks are all up there over four grand!
Now you're probably thinking, "Okay, if that's the kind of money you have to put out to get the kind of standard features you want, well, what can you do?"
You can get down to your Pontiac dealer and check out the '78 Acadian. Not only does Acadian set you back less than the four leading imported Hatchbacks but you get a low-sill rear hatch and flat loading floor, a 1.6 litre 4-cylinder overhead-cam engine, four-on-the floor, centre console, reclining buckets, AM radio, carpeting, body side molding, whitewalls, wheel covers, and more, as standard equipment.

Pontiac Acadian: a cure for foreign shock.

PRICE THE HATCHBACKS*
Honda Civic	$4645.
Ford Fiesta	$4727.

UNESCO: Initials Aim for Peace

elizabeth forbes

What does the average person know about the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Association (UNESCO)?

Its aims, its projects, its failures or its successes?

How many people realize (even vaguely) that there is a Canadian Commission to UNESCO, and what its functions happen to be?

To the first question, Kathleen Ruff, director of British Columbia's human rights code, answers "little or nothing."

And to the second "not nearly enough."

As national president of the Canadian Association of Statutory Human Rights Agencies (CASHRA), Ms. Ruff is a member of the Canadian Commission of UNESCO.

Less than a month ago she was in Ottawa as one of a working group on human rights, arranged by the commission to consider the draft program and budget that will be presented at the 20th general assembly of UNESCO in October.

The group included representatives from many community organizations.

Its work was to make responsible suggestions for a Canadian delegation to use (in connection with the program and budget) at that October assembly.

There was spirited discussion on the need for a concentrated effort to better inform the public about UNESCO.

"Research has been — and is being done — on education, the status of women and the social sciences," Kathleen Ruff says, "but the findings of this research have not been publicized to any great extent and resulting action, therefore, hasn't been as effective as it should be."

A way must be found to make UNESCO information more readily available to the average person, the working group believed.

This could mean trying to enlist more help from the mass media, and those who control or serve them, as well as organized groups within national societies.

The group also came to the conclusion that "some kind of monitoring of UNESCO programs should be instituted."

In other words, reports should be "more action oriented."

They should show how programs are prepared, how they are implemented and whether the results are good, bad or indifferent.

"The public should be told, in depth, whether these programs have been successful or not."

Where status of women and minority group issues are included in world programs "there is need to open windows," Ms. Ruff believes.

"People who work on such programs should be extremely knowledgeable in these fields. Through their understanding of the issues they could then spread correct information by way of voluntary groups and in various other spheres of activities."

This she says, has not always been the case in the past.

Here she remarked quietly that UNESCO "should practise what it preaches."

It stands for promotion of equality between women and men in the exercise of their rights and responsibilities; for social-economic change and integration of women in the over-all development effort and in the community — and particularly for equality in education.

On the proposed agenda for the general assembly in October (to be held in Ottawa by the way) there is a place for discussion on the status of women and participation of women in development.

Yet, Ms. Ruff points out, almost all UNESCO staff positions, high or low, are held by men.

Will this point be raised at the October assembly, I asked.

"I hope so," was the answer.

POSTSCRIPT — As the average person hasn't had much opportunity to gain in-depth knowledge of UNESCO, and the Canadian public even less opportunity to learn something about its own UNESCO commission, this seems to be the time and place to give you a short definition of each, with a few sentences about their work.

UNESCO is one of 12 specialized agencies of the United Nations.

Created in 1946, it is presently made up of 142 member states, including Canada.

Its functions are to promote peace, human rights and security through international co-operation in education, science, culture, communications and social sciences.

"Since wars begin in the minds of men," states part of the UNESCO constitution, "it is in the minds of men that the defences of peace must be constructed."

KATHLEEN RUFF
... wants more action

The Canadian Commission for UNESCO is an advisory body established in 1957 to help the Canadian government carry out its responsibilities of membership in UNESCO.

It serves as a liaison with governments, organizations, institutions and individuals in Canada who are interested. It also co-operates with the UNESCO secretariat in Paris and with national commissions in other countries, in implementing programs. And it advises the Canadian government on questions relating to UNESCO.

THEY WALKED IN VAIN

LUNENBURG, N.S. (CP) — Widow Walks were little railed platforms on the roofs of many houses in the Atlantic provinces. Before the age of radio and telephone, anxious wives would watch from these walks for their husband's ships to return. The toll was heavy for fishing vessels and the women often walked in vain.

Miss Manners

Motives Unmannerly?

By JUDITH MARTIN
Washington Post

Ordinarily, Miss Manners does not deal in motives. You are perfectly well allowed to harbor any ugly thoughts you choose, provided you do not act upon them. That is what we call civilization.

Miss Manners, unlike the other great social scientists of our time, does not run around urging people to express their true feelings. If everybody did that, the streets would be so full of hostilities among motorists and pedestrians that no one would be able to get to work in the morning. A little hypocrisy, in the way of simulated kindness, is a wonderful thing.

However, there are certain social situations that have been brought to Miss Manners' attention, in which motivation counts — to the extent that the same action may be decent or indecent, depending on why it was done.

Example: A young lady of Miss Manners's acquaintance was requested by a young man whom she had jilted to recommend a doctor to his current inamorata. After doing so, she was then asked to talk directly to her successor about the latter's illness, of which she had some knowledge but no personal experience.

Example: a lady of Miss Manners' acquaintance had invited her lover to a dinner party on an occasion when his wife was out of town, and wanted to know if she could, in the future, issue joint invitations to him and his wife, who was not aware of their relationship.

In both cases, the question Miss Manners asked was what the motive was of the person promoting the social relationship. Was it a simple conviction that certain people would benefit from associating with one another? Or was it to enjoy the irony of seeing them together?

Miss Manners heartily disapproves of irony as a social motive. Bringing people together for the purpose of secretly relishing what one or both of them does not know about the situation is despicable.

In the first example, the young man had also found an excuse to introduce his former love to a current (now also former) love. His motivation was apparently either to have a current love unknowingly confront her predecessor, or to arouse the jealousy of the one who had rejected him. Neither motive is acceptable to Miss Manners.

In the second case, the hostess was not, as one might suppose, interested in enjoying the irony of having a woman at her table being unaware of supping with her husband's mistress. As it happened, the hostess wanted to meet the wife, quite aside from the secret connection, because the wife was herself interesting, in fact, more interesting than the husband. That is an acceptable motive for issuing an invitation.

Miss Manners responds:

Q. I read that the new president of Italy has decreed that his chauffeur should not wear a chauffeur's cap or gloves, in order to set a "simpler style" for his (the president's) administration, and to symbolize a cut-back in expenses for official cars. Do you approve of this?

A. Miss Manners does not approve of forcing one's servants to violate the conventions of their trade in order to make the employer look democratic.

Q. After large parties, I find my garbage cans filled to capacity. Is it acceptable to place my empty whisky bottles in a less social neighbor's trash can?

A. There are two possible problems here. First, your neighbor may suddenly take to drink and find that he has no room in his trash can for his own whiskey bottles. Second, he may be hit by sudden fame and find that the contents of his trash can have become of interest to trashy publications or government departments, in which case the profiles of him they reconstruct as a result of your deposits will be misleading. Perhaps you could place your empty soda bottles in his trash can, thus leaving room in your trash can for your whisky bottles.

Feeling incorrect? Address your etiquette questions (in black or blue-black ink on white letter paper) to Miss Manners, c/o the Victoria Times, 2621 Douglas St., Victoria, B.C., V8W 2N4.

Brakes Work Easier Driving Forwards

By MICHAEL LAMM

By MICHAEL LAMM

DEAR MIKE: It takes a lot more pedal pressure to stop my 1965 VW bus when it's going backwards than when I drive it forward. I've overhauled the entire braking system but it's still that way. Why? — GOOD GREASE

DEAR GOOD: Most drum braking systems are self-energizing; that is, the motion of rolling forward helps pull the shoes outward against the drums. And most systems aren't self-energizing in reverse. Disc brakes, by the way, aren't self-energizing at all, which is why most disc systems need power assist.

DEAR MIKE: I'm the original owner of a 1961 Lincoln. Recently I had the automatic transmission drained and refilled. Now the transmission dipstick registers slightly above full with the engine off and just as low when I check with the engine running. Should I fill it to the full mark with the engine idling? —UNSURE

DEAR UNSURE: Yes, always check fluid level in an automatic transmission with the engine idling in park.

DEAR MIKE: The trunk floor in my 1972 Chevy Caprice is badly rusted. I'm going to have the floor repaired, but I have a special problem. I use the car to deliver cakes, and I carry these cakes in the trunk. Previously, when I had fibreglas work done on another car, the repair smelled awful for a week. I'm now afraid the smell will be absorbed by the pastries. I have to have the car repaired because exhaust fumes are beginning to leak into the trunk. — CAKE LADY

DEAR CAKE LADY: Instead of repairing the trunk with fibreglass, have the bodyshop order a new floor panel from Chevrolet, then let the bodyman weld it in place.

DEAR MIKE: Your advice to the 1968 Cougar owner who was losing coolant out the overflow tube was all right as far as it went. You didn't mention, though, possible causes. A leaking head gasket, cracked head or block, or a waterpump seal sucking in air could all force coolant out the overflow tube. To check for cracked gaskets or heads, fill the radiator completely, run the engine with the fanbelt off and look for bubbles. To check the water pump for air, run the motor with the fanbelt on. Believe me, I learned these things in my 40-plus years in the radiator repair business. — SOUTH SIDER

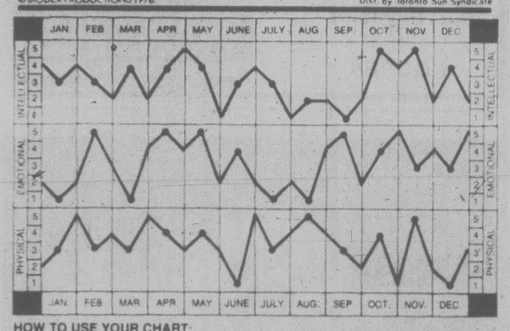

DEAR SOUTH SIDER: And thanks for the addendum.

Bio-dex

Sept. 6/78 By Ken J. Michaels

Your computerized biorhythm

HOW TO USE YOUR CHART:

BIO-DEX READOUT:

0-5 Negative Cycle- You're not going to win a personality contest today, but if you're friendly to others you'll be appreciated.

6-10 Neutral Cycle- Don't be misled by false statements. Before you make a decision be sure to consult with other family members.

11-15 Positive Cycle- Others will listen to your opinions and begin to realize that you have a great deal of intelligence.

If you always make good decisions — and have never made a bad one — my guess is that you are one of my rare millionaire readers. A daily glance at your Bio-dex won't stop all your goofs, but it can really be a big help. Try to put off those big decisions until your intellectual and emotional levels get up around 4 points. One other thing — if you are a millionaire already, you really don't need my advice at all.

THE ROAD TO SUCCESS

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's Norma Shearer won an Academy Award for best actress in 1931 for her role in the movie The Divorcee. The Montreal native was once told by David Wark Griffith, the United States motion-picture director, that she would never be a movie star because her eyes were too blue.

dear abby

DEAR ABBY: My husband owns his own business. It's small, but fairly successful. He has 10 men working for him and one girl (I'll call her "Jill") who handles the office and does a great job. Jill is only 20 and not super attractive, but not ugly either.

My husband and four of the men who work for him recently formed a bowling team. They're all married men with families. Well, Jill decided that these men need her support, so she started showing up at the bowling alley with a girlfriend when the men bowl.

One of the wives complained to me about it, so I told my husband and he said it's a free country and Jill can go anywhere she wants. He said he doesn't want to lose her as an employee, so he's not going to say anything to her.

I say she should be told very nicely to clean up her act. She gave my husband a Christmas present after working for him about a month. I think she's coming on too strong, but if you think I'm wrong, I'll let it go.

Sign me . . .

LOOKING OUT FOR NO. 1

DEAR LOOKING: I fail to see what is "dirty" about the girl's act. I agree with your husband. Jill has a right to go where she wants. And if you and the other wives are wise, you'll pull in your claws.

DEAR ABBY: I wish you would say something about the selfishness of people who buy two-door automobiles when they could just as easily buy a car with four doors. Of course, those two-door car owners don't have to worry. They always ride up in front, and never have the inconvenience of having to crawl in and out of a car and be contined back there with no leg room whatsoever.

Please don't tell me that two-door cars are cheaper. When one spends $6,000 for an automobile, a few hundred dollars more doesn't matter. I have also heard the excuse that two-door models are sportier and better looking! That is also ridiculous.

Personally, I would rather stay home than ride in the back seat of a two-door car. And I hope you will see fit to print this in your column because I know others share my opinion.

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: Two-door cars are preferred by some parents with small children. Others prefer them for other reasons. The option is yours: Ride or stay home.

DEAR ABBY: When I married my husband he was a quiet, modest man, but success has changed him. We have just returned form a "vacation" that I must admit I did not enjoy.

My husband's financial success has given him what he calls "confidence." I call it an overbearing tendency to brag. Everyone we met had to listen to his rags-to-riches story. It was embarrassing. He has made an outstanding success in business, but where is his modesty and taste?

Proud as I am of his success, I long for the humble man who sat quietly by my side and talked of something other than himself and his money.

I love him. How can I help him?

HIS WIFE

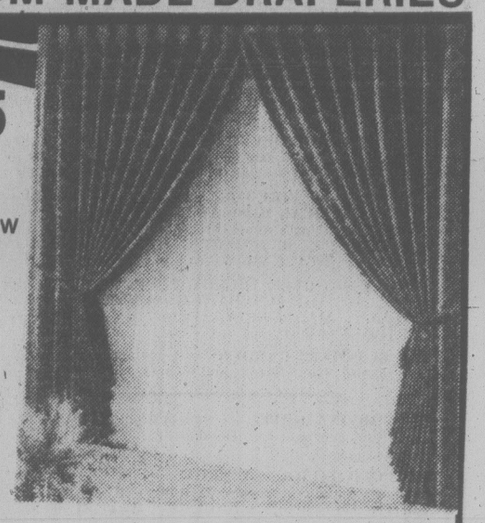

DEAR WIFE: Tell him my dear. Tell him.

Turner Linked to Blast at Grits

TORONTO (CP) — Global Television said in a newscast Monday night that documents harshly critical of the Trudeau government have been distributed bearing the names, but not the signatures, of former finance minister John Turner and his law partner, William MacDonald.

Global said the documents contain brutal descriptions of the government but do not attack Prime Minister Trudeau personally.

The documents were sent on request to clients of the law firm from March 31 to July 14, Global said.

Turner denied he wrote any newsletter. "We're not in the newsletter game," he said in an interview Monday.

Global said the documents criticize Finance Minister Jean Chretien, Industry, Trade and Commerce Minister Jack Horner, Treasury Board President Robert Andras and Energy Minister Alastair Gillespie.

About Chretien, the documents are reported by Global to say: "His optimism, some of which is admittedly professional, is leaving him with a growing credibility gap."

Horner spends 95 per cent of his time away from his job and Andras has fought and lost too many battles, Global said the documents say.

RICHMOND WOMAN WINS HOUSE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Cloud and rain greeted the 17th and final day of the Pacific National Exhibition (PNE) Monday, but the annual fair ended on a sunny note for Zeonie Hintz of Richmond.

Mrs. Hintz, 39, was the winner of the $150,000 prize home in the PNE draw. She had bought the winning ticket a few days earlier from her daughter, Debbie, who was a ticket seller at the fair.

The home will be moved to a lot in Burnaby.

Monday's attendance was 113,918, down from 131,352 for the final day last year.

Total attendance for the exhibition was 1,219,392, down 60,234 from 1977. PNE officials said the major reason for the decline was several days of poor weather.

Tab for Renovating Royal Could Hit $2 Million.

The Royal Theatre renovation project is expanding by leaps and bounds on the planning board and could end up costing more than $2 million.

Victoria Ald. Ron McKenzie, chairman of the Royal Theatre committee, said that application will be made next month to the federal and provincial governments for funding to allow a complete refurbishing of the aging theatre.

"We want to upgrade the theatre comparible to what they did with the Orpheum in Vancouver," McKenzie said.

Original plans for the Royal called only for the expenditure of $600,000. But that would have done no more than keep the theatre in operating condition for the next few years.

Recently, plans were made to double the project in scope and cost — making it a $1.2 million affair — when it was learned additional funding might be available from the provincial and federal governments.

But McKenzie said the committee is now planning $2.2 million in renovations in order to make the Royal into a first class theatre that could serve the community for 20 or 30 more years.

He said the committee has decided to shoot for the limit in applying for government grants because a recent task force study has ruled out the possibility of a new civic centre for Greater Victoria.

McKenzie said a major new civic centre would put theatres like the Royal, the McPherson Theatre and the University of Victoria theatre out of business.

"In addition our calculations are that it would run a defecit of about $300,000 a year."

McKenzie said that with the civic centre idea out the window, the Royal's renovation takes on much greater importance.

The Royal, he said, would be managed to complement the other art facilities in town.

Plans will include enlarging the foyer to accomodate 300 to 400 people, enlarging the stage and adding a lounge area. Such expansions will call for the acquisition of nearby land.

"The $2.2 million proposal includes the purchase of property and absolutely everything the committee would like to do," said McKenzie.

Lawyer Appointed

Saanich lawyer James Fisher has been appointed to the Saanich Peninsula Water Commission replacing Terrence Holmes who resigned in mid-term.

Fisher will serve until the end of next year.

Doctors Appeal Election

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three doctors who were defeated as candidates for office in the British Columbia Medical Association have asked the B.C. Supreme Court to declare the election invalid.

The action was filed by Dr. John O'Brien-Bell, candidate for the office of honorary secretary-treasurer; Dr. Alexander Mandeville, candidate for president-elect; and Dr. Raymond J. Marsh, candidate for chairman of the general assembly.

The petitioners also want the court to order that new elections be held at the earliest opportunity in accordance with the BCMA constitution.

The petitioners were defeated by nominess chosen by the official nominating committee.

Dr. Melvin Petreman was elected president, Dr. Duncan Innis chairman of the general assembly and Dr. John Rayson honorary secretary-treasurer.

Named as respondents in the action are the BCMA, executive director Dr. F. N. Rigby and association president Dr. Tony Milobar.

The writ claims that the BCMA handed out new ballots to members who claimed they had lost or not received one without any attempt to control the ballots issued.

WHY A HONDA CAN HELP SELL YOU ON A MAZDA.

If you were to put a Honda Civic beside a Mazda GLC Deluxe and compare both hatchbacks point by point, chances are the Civic would start to sell you on a GLC. How do we know?

Because a little while ago, a Mazda dealer did it.

He put a Honda Civic on his lot full of Mazda GLC's last summer and invited people to test-drive and compare both cars. Shortly afterwards, his full lot wasn't so full anymore.

And here are some reasons why:

First off, the GLC is bigger and roomier than a Civic. In fact, the GLC has a total of 86 cu. ft. of passenger and cargo space while the Civic has only 74 cu. ft. (Some people said the thing that bugged them about the Honda was they didn't know what to do about their left foot when driving, because the footspace was very cramped. The GLC gave plenty of leg room for both legs.)

Second, the GLC has 43% more window area than a Civic so there's better visibility all around. (People said they felt safer in the GLC because they could see more.)

Third, the GLC Deluxe offers standard features a Civic doesn't. For example, the GLC Deluxe comes with a rear window wiper and washer–standard. Civic doesn't.

The GLC Deluxe comes with split rear seats, electric hatch release, big 13" whitewall tires and a unique walk-in device in the front seat–standard. Civic doesn't. The GLC also offers a 3-speed automatic model that gives the best overall gas mileage of any automatic car today (mileages of 69 km/gal on the highway and 59 km/gal in the city*). Honda only offers a 2-speed semi-automatic.

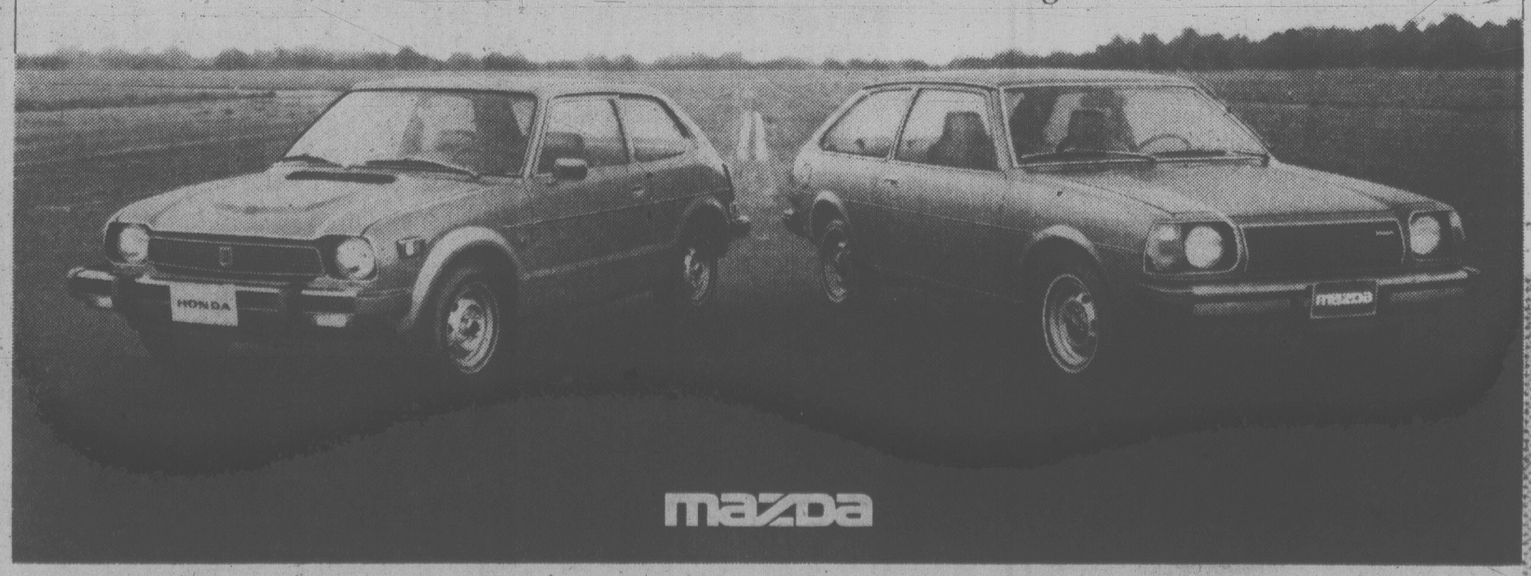

Last but not least, the GLC gives you a choice of a 2 or 4-door hatchback. Civic doesn't. It seems after comparing both cars, a lot of people admitted the GLC came out ahead. Their biggest surprise was that the GLC wasn't as popular.

Well, consider this. Honda may be recognized as being the most popular small car in Canada. But it's not the most popular small car in the world. In fact, in countries like Norway, France, Australia and Switzerland there's another small car that completely outsells Honda Civic.

The Mazda GLC.

And if that doesn't sell you on a GLC, maybe this will. The GLC Deluxe costs less than a Civic Hatchback. About $300 less.

MAZDA GLC
We thought of it.

*Based on Transport Canada approved test methods for a GLC with automatic transmission. Your mileage will vary depending on the type of driving you do, your driving habits and your car's condition.
Based on manufacturers' suggested list prices available at time of publication for a 2-Door GLC Deluxe and a 2-Door Honda Civic Hatchback.

Lewis Show Raises $29 Million

LAS VEGAS — Jerry Lewis solicited pledges for a record $29 million to fight muscular dystrophy Monday and denied that he would receive a penny of it.

The money was promised during Lewis's 21½-hour annual Labor Day telethon, which began Sunday evening and ended Monday afternoon.

Near the end of the telecast, a distraught Lewis responded to 27 letters that he said questioned whether he received any money for being the host and organizing the telethon.

Most viewers missed his statement because many of the stations carrying the telethon had cut away for commercials.

Lewis, who has been the host for the telethons for 13 years, said: "I receive nothing from the telethon. Every dime is accounted for through the Freedom of Information Act."

At the end of the statement, the crowd in the ballroom at the Sahara Hotel gave him a cheer.

Lewis' spokesman Horace Petzall said pledges totalling $29,074,405 were phoned in to the regional television stations that carried the telethon, topping last year's $26,841,419.

About 100 entertainers joined Lewis to raise the funds, Petzall said, including Paul Anka, Patty Duke and her husband John Astin, Tony Bennett, Sid Caesar, Vicki Carr, Ray Charles, Sammy Davis Jr., Mike Douglas, Robert Goulet, Lou Rawls, Buddy Rich, Keely Smith, Sally Struthers and Sarah Vaughn and sports celebrities Joe Frazier and Wilma Rudolph.

Petzall said a Farmington, Conn., man, who ran 4,360 kilometres (2,626 miles) to raise money for Muscular Dystrophy research, flew to Las Vegas to join Lewis on the air Sunday.

Andy West began his journey in northern Maine on July 1 and arrived in Marathon, Fla., Saturday — 64 days and seven pairs of running shoes later. West estimated he raised between $80,000 and $100,000.

Then, She Looked Up. . . Into Face of a Lost Sister

TORONTO — The last person Lorna Dini expected to see wander into the snack-bar where she works was the teen-aged sister she has not seen since she was a baby.

"It was a miracle, that's all, a miracle," the 20-year-old Lorna said in an interview during the weekend.

When Lorna looked up into the face of the teen-ager ordering a pizza last Friday, she said she saw the same blue-green eyes, smile and dark brown hair she sees every morning in the mirror.

She knew instantly that she was facing her sister — a sister she had known only through the memories of her mother and whom she had hoped to see for many years.

"I had to burn her pizza to keep her there," Lorna said. "I had to get up the nerve — I couldn't say anything. I didn't know if she knew she was adopted."

Lorna said she finally asked the girl whether her name was Cindy and whether she was born on June 28.

"She started to cry and her girl friend said, what's wrong?" said Lorna. "And Cindy told her, 'That's my sister'."

It was a tearful reunion for the two, and later that night there were more tears — when Lorna took 18-year-old Cindy Bator to meet her real mother, Lorna said.

The girls' mother was divorced from their father when Cindy was born. Receiving no financial support from him and earning about $30 a week at a factory job, she decided to give Cindy up for adoption.

"I thought I should give her up to some family who could give her what I couldn't," the girls' mother said. "I was really, really upset, wondering if I did the right thing."

Cindy was adopted at the age of one week by a childless couple in the Metropolitan Toronto borough of North York.

The two girls said they spent Friday and Saturday going through family albums and discovering they have many feelings and interests in common.

"She's like my double," Lorna said. "It's just turned out great."

Soldier's Life Just A Drag

FORT CARSON, Colo. — Staff Sgt. Little E. (Bill) Douglas says he's gay and wants out of the U.S. Army, so he showed up at his mess hall in a black evening gown, high heels and a wig to protest what he says are unnecessary delays in processing his discharge.

Army officials say Douglas, a six-year army veteran, has refused to provide requested notarized statements from his sexual partners as required in army regulations.

Cleaver's Soul Comes Off Ice With Love For Lord

LOS ANGELES — Eldridge Cleaver, the former militant Black Panther fugitive, packed a Bible instead of a gun when he returned to Will Rogers Park in Watts after a 10-year absence.

"I used to carry a gun ready to take 'em with me," Cleaver told about 500 people at opening ceremonies for the second annual Gospel Watts Happening Celebration.

Cleaver, 12, who detailed his fiery revolutionary activities in an autobiography, Soul On Ice, fled the United States in 1968 to escape trial in a shooting incident.

But he said he became disillusioned with radicalism and communism in his seven years in Cuba, Algeria and France.

"I wanted to get away from that philosophy, but I didn't know where to turn," he said.

"Then I found Jesus Christ . . . and I'll never let him go."

DON'T DO IT TODAY IF YOU CAN DELAY

PHILADELPHIA — Procrastinators across North America are being urged to step out front today — if they get around to it, of course.

Be-Late-For-Something Day is an annual affair sponsored by the Philadelphia-based Procrastinators Club.

"Procrastination, for some reason, is still something that is considered negative by a lot of people, I don't understand why," says Les Waas, club president since 1956 because "we haven't gotten around to our 1957 election yet."

Waas said the idea of Be-Late-For-Something-Day is to highlight the insignificance of so many daily concerns.

Sergei's Miffed At Canny Press

MOSCOW — The husband of Christina Onassis Kauzov is tired of inquisitive reporters who want to know "when I went to the bathroom and came out again."

Sergei Kauzov made the comment when asked to confirm reports that his new wife was in Helsinki during the weekend shopping for furniture for their seven-room Moscow apartment.

The Finnish capital is the nearest major Western city to Moscow and a popular shopping centre for Moscow's foreign community.

Said Sergei: "We're so tired of people probing our private life, where I've flown to and where I've arrived and when I went to the bathroom and came out again, that I don't want to comment."

DIEF'S CONDITION IMPROVING

OTTAWA — Former prime minister John Diefenbaker is in satisfactory condition after major surgery Friday to remove nine teeth because of an infection, a Civic Hospital spokesman said today.

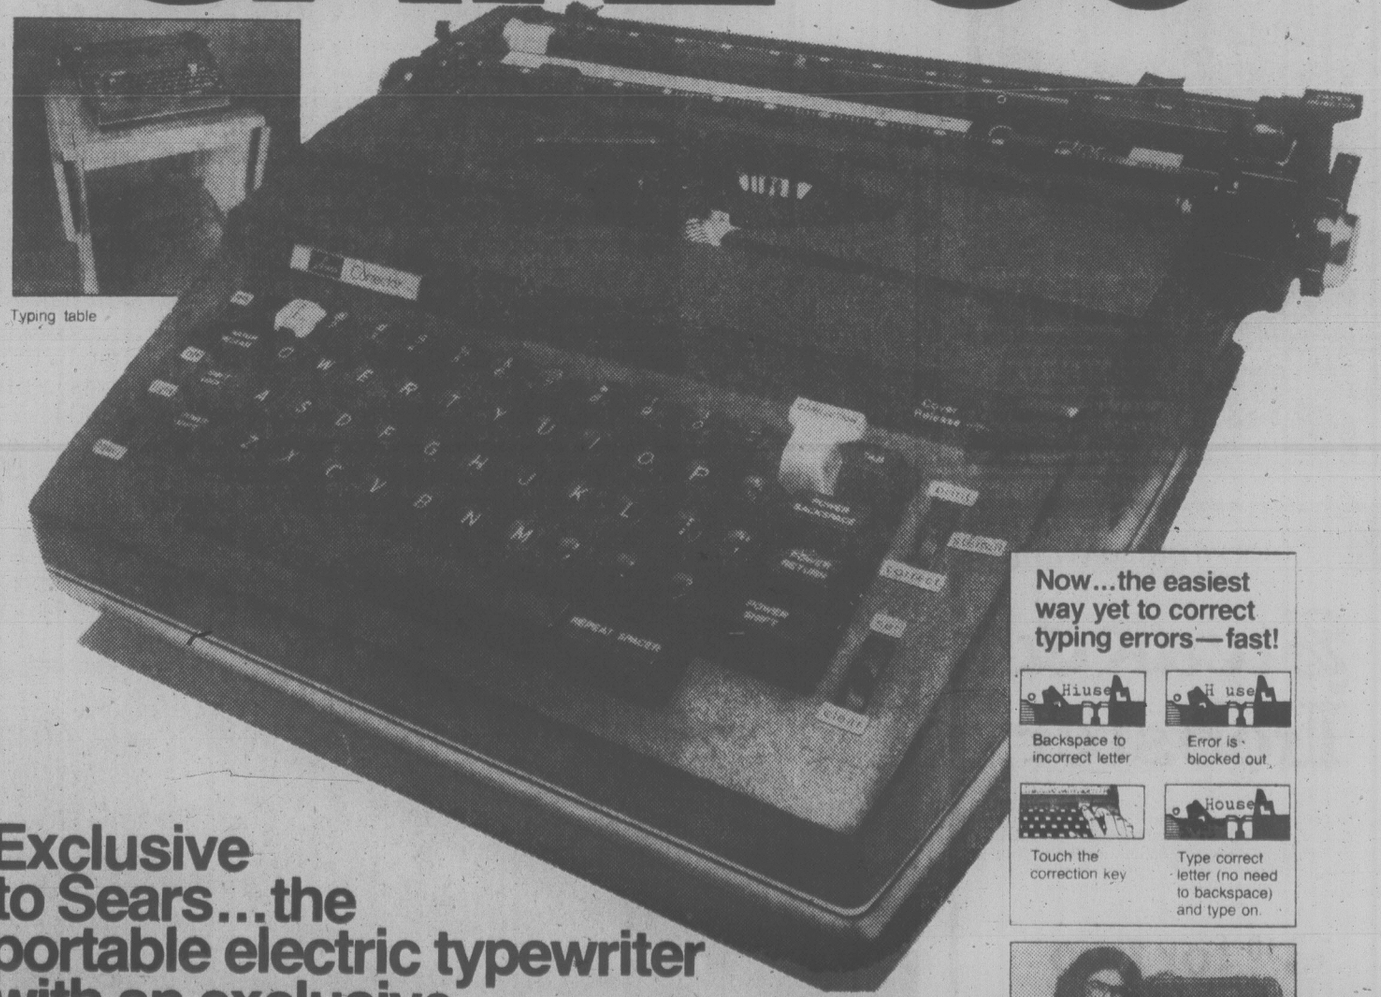

Diefenbaker, 82, Progresssive Conservative MP for the Saskatchewan riding of Prince Albert, entered hospital last week suffering fatigue and the infection.

Don't Prune by Calendar

A previous column stating that shrubs and trees are not pruned in local gardens during fall because of the climate, has brought several questions as to the exact calendar date we should give attention to specifically named shrubs.

Since it is possible to grow more kinds, species and varieties of shrubs on the southern end of Vancouver Island than in any other part of Canada, to cover every plant by name would fill this column for many weeks.

That does not mean we cannot be of help to local gardeners providing they are willing to help themselves by making a few observations and entering the results in their gaden notebook for future reference.

The shrubs we can grow will comfortably fit into two groups. All the home gardener has to do is to note the flowering habits of the plants being grown and determine to which group they belong.

But first let us reach an agreement as to the start and finish of the different seasons that make up a calendar year.

When trying to elicit information to help solve a gardening problem gardeners will tell me the seed was sown this summer, but pinning them down to an actual date reveals it was sometime in April.

In all horticultural references, January, February and March constitute winter. Our inconsistency is apparent when we speak of early spring sowings of hardy vegetables in March which is actually late winter.

Spring encompasses April, May, and June; summer is July, August and September regardless of the widespread belief that summer ends when the children go back to school. October, November and December are the months of autumn, or fall.

The change from one season to the next takes place on the 21st of December, March, June and September, with a day or two difference over a period of years to bring our calendars in line with solar time. The season is considered to have changed on these dates although the prevailing weather pattern may continue for some weeks.

Air temperatures and the number of hours of daylight have an effect on the production of flowering wood. Some shrubs produce their flowering wood in summer and fall and their flowers the following spring. Others produce flowering wood in the spring and their flowers in summer and fall.

For our purpose it is convenient to divide the shurbs we grow into two groups:

Group 1: those which flower during spring, April to the end of June;

Group 2: those which flower in summer and early fall, July to the end of October.

All shrubs and trees fitting into Group 1 make their flowering wood during the summer and early fall and bear blossoms the following spring. To prune in fall would remove the flowering wood.

Therefore pruning is done immediately the majority of blossoms have faded, before the new growths, which will be the flowering wood for next year, become visible.

Those in group 2 bear flowers on new wood made during spring, and the flowers open during summer and early fall. These are pruned in March to early April depending on prevailing weather conditions, but always before, or at the first indication of, new growth.

There is no exact calendar date on which any shrub or tree is pruned, nor are all shrubs or trees within one group ready for pruning at the same time.

A friend visiting from Ontario had to return in time to start pruning the trees and shrubs in the nursery where he works by the first of September. He was intersted to learn that such pruning cannot be done in the climate of the west coast.

IMMACULATE, TOWNHOUSE, ONE LEVEL
— 3 BIG BEDROOMS —

I have just what you need — a ONE LEVEL home that is LOW PRICED and ECONOMICAL (low utilities) but also ATTRACTIVE, very PRIVATE with lots of living space. Its location in the 6 unit complex gives a large, sunny garden, with privacy and quiet, plus extra parking. The rooms are large and attractively decorated with big windows to bring in the sun. LR opens to a flower decked patio. Kitchen/open DR has a good layout large enough to have dining and kitchen separated, if you wish. A large storage room could easily become a workshop of your own. Laundry room is off the kitchen. Don't miss this because it's a townhome, LET ME SHOW YOU ITS VALUE now and possibilities for the future. The $46,900 price really makes this a MUST SEE HOME. Official Defends Fish Auction

VANCOUVER (CP) — Complaints from fishermen about planned salmon auctions at federal fish hatcheries are unwarranted, a fisheries spokesman said Monday.

Ron McLeod, director of field operations for the fisheries department, said the surplus salmon expected at the hatcheries are the inevitable result of the enhancement program.

He said it has been found that the production rate of hatchery-reared salmon is three to four times the rate for natural stock.

Crown Assets Disposal Corp. has placed ads inviting tenders on up to a million pounds of coho and chinook, about three-quarters of it fit for human consumption, which will be available between Sept. 15 and Dec. 15 at five coastal hatcheries.

Jack Nichol, president of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union, said that there are more fish than expected in the runs, commercial fishermen should be allowed to harvest them.

George Hewison, secretary-treasurer of the union, said fishermen are allowed only 11 hours this week to fish and "we're just out of luck if the weather is bad."

3 Die on Roads; 1 Drowns

Three people died in traffic accidents in B.C. while another person drowned over the holiday weekend.

Ronald Herbert Elmore, 18, of Smithers, was killed Sunday morning when the car he was driving went out of control and rolled down an embankment just east of that central interior community.

A Surrey woman and her 14-year-old son were killed Friday night in a two-vehicle accident on the Trans-Canada Highway about four kilometres north of Spences Bridge. Police identified the two as Joyce Taylor, 43, and her son Raymond.

Nils Pfitzner, 9, of Langley, drowned Sunday when the raft he was riding in overturned on the South Thompson River about 12 kilometres north of Lytton. The boy's father and another man were rescued by police.

Volrich Won't Run For TEAM

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mayor Jack Volrich announced Monday he will not run as a candidate for The Electors' Action Movement (TEAM) or any other party in the next civic election.

"I want to be my own self," Volrich said. "I don't want to have to answer to any group or organization."

Volrich made the announcement at a hastily-called press conference at his home in response to an announcement Sunday by TEAM directors that the party was dropping support of him.

TEAM executives, including president George Taylor, visited Volrich Sunday morning at his home and made the decision known later in the day.

Volrich said he told Taylor over a week ago he was considering running as an independent, but had made the final decision before the TEAM announcement was made.

"No one dumped me," he said.

Dynamite Chained To Victim's Chest

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP) — "Help me, please help me, or I'll die," a Brewers' Retail store clerk pleaded with police after a man had chained a stick of dynamite and a detonator to the clerk's chest in an extortion attempt.

David Coombs, 25, of Burlington said his ordeal began Saturday night after he was lured to a house and confronted by an armed and masked man.

Coombs said the man padlocked him to a bomb and told him to return to the Brewers' Retail store where he worked and open the safe.

Coombs said in an interview Sunday that he decided not to comply with the extortionist's demands and instead telephoned police from a call-box outside an unmanned police station in the Burlington area.

"I felt angry," Coombs said in an interview. "I didn't want him to do the same thing to someone else."

Halton regional police said a sergeant and two constables were sent to the scene. The police officers led Coombs into a field in this city adjacent to Hamilton, made him lie down on the ground and called in a bomb disposal squad from neighboring Peel regional police.

"They helped me to lay down on the blanket and put a protective device over my arms and face," Coombs said.

"Then it was wait until the bomb squad arrived. It seemed like forever, but it really wasn't."

Coombs said he was nervous and unable to watch while the bomb squad removed the explosive device from his chest.

"The police did a good job calming me down. I was nervous but I was not terrified."

Police said the bomb chained to Coombs could have been detonated at any time by remote control.

U.K. Ships Visit

Eight British ships which arrive in Victoria Wednesday will be open to the public from 2 to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

The frigate HMS Juno will berth in the Inner Harbor while the remainder will be in the dockyard at CFB Esquimalt.

Rear-Admiral R.R. Squires, flag officer of the Royal Navy's First Fleet, will be aboard the cruiser HMS Blake.

The other visiting ships are the nuclear submarine HMS Conqueror, the frigates HMS Hermoine and HMS Leander and the Royal Fleet Auxiliaries Stromness, Tidespring and Resurgent.

(NOTE: Senior fares apply only when B.C. Ferries allow senior citizens free passage)

Like many commodities, the cost of providing these services has gone up considerably in the past few years. More realistic bus fares are needed to help maintain the existing level of service. Even with the new fares, however, the rider still pays about half the cost of providing these services.

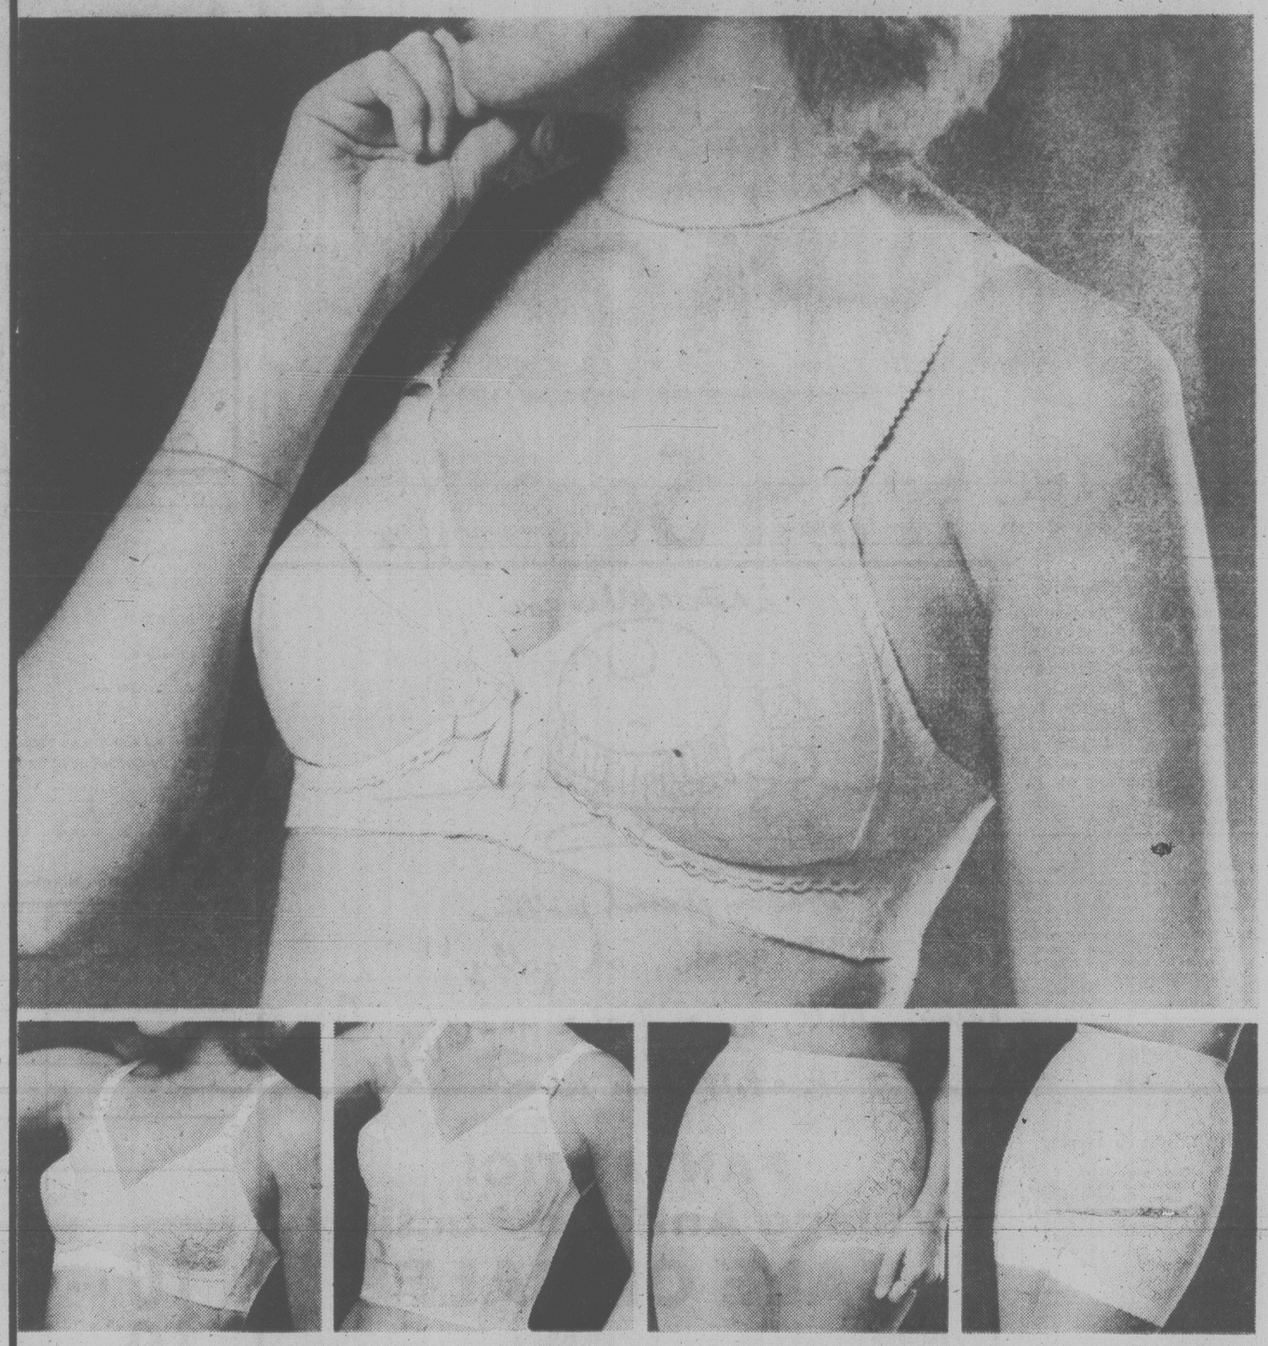

We think you'll have to agree. Sailing by bus is still a beautiful B.C. bargain.

Broadbent Slams Liberal Restraints

TORONTO (CP) — The federal government must stop blaming the Canadian worker for current economic difficulties and immediately provide jobs for the more than one million persons out of work, Ed Broadbent, leader of the New Democratic Party, said Monday.

Broadbent was addressing a Labor Day luncheon on the closing day of the Canadian National Exhibition. A text of his remarks was released in advance.

"Attacking workers and the unemployed might be easy politics when you're looking for someone to blame for your own incompetence, but it is both economically dishonest and socially destructive in its consequences," the NDP leader said.

These parties now have an identical policy of cutbacks, rollbacks and restraint, he said.

"They want to restrain Canadian into an even deeper recession."

Broadbent attacked the government's proposed tightening of unemployment insurance regulations that would shave about 130,000 claimants from unemployment insurance rolls by 1979-80 and about twice that number by 1980-81.

"Reducing unemployment insurance benefits when there are more than one million Canadians out of work may win some votes in parts of Westmount and Rosedale," he said. "But it is no substitute for economic leadership and positive action to create jobs."

He accused the Liberals and Conservatives of "systematically misleading the people of Canada" by pulling out old cliches prior to a general election.

Prison Chaplain Sacked

QUEBEC (CP) — Raymond Lavoie, the prison chaplain who accused Quebec's police and prison staff of using brutality and torture on prisoners, says he has been dismissed from his job.

A justice department official informed him Friday he was no longer employed as chaplain of Orsainville detention centre and the Quebec City women's prison, Maison Gomin, Lavoie said.

Earlier this month the chaplain asked to be temporarily relieved of his duties while awaiting the outcome of a coroner's inquest into the death of an 18-year-old prisoner found hanged in a cell at Quebec City police headquarters Aug. 12.

Speaking at the prisoner's funeral, Lavoie denounced police forces and prisons for what he said was a routine use of brutality which included torture of prisoners. Police officials and the head of a prison guards' union strongly denied the allegations.

The chaplain said he has appealed his dismissal to the justice department and the archbishop of Quebec.

Lavoie maintained that responsibility for defining his job duties lies with his bishop because chaplains are representatives of the church and not the state.

Change Vote Day, Jews Ask

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Jewish Congress says it wants the federal government to consider changing the date of 15 byelections, scheduled to be held Oct. 16, because the day is a Jewish holiday.

The congress in a telegram to Prime Minister Trudeau said that thousands of Jewish persons who celebrate Sukkot — the Festival of Tabernacle — will not be allowed to vote because Jewish law prohibits writing and travelling during the holiday.

"We strongly urge consideration be given to a different date," the telegram said.

Ben Kayfetz, Ontario director of the congress, said a list outlining seven Jewish holidays, all in October, was sent to the federal government a number of months ago.

The prime minister's office sent the congress a letter acknowledging the group's request that no election or byelections be held on the holidays, Kayfetz said.

He said congress members would not be satisfied to vote in advance polls because the polls would indicate how the members voted.

No UIC for Adopting Mum

OTTAWA (CP) — A married woman who has a baby, and qualifies under the Unemployment Insurance Act can leave her job and receive 15 weeks of Unemployment Insurance Commission maternity benefits while she cares for her child. But if the same woman adopted a child, UIC would pay her nothing.

An Ottawa couple, who prefer to remain anonymous, brought the discrepancy to light recently after making what they thought would be a routine application for maternity benefits.

"We can't have natural children, and we want to adopt this eight-day-old baby," the husband said. "I think we are being discriminated against because we are adopting a child rather than having one naturally."

He said his wife has to be at home for six months — a stipulation made by the adoption agency — to look after the infant.

So while the agency — the Children's Aid Society of Ottawa — insists that one parent stay with the newly adopted child for a minimum of six months, UIC will not pay benefits the parents would have been entitled to had the child been born to them.

He said the act is worded in such a way that a working woman has to prove she is pregnant before UIC will approve maternity benefits.

Brewery Workers OK Contract In Edmonton

EDMONTON (CP) — A contract dispute at Labatt's Alberta Brewery ended Monday night, when unionized workers voted 65 per cent in favor of accepting a new two-year contract. They had been on strike since June 7.

After the voting session, Dennis Unger, president of Local 150 of the Canadian Union of United Brewery, Flour, Cereal, Soft Drink and Distillery Workers, said the brewery's retail store would open at 10 a.m. today.

In terms of the new contract, the brewery workers will receive a 10.2-per-cent increase in the first year and a 4.7-per-cent increase in the second. When the strike started, workers' base hourly wage was $8.44.

The other strike, at the Calgary plant of Carling O'Keefe Breweries of Canada Ltd., ended last month. Workers had been off the job for 11 weeks.

The Calgary brewery workers signed a new two-year contract Aug. 19. The settlement included a $1.49-an-hour wage increase plus a cost-of-living increase amounting to about 21 cents a year over the two years.

NAKED MAN CRUSHED

MONT ST. BRUNO, Que. (CP) — A naked man claiming to be God was killed under the wheels of a heavy tractor in a nearby provincial park Saturday night, police said.

"I am God. Where is the church?" the man asked the operator. He ran up to the tractor and then apparently slipped under the wheels.

Police said they have not been able to establish the dead man's identity.

"He was stark naked, and we didn't find any clothes," a police spokesman said.

THEFTS 'JUSTIFY' POSTAL SPYING

MONTREAL (CP) — Postmaster-General Gilles Lamontagne said Saturday the arrest last week of two Montreal Post Office employees in connection with a multi-million dollar theft ring shows there is "justification for the installation of modern electronic surveillance equipment" within the Post Office.

"Such equipment would be useful in combatting criminal activity, which uses modern techniques as well," the minister said in a statement issued from Ottawa.

He added said that while there may occasionally be people who attempt to steal from the system, they represent a very small percentage of the Post Office's 63,000 employees.

Storm Misses Newfoundland

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Hurricane Ella passed within 80 kilometres of the Newfoundland coast late Monday night, but there were no immediate reports of damage.

Earlier predictions indicated Ella would pass over Cape Race, on the extreme southeastern tip of the province, but before the storm touched the coast, it veered off into the north Atlantic.

Liquor Forced On Boy, 4

CALEDON, Ont. (CP) — A Toronto man has been charged with attempted murder after a four-year-old Toronto boy was forced to drink a large amount of liquor.

Provincial police said today a man had been left in charge of Donald Mann and two other children Thursday night while camping in nearby Albion Hills conservation area, about 16 kilometres north of Brampton.

Police said the man became angry after Donald drank some beer. The man slapped the boy, forced him to drink a large quantity of liquor and sent him to bed.

When Donald's mother returned and could not wake him, he was taken to a hospital in northwestern Toronto and later transferred to Hospital for Sick Children where he was in fair condition today.

Police said George Steven MacLeod, 19, will appear in Brampton provincial court Tuesday for a bail hearing.

Ground AirWest Until Probe: Mayors

Acting Victoria Mayor Bill Tindall today joined Vancouver Mayor Jack Volrich in calling for the suspension of AirWest Airlines flights until completion of an investigation into Saturday's air disaster.

Tindall said he fully supports Volrich who Monday urged a shutdown of the airlines because of the Twin Otter crash in Vancouver that took 11 lives.

The airline is continuing normal operations despite earlier warnings that pilots and flight crews might stay off the job following Saturday's crash.

An Air West spokesman said five flights to Victoria, Nanaimo and Seattle left on schedule and flights were normal today.

The crash claimed the lives of nine Japanese tourists, pilot Mark Goostry, 28, and flight attendant Douglas Johnson, 23, both of Vancouver.

The tourists were part of a group of 23 Japanese on a one-week tour of B.C. Most were employees of Japan Air Lines.

Witnesses said the plane's engine spluttered immediatley before the crash.

The witnesses credited the pilot, who was killed on impact, with making a last-second manoeuvre to avoid crashing into the yacht club floats where people were standing.

Authorities identified the Japanese victims as Mrs. Fumiko Kinoshita, 61, Nagoya; Mrs. Yukio Fukuta, 58, Nagoya; Masayuki Kato, 25, and Mrs. Yoko Kato, 26, Nara; Takuo Oogusu, 33, Tokyo; Katsumi Shiine, 27, and Mrs. Michiko Shiine, 24, Faitaima; Renzo Sasaki, 56, and Mrs. Kikuii Sasaki, 57, Fukui.

Surviving the disaster were Yukio Ishii, 30, North Vancouver, and Masakatsu Fukuda, 32, Mutsuura, Chio, Japan. Both are listed in fair and stable condition in hospital.

The two men were pulled from the sinking plane by witnesses.

"It's not an unusual procedure to ground a certain type of aircraft when there's been a crash about which very little is known," said Tindall.

"AirWest has had an unfortunate series of accidents that have done nothing to enhance their image in the public eye.

Tindall said a suspension of services would be highly damaging to the company and would mean the loss of a

BUS FARE HIKES GO SMOOTHLY

There was no hassle in Victoria today as fares on B.C. Hydro buses went from 35 cents to 50 cents.

In contrast to Vancouver where a downtown organization is distributing promissory notes, asking members to pay the 35 cents and put promissory notes for the remainder in the box, there was no organized protest here.

"We've much nicer people," said Mike Flemming, president of the Victoria local of the Amalgamated Transit Union.

Flemming said he and his fellow bus drivers have a responsibility to people using the buses and should one individual refuse to pay the entire amount, drivers will not hold up a bus in order to get a supervisor or the police.

A spokesman for the government-owned Pacific Stage Lines also said increased fares have not caused any problem.

Fares for adults travelling between Victoria and Vancouver went from $5.75 to $6.60, children's fares went from $2.90 to $3.30 and senior citizens' fares remained at $2.75.

Fares for adults travelling between Vancouver and Swartz Bay or Victoria to Tsawwassen rose from $4.70 to $5.40 while children's fares went from $2.35 to $2.70. Senior citizens will still continue to pay $1.70.

"The seniors are happy," the spokesman said.

SCHOOL DAYS are happy days judging by big beams from hand-holding buddies Sadie Rhodes and Serena Laws as they answered call to class at Macaulay elementary in Esquimalt. Thousands of youngsters put aside play time to get back to normal school routine today and police warned motorists to take extra care, especially with small fry out on their own for the first time. B.C. After Money For Jobs

VANCOUVER (CP) — Federal government cutbacks in unemployment insurance are not acceptable to British Columbia, Labor Minister Allan Williams said Monday.

Speaking at the annual Labor Day dinner at the Pacific National Exhibition, Williams said any meaningful savings in federal spendings should be directed into job opportunities.

"We are ready to meet with Ottawa for the fullest implementation of funds for permanent jobs rather than short-term work," he said.

Williams said there are still 90,000 people unemployed in B.C., and the province must maintain a level of productivity to be in a position to enter foreign markets.

George Johnston, president of the B.C. Federation of Labor, said however, that the Social Credit government in B.C. is deliberately avoiding its responsibility to enact serious legislation to create more jobs.

"Premier Bennett knows that to create jobs will require redirection of the economy," Johnston said. "This can only be accomplished by government planning.

"But government intervention means less room for corporations to manoeuvre and less opportunities to exploit and profit."

TOXIC PESTICIDE DUMPED IN LAKE

SECHELT (CP) — RCMP are investigating the dumping of 90.7 kilograms of highly toxic pesticide into Cloholm Lake Saturday near this community 60 kilometres northwest of Vancouver.

Arthur McPhee, provincial emergency program officer, said Monday that four 22.7 kilogram drums of the pelletized defoliant Tordon 10K were taken from a British Columbia Hydro storage shed and tipped off the shore into the lake.

"These drums are heavy and it was the work of a few people to carry them from the cottage and tip them into the lake," McPhee said.

B.C. Hydro, owner of the drums, was given permission last spring by the Pesticide Control Appeal Board to apply Tordon 10K to road rights-of-way, but the applications were stalled by environmentalists' objections.

A federal environment protection service consultant said the pesticide is highly toxic to fish, but dissolves quickly in water and cannot be contained or recovered.

WAS PLANE SHOT DOWN?

Rhodesia Hunts Butchers of 10

Times News Services

Rhodesian troops searched rugged bushland today for guerrillas who massacred 10 survivors from a plane which the insurgents claim to have shot down.

Air Marshal Mick McLaren, deputy commander of combined operations, said that a manhunt was underway for the guerrillas.

"We have every intention of eliminating this gang of bloodthirsty butchers," McLaren said.

Thirty-eight of the 56 persons on the flight from Kariba to Salisbury were killed in the crash.

The survivors, who hid in the bush all night, said those massacred included two girls, 4 and 11, and seven women, one of whom was shot and bayoneted.

Joshua Nkomo, co-leader of the Patriotic Front guerrilla alliance, said in Lusaka that men from his Zimbabwe People's Revolutionary Army were responsible for shooting down the Air Rhodesia plane Sunday.

But Air Rhodesia Manager Pat Travers rejected Nkomo's claim that the plane had been shot down.

"There is at present no evidence to suggest that the aircraft was brought down by hostile action," Travers said. He said the last message from the crew explicitly stated that the plane's two starboard engines were out of action.

"In our opinion, had the aircraft been hit by a missile or any other weapon, the crew's first reaction would have been to say so," he said.

Travers dismissed as a "downright, delibrate lie" a claim by Nkomo that shooting down its planes was justified because they were used to haul troops and war materiel.

Nkomo while claiming to have shot the plane down, today denied that his men later massacred the 10 survivors.

He declined to say how the aircraft had been brought down.

One survivor, Anthony Hill, 39, described the incident this way: "There was a tremendous explosion, then flames started shooting past the window on the starboard wing.

"The captain told everyone to keep calm . . . to brace for the impact. The plane came down at a hell of a speed, then it crashed."

Hans Hansen, 35, said that about an hour after the crash nine guerrillas emerged from the bush.

"When they first approached us," Hansen said, "they said they were going to give us water and help. Then when they gathered us together, they said, 'You have taken our land! We are going to kill you!' and they started shooting."

He said the guerrillas killed seven women, two children and a man and stabbed one of the women with a bayonette after they shot her.

The bullets missed Hansen, his 31-year-old wife, Diana, and Hill. They escaped into the undergrowth and hid through the night. Rescue teams found them and the five who had gone for aid.

The government said the guerrillas looted the wreckage and the bodies.

Gov't Spends To Save $

Times News Services

OTTAWA — The government continued its intervention in foreign exchange markets during August, spending more than $700 million of international reserves to support the dollar.

Figures released today by the finance department show the central Bank of Canada, at the government's direction, borrowed another $300 million from U.S. banks under a stand-by credit arrangement. In addition, it spent $107.3 million of existing U.S. dollar reserves to buy unwanted Canadian dollars to slow the dollar's decline on international markets.

The Canadian dollar closed Friday at 86.99 cents U.S. in New York and today it was at 86.82. Currency markets were closed Monday because of the Labor Day holiday.

With last month's borrowing on the line of credit from U.S. banks, the government now owes $1 billion under this arrangement. The arrangement, completed June 23, permits total borrowing of up to $3 billion.

Another $500 million is owed to Canadian chartered banks under a borrowing arrangement set up with them last fall.

Official international reserves now are at their lowest level since the end of March. Including U.S. dollars — the main form of reserves — as well as other foreign currencies, gold and Canada's position in the International Monetary Fund, total reserves at Aug. 31 were $4.19 billion.

Gold opened unchanged at $211.375 in Zurich and gained 87.5 cents in London to $212.25.

SADAT ARRIVES FIRST

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — President Carter prepared a quiet welcome today for his partners in a Mideast summit conference, pressing for compromise but admitting the dangers in disagreement and making no predictions.

President Anwar Sadat of Egypt was arriving first, being formally greeted at an air base near Washington by Vice-President Walter Mondale and State Secretary Cyrus Vance before proceeding by helicopter to this presidential reteat.

Blasts Mark Summit

JERUSALEM (AP) — Two bombs exploded today in Jerusalem, injuring two persons as Israeli security forces were on top alert against terrorist acts timed to coincide with the opening of the Mid-East summit in Camp David, Md.

The first blast critically wounded a police expert who was inspecting a package at a gasoline station. An attendant at the station also was hurt.

A police spokesman said the second blast damaged an empty tourist bus parked near Jaffa Gate, a main entrance to Jerusalem's old walled city.

The meeting at President Carter's Maryland retreat prompted Israeli police and security forces to call a special alert against terrorist bombings to disrupt it.

Israeli embassies and companies and Jewish organizations abroad also are on the alert.

The gasoline station bomb went off when the expert approached the package.

Radio Israel reporter David Eppel, who was buying gas at the time, said he saw two injured men lying by a wire fence.

Air Canada Back to Normal

MONTREAL (CP) — Air Canada services across the country were "virtually back to normal" today.

A tentative agreement between Air Canada and the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers was reached Sunday after 14 hours of negotiations under the mediation of federal Labor Minister John Munro.

Airline president Claude Taylor said the 10-day shutdown, coming at a peak tourist period, cost Air Canada between $20 million and $30 million. Taylor said he thought most employees were happy to return to work.

The airline is not free from labor problems, however. Negotiations between Air Canada and the Canadian Air Line Flight Attendants Association broke off during the weekend, and that union announced it is in the process of taking a strike vote.

Results will not be known until later in the week, and the flight attendants will not be in a legal position to strike until seven days after presentation of a report to Munro by a federal mediator.

One union official said if the attendants do receive a mandate to strike, they will wait until the ground-service workers' dispute is concluded.

The attendants are seeking a 10-per-cent wage hike and cost-of-living bonus in a one-year contract retroactive to the expiry of their latest agreement, June 30.

An airline spokesman said today all operations are normal except for minor delays in some departure times. The airline had restored most of its scheduled flights Monday afternoon when employees began returning to work.

The agreement is subject to a ratification vote scheduled for later this week by the 7,500 ground service workers who rejected two tentative agreements earlier in the summer. But prospects for a solution this time appeared to have improved.

THE OUTCASTS by Ben Wicks

Floods Menace New Delhi

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Flooding thoughout India worsened today and authorities began evacuating residents from the outskirts of New Delhi before the approach of the swollen Jamuna River.

In West Bengal, the coastal district of Midnapore along the Bay of Bengal, more than 200,000 people were reported marooned by floodwaters of four rivers.

Late monsoon floods in northern and eastern India have killed hundreds of people and damaged crops worth millions of dollars, authorities said.

The worst-hit areas are the eastern states of West Bengal and Orissa, and the northern states of Haryana, Himachal Pradesh and the Federal Territory of New Delhi.

In New Delhi, the gushing Jamuna River broke through a water barrage, and rushed through rural and urban areas.

Whole families perched on rooftops. Cars, scooters and other vehicles were completely submerged.

The massive road bridge over the Jamuna river, separting the older part New Delhi from the newer section, was closed.

West Bengal state officials said the death toll in the Mindapore district was heavy but denied that thousands of people died, as reported Monday by the Statesman newspaper.

"The loss of life is considerable. But the report that 15,000 people have been swept away in the floods in Midnapore is incorrect," an official said.

QUAKES SCATTERED, WORST IN GERMANY

Times News Services

Three earthquakes including the strongest ever recorded in Germany were reported from different parts of the world Sunday.

The other two were in California's San Bernadino County and in Taiwan.

The European quake shook parts of East and West Germany as well as three neighboring countries, damaging homes and an historic castle but causing few injuries.

Centred in the Swabian Hills of southwestern Germany, it measured between 5 and 7.5 on the Richter scale on seismographs in surrounding countries. Most of the damage was near the picturesque Black Forest in the state of Baden-Wuerttemberg.

Police said the Hohenzollern Castle, a popular tourist attraction and ancestral home of the German kaisers, suffered extensive damage and will probably be closed for up to six months for repairs.

No casualties or damage were reported in central and northern Taiwan as a result of a moderately strong undersea tremor.

The California quake, classified as minor, registered 3.5 on the Richter scale and caused no damage or injuries.

Pr. George Pupils Stay Out

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — More than 20,000 students in Prince George will get an extended summer holiday today as schools remain closed due to a lockout of 380 non-teaching employees.

The custodians, clerks and cafeteria personnel were locked out Aug. 2 in a contract dispute with the school district.

Union representatives met with school district officials for two hours Saturday, but failed to reach agreement.

Both sides were to meet again today, however, district officials said schools would remain closed until the dispute is settled.

Meanwhile, teachers voted overwhelmingly Monday night to start work today, but refrain from performing any jobs normally carried out by the non-teaching employees.

the weather

Map valid until noon Wednesday

Variable conditions prevail over much of B.C. except over the southern interior and near the lower mainland where some precipitation is reported from a number of localities. This rain is the result of a frontal system which is edging eastward across southern B.C. This precipitation will become showery by evening over these regions with showers gradually tapering off late Wednesday as this system passes to Alberta. Elsewhere, skies will become sunny with some cloudy periods Wednesday.

IN CARS, AS IN MILK, THE CREAM RISES TO THE TOP.

In a few short years Honda Civic has risen, like the cream of the crop, to become the No.1 small car in Canada.*

It is a fact of life that there can only be one number one. There can only be one president of a country or company. There can only be one winner in a race. There can only be one first man on the moon.

In the area of small economy cars the one that has risen, like cream, to the top is Honda Civic. In the past 21 months more Canadians have discovered and praised the virtues of Honda Civic than any other small car.

The reason that Honda Civic is the cream of the crop is because it utilizes the cream of automotive design and engineering.

The cream of small car drive trains has become front wheel drive. A Honda Civic not only has front wheel drive, but it also has a transversely mounted engine to free up more interior space. Front wheel drive improves traction, uses the engine's power more efficiently and delivers an uncanny sense of control and enjoyment to the driver. The cream of car suspensions is independent McPherson struts on all four wheels. Because it is the cream it is relatively expensive and rare. You'll find it on the Honda Civic.

The cream of small car design is the trapezoid shape. It is aerodynamically sound. It is stable. And most of all, it maximizes interior space while minimizing exterior space. This trapezoidal shape was first successfully introduced to Canada by Honda. Since then several of the other car manufacturers have also adopted the concept.

More cream: self adjusting, power assisted front disc brakes. Rack and pinion steering. 4-speed transmission. Carpeting. Rear window defroster. Tinted glass. Fully reclining bucket seats. All standard equipment. And all available in a car that is one of the most moderately priced in Canada – Honda Civic.

Surely if you're in the process of choosing a new car you owe it to yourself to closely inspect a Honda Civic.

Look at it this way; if you're not getting the cream of the crop, then what are you getting?

Greek Bishop Cited In Sex Scandal

ATHENS (AP) — A sex scandal involving color photographs showing a 66-year-old Greek Orthodox bishop with an unidentified woman has shaken the church here. The bishop claims the pictures are forgeries but a government investigation says otherwise.

Ioannis Varvitsiotis, the education and religion minister, turned the pictures over to church officials and told the news media about them, saying: "I consider it my duty to protect the standing of the church."

The case has aroused the bishop's parish in a drive to oust him, and caused turmoil within the church hierarchy.

At the root of the scandal are color photographs purportedly showing black-bearded Bishop Stylianos of Preveza, in western Greece, having sex with an unidentified woman.

Church officials said the woman in the pictures appears to be a priest's wife or the wife of a Preveza notable whose identity is being protected.

The bishop claims the pictures are a "forgery, blackmail, a communist plot to undermine my position." He said they were forged by his former chauffeur, also a priest, demanding the equivalent of $6,000 in blackmail.

A church spokesman said an investigation by the State Criminal Research Department "proved beyond doubt that the pictures are genuine."

The spokesman said Varvitsiotis turned the pictures over to Archbishop Serapheim after they were certified as genuine.

The archbishop showed the pictures to the Holy Synod, the 12-member governing body of which Bishop Stylianos was then a member.

"There were cries of horror from the bishops," the spokesman said.

Greek bishops are forbidden to marry and are vowed to eternal celibacy. Junior priests may marry and have children, but if they do, they cannot rise in rank.

Church officials said the bishop will go before a church tribunal and be defrocked if found guilty. The religious charge against him is "scandalizing the conscience of the Christian faithful."

The bishop gives a political explanation to the scandal. He suggests he is resented because he reached his position during the 1967-74 period of military dictatorship in Greece by allegedly supporting the dictators.

A new organization in his parish—the Preveza Christian Fighters—circulated leaflets calling for his ouster, calling him a porn-monger.

The scandal is the latest of a recent series which have shaken the institutions of Greece's official state religion. These have mainly been sexual offences but also include alleged embezzlement of the vast fortune the church handles.

British Tories In Lead

LONDON (Reuter) — Britain's opposition Conservative party hold a two-per-cent lead over the governing Labor party, an opinion poll in The Daily Express shows.

Electors were asked how they would vote if there were a general election now. Forty-seven per cent said Conservative and 45 per cent chose Labor. The minority Liberals scored five per cent.

The poll, taken monthly for the right-wing newspaper, shows the Conservatives' lead narrowing to today's figure from six per cent in July and three in August.

The survey was published today, when prime Minister James callaghan is to the annual Trades Union Congress. The prime minister is expected to launch the campaign for a general election which he is reported to be planning for Oct. 5.

Powers Meet On Namibia

Officials said the meeting lasted about 90 minutes.

On Friday, Waldheim conferred with Foreign Minister Roelof Botha of South Africa, the country which governs the territory under a League of Nations mandate since repudiated by the UN.

The secretary-general was also expected to meet sometime today with Sam Nujoma, president of the South-West Africa People's Organization (SWAPO), the territory's main independence movement. Nujoma now is in New York.

The consultations are in preparation for a Security Council debate, likely to begin later this week, on Waldheim's proposals.

The proposals, based on a plan advanced by the five Western powers, call for the UN to provide 7,500 troops, 360 civilian police and about 1,200 civilian officials to help keep the peace and oversee elections in Namibia.

AUSSIES OFFER NIXON TOURIST VISA

SYDNEY (AP) — Australia will grant former U.S. president Richard Nixon a tourist visa if he comes on "a genuinely private visit," a senior government source said today in Canberra amid more press debate on the controversial trip.

The government turned down Nixon's request to make an official visit and meet with Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser, but Nixon's chief aide said the former president still planned to come on a private visit. Police are reported worrying about protecting Nixon, even on a private visit.

In an editorial entitled Stay Home Yank, the Sydney Sunday Telegraph said of Nixon's reported decision to come despite the government rebuff: "Is there no end to the arrogance of Richard Milhous Nixon? Is this wretched, strutting creature totally deluded?

"The federal government must tell this self-confessed cheat now that he is not wanted here. In any capacity. And if the message contains some of the expletives deleted from the taped tissue of lies which destroyed his presidency, it will serve him right."

Mayor Irvin Rockman of Melbourne said he would be interested in meeting Nixon unofficially. "He'd be very interesting, fascinating. After all, he has been a major figure in the world whatever happened," he said.

Space Duo Return

MOSCOW (Reuter) — East German cosmonaut Sigmund Jaehn and his Soviet mission commander, Valery Bykovsky landed safely in Soviet Central Asiaon on the weekend after a week aboard the Soviet Salyut-6 research station in earth orbit.

The descent capsules of their Soyuz-29 spacecraft parachuted down as planned 140 kilometres southeast of the town of Dzhezkazgan, in the republic of Kazakhstan.

Bykovsky and Jaehn, the first East German in space, were said to have successfully completed their program of medical and scientific experiments on board the Salyut. Both were reported feeling well after the touch down.

Ancient Capital Located?

Twice as popular

So far in 1978, 12,674 little Chevy Chevettes have been sold compared to 4,225 sold in the same period of time last year.* A 200% increase. Maybe it's because we added so many more new standard features. Or maybe it's because it has so much built-in value. Apparently a lot of people this year have chosen Chevette over other competitive cars in its class.

Now Chevette (except Scooter) gives you a fully equipped car at a lower price than most imported small cars. You get an AM radio, whitewalls, reclining seats, console, sport steering wheel plus over a dozen other style and convenience features at no extra cost. You can buy a 3-door or opt for a 5-door, and either way you get the extra door at no extra charge, 'cause every Chevette's a hatchback. And with Chevette's 1.6 litre engine and 4-speed manual transmission, it delivers a dollar-saving 67 km/gal. combined city and highway driving. Finally, something no import can offer you: General Motors Dealer Network. Over 1,000 dealers stretching coast to coast to provide you with parts availability and quality service.

Fair Entries Shatter Records

By HUMPHRY DAVY
Times Staff

Despite the steady erosion of agricultural lands in Saanich and elsewhere on Vancouver Island, the Saanichton fair over the Labor Day weekend had the largest number of exhibits in its 110-year-old history.

Entries in nearly all sections — livestock, vegetables, flowers — were all up and filled all available space in buildings scattered about the fair grounds.

The steady increase in the number of exhibits, which year after year has shown no signs of levelling off, has Doug Miller, president of the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society, thinking about next year's fair.

"We will have to consider new buildings or renovating and improving existing ones," he said as thousands of visitors poured into the fair grounds.

Conveners of various sections reported the quality of the exhibits was exceptionally good.

Mrs. Sylvia Hutt, in charge of the horticultural exhibits, one of the most popular sections of the fair, said this summer's warm dry spell didn't effect the quality of most vegetables and flowers.

There was plenty of evidence of this, like the 125-pound squash which had visitors gaping, a sunflower 15 inches in diameter and some superb tomatoes.

"The display of vegetables is one of the best in years," said Victor Clive, in charge of the vegetable section.

He was particulary pleased with a unique display of herbs, as well as with the brocoli and cauliflower exhibits.

Some familiar long-time exhibitors competed against each other for cash prizes totalling more than $10,000.

One of these was Fred Handy, 67, who won his first prize in 1924 when he was attending school.

This year he concentrated on flowers and won several firsts in this division.

A unique breed of cattle was shown at the fair for the first time.

Davies said the white Charolais on exhibit was a yearling weighing 1,400 pounds.

"Next year he will be double that weight," she said.

She said the all-white Charolais is gentle, easy to handle and grows no horns.

The class called only for paintings of the native wild-flower — the Nootka rose — and attracted 11 entries.

The main attraction Saturday was the 4-H club competition in the judging classes and educational displays.

Other attractions included highland dancing events and poultry, rabbit and caged bird displays.

Drivers Save Boaters

Two Victoria couples owe their lives to the quick thinking of two provincial ambulance drivers following a boating incident Sunday in Saanich Inlet.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Omond of Marifield Avenue and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pinkston of Michigan Avenue were trolling in Omond's 21-foot cabin cruiser with only the stern canvas removed.

Gradually the fumes from the inboard-outboard motor began building up inside the cabin until finally all but Omond were unconscious.

Omond managed to steer the boat into Hall's Boathouse.

"I got the boat in and then walked my wife around — which was the wrong thing to do — and then I actually passed out," Omond said today.

He doesn't know who called the ambulance but says the two attendants were quick-witted enough to realise the four were overcome by carbon monoxide and took them immediately to the armed forces Fleet diving unit at Colwood where they were placed in the hypobaric chamber.

"They (the attendants) were fantastic. They really knew what they were doing," Omond said.

Dr. David Henderson, submarine diving medical officer who supervised the treatment at Colwood, also lauded the ambulance attendants for administering oxygen on the way to Colwood and the assistance given in the chamber itself.

He said treatment in the chamber had restored the two couples 10 times as fast as treatment could have worked under any other conditions.

Was Inner Tube Dunking Really Just an Accident?

"Did you do that on purpose?" Young sputtered from the water.

"Who me?" replied Couvelier.

And everybody laughed.

It was part of morning hijinx at the Esquimalt Rec Centre as the two mayors met to discuss the annual Great Inner Tube Race, which will be held Sunday.

As the race runs from Craigflower Bridge in Saanich to Gorge Park in Esquimalt, they are co-hosts of the event.

The two mayors decided to try their form on a tube and proved to be a good team.

"This isn't so hard," Couvelier said.

"Yeah, maybe we should go in it," Young said.

However, later he decided to leave it to the younger folks.

"But Esquimalt is going to win the men's doubles," Young said. "I've tossed out a challenge to Saanich and I say an Esquimalt team is going to win."

Young said he always participates in the Great Inner Tube Race in some way.

The only requirement is to fill out an official entry form in advance. Midnight tonight is the last chance to mail in the form to be absolutely sure it will arrive on time. However, Wednesday and Thursday they can be delivered to the Times in person or taken to any sporting goods store listed below. The stores also have official entry forms.

The entry form appears in today's Times on Page 14.

All proceeds go to assist amateur sport in the Greater Victoria area.

"I'm pleased to help with this event," Couvelier said before climbing aboard the inner tube this morning.

"Recreation is very important for our region, especially in Saanich. I don't care how many industrial parks we get in the municipality, we will basically always be a bedroom community. We must concentrate on recreation and other fulfilling activities."

The Great Inner Tube Race weekend gets under way Saturday night with the Tubers Ball at the Victoria Curling Rink at 8 p.m. It is couples only at $5 a couple.

At noon on Sunday a Tuber Parade under the direction of Nanaimo's Mayor Frank Ney will proceed from Gorge Park along Gorge Road to Craigflower Bridge. At 1 p.m. Sunday the first of three inner tube races starts

First race is women's doubles, followed 15 minutes later by mixed doubles and followed at 1:30 p.m. by men's doubles.

Trophies are awarded in all categories.

Relief on the Way For Court Jam-Up

By DEREK SIDENIUS
Times Staff

Relief is on the way for Victoria's beleaguered court system.

Dennis Sheppard, deputy attorney-general in charge of court administration, said in an interview plans are under way to bring in two more judges, one each for provincial and county court, and to expand the number of courtrooms in the Law Courts building on Burdett.

In addition, he said, consideration is being given to creating a special traffic court run by a justice of the peace or court referee to handle simple traffic matters. Such courts are now in operation in several locations around the province.

The announcements came in the wake of mounting criticism of the state of the courts here.

Last week Judge William Ostler, chief judge of the provincial courts in Victoria, said the courts are in an almost chaotic state.

He said trials are now being booked as far as next February and termed the backlog both severe and unacceptable.

Sheppard described the Victoria courts as "one of our trouble spots" and said cases are being set too far ahead. He said he would like to see cases cleared through the courts within 90 days.

"The system is working to its present capacity. It hasn't reached crisis proportions yet," he said. "But if we don't deal with the problems this fall, it could be a crisis next spring."

Sheppard said the appointment of another full-time provincial court judge should be made within the next six weeks. At present there are four full-time judges and one part-time.

He said the duties of the new judge will depend on how quickly the backlog of cases set for trial can be cleared up. The judge may eventually only sit in the Victoria court a few days a week and be used on other days visiting courts around the province when required.

Sheppard said a study is under way to determine how best to use space in the Law Courts that will become vacant when the offices of the superintendents of brokers and insurance move to Vancouver later this month.

At least one more courtroom may be created.

He said there is a very good possibility a third full-time county court judge will be assigned to the Victoria courts this fall.

"The courts here are becoming a much busier place than they've been in the past," he said.

In a move to relieve provincial court judges of simple traffic matters, the court services are looking for a suitable candidate to run a lay traffic court here similar to those in operation in Vancouver, Burnaby, Courtenay and Kamloops.

The lay courts are held in an informal office setting and presided over by a justice of the peace who hears traffic cases where the penalty on conviction excludes any chance of the defendant going to jail.

Sheppard also said he is hoping to expand the law clerk program next May to include one resident clerk for the county court in Vancouver and another for the county and supreme courts in Victoria.

Few Delays On Ferries

It was smooth sailing during the Labor Day weekend on most B.C. ferries.

The holiday is never much of a problem, according to B.C. Ferry Corporation traffic manager Bill Bouchard.

He said there were only about three one-hour waits on the Departure Bay run yesterday and no delays anywhere else.

A crunch wasn't expected and didn't materialize Monday night because most people headed home earlier in the day, he said.

The Thanksgiving weekend is the next real problem because the ferries will be operating on a reduced sailings schedule.

The fall schedule starts Wednesday, which means a cutback to 16 ferries from the 22 vessels working during the summer.

Off-peak passenger fares of $2 also go into effect tommorrow. Rates for car and driver will remain at $12.

A Lukewarm Welcome to September

SO THE ENDLESS SUMmer has ended after all. Those long, wonderful, sun-charged weeks are over, finished, done with. September is here. Labor Day has come and gone. The kids are back in school, and now is the time for all good men to shrug off their lazy-days torpor.

But before we leave it down the wind, a sigh for the summer that was.

Remember how its days came in, with first light infiltrating the east so early that night was no more than a gesture?

Remember the blue skies, no cloud in them bigger than a man's hand, and those watermelon-tinted sunsets that promised more of the same for each tomorrow?

Remember the good feel of heat on the skin, the casual summer clothes that now in these sterner airs seem ridiculously inadequate?

Good things, but things past. Like it or not — and I do have a sneaking fondness for this month of September — we must accept the fact of fall.

Now that life is real and earnest again, perhaps we should spare a glance at the world around us. Summer or no summer, it has been chugging along on its erratic course, with a strike here and a protest there, and a federal election in the offing.

It's easy to be cynical, especially when one learns that Victoria plans to substitute artificial holly for the genuine thorny article in its outdoor Christmas decorations this year.

But let nothing you dismay, especially since Ottawa has given us the bland assurance that inflation in recent months has eased off a trifle. This asserted easement is not obvious, and Lord knows the amount of groceries that $20 will buy remains pitifully small. Still, Ottawa's perceptions are tuned to catch the bat-squeak that our blunter ears might miss, and perhaps the claim of reduced inflation is more than mere press-agentry aimed at burnishing the tarnished image of government.

In view of the proposed federal government spending cutbacks, this may take a little doing. I'm all for cutting, but the federal axe does seem to be aimed at the agency which works to provide at last minimum protection against the ferocious brigandry of big business.

This is the Consumers' Association of Canada, which stands to lose its federal grants totalling about $400,000 annually.

To the consumer, which is to say, you and me, this is a move which cannot fail to give prices a most unwelcome boost.

The Consumers' Association since its inception has been our hard-working and vigilant watchdog. In effect, for a saving that's a mere flea-bite when laid aginst next year's projected, and whopping, $50 billion budget, the federal government is condemning us to a hike of many millions in the cost of our necessities.

Why this particular cut? Can it be that the Consumers' Association was doing its dollar-saving job rather too well?

It's hard in the face of government chicanery of this sort to maintain a cheerful mood. But life goes on, and we must even make the best of it.

Nature, at least, is prodigal, and I am looking forward to a seasonal chore that will help stock our supply shelves against the winter.

Oregon grapes don't grow just anywhere. It's necessary to find a high, dry everygreen woodland, not too thickly grown, where the plants with their spiky, bright-green leaves receive sun and shade in judicious measure.

The berries themselves are dusky-blue with a silvery bloom on them.

I doubt that life holds anything much better than a chunk of home-baked bread still hot from the oven, generously layered with Oregon grape jelly. One bite, and the worries of the world go skittering.
